McGovern Faces Humphrey In California Tuesday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sen. George McGovern rode a campaign train on a whistlestop tour Saturday, claiming the political tide is with him while Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey hunted presidential primary votes in Los Angeles.

Humphrey told blacks and union men he is the only proven "old friend" they have on the ballot in Tuesday's crucial California election.

McGovern had the momentum and was the heavy favorite three days before the balloting in a primary in which the prize may be the Democratic nomination for the White House.

McGovern and Humphrey meet again Sunday in a national television interview—but this time, they'll have company. The two top contenders appeared on CBS and NBC interview programs earlier. Rep. Shirley Chisholm of New York since has won a court order in Washington for equal time prior to the primary.

The American Broadcasting Co. then invited her, Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty and Mrs. George C. Wallace to join McGovern and Humphrey in a Sunday appearance on "Issues and Answers."

Later, an ABC spokesman said Gen. Taylor Hardin, Wallace's campaign manager, had agreed to represent the Alabama governor in the telecast.

It is to be broadcast at 5 p.m. EDT.

McGovern whistlestopped from Sacramento to Bakersfield, through the San Joaquin Valley, talking farm policy and politics.

The South Dakota senator told more than 1,000 people at Modesto that the primary Tuesday will show "an unstoppable tide" is running his way. He said it will take him to victory in the primary and at the Democratic National Convention.

McGovern advocated increased farm price supports, and assailed corporations he said "are hustling family farmers off the land."

Humphrey again downgraded an independent California poll that rated McGovern far ahead.

The Minnesota senator added that he still leads in national polls. "I'm running for President of the United States, not President of California," Humphrey said in a television interview.

Humphrey told Los Angeles Teamsters Union members that McGovern's proposed $1,000 income supplement plan would increase their taxes.

"You've worked too hard to have money passed around like that," he said.

Humphrey joined a group of black clerygmen in singing "We Shall Overcome," and then asked for their help in the final days of the campaign. "Go to your churches, go to your neighborhoods, talk to your people," he said.

McGovern said the Tuesday primary "could very well be one of the most important elections in American history," and said he expects to win it.

The winner will take away 271 presidential nominating votes, and if McGovern can approach the landslide forecast by public opinion surveys, it could propel him to first-ball victory at the Democratic National Convention five weeks hence.

Berlin Agreement Signed, Raising Hopes For Future

BERLIN (AP) — The Big Four put final touches on the long-sought Berlin agreement Saturday, leaving the city divided but raising hopes for a better future in the thawing East-West political climate.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko and their colleagues from France and Britain, Maurice Schumann and Sir Alec Douglas-Home, signed the last protocol in a friendly atmosphere at West Berlin's Allied Controll Council building.

As if to underscore the new freedom of movement provided for in the treaty, Rogers then drove to East Berlin for an hour's sightseeing and Gromyko flew to West Germany for an overnight stop in Bonn.

The apparently orchestrated gestures of good will also included announcement in Bonn of full diplomatic relations between West Germany and Poland and final ratification of Bonn's nonaggression treaties with Poland and the Soviet Union.

The treaties recognize the Oder-Neisse line as Poland's western border, officially laying to rest a dispute over German territorial losses that had envenomed relations between Bonn and the Communist bloc since World War II.

But for the people of Berlin — whose city is still split by the Communist wall — it was the protocol signing that held the most immediate significance.

Under its terms effective midnight Saturday, East Germany implements full-time visiting rights for West Berliners to the surrounding Communist-controlled countryside. Eased traffic controls practiced temporarily at Easter and Pentecost also go into full effect. In the two eight-day holiday periods, a million West Berliners, almost half the population, went into East Germany and East Berlin on their first visit in years.

The four powers, victorious over Nazi Germany in World War II, began their Berlin negotiations in March 1970. They initialed the broad agreement last September, marking the first accord on the troubled city since four-power control broke down in disagreement after the war. All-German agreements to fill in details followed, as well as Bonn's treaties with the Soviet Union and Poland under Chancellor Willy Brandt's policy of detention.

Black American Hijacker Takes Plane To Algeria

ALGIERS (AP) — A black American hijacker brought a commandeered U.S. jetliner and $500,000 in ransom money to Algeria Saturday night, ending a 7,000-mile trip across the United States and the Atlantic. Police here said he and his companion were unarmed.

The hijacker and the woman were taken into a police office at Maison Blanche airport for questioning, then to a hotel in Algiers. The hijacker was identified as William Holder, 23, of Oakland, Calif., and his companion as Katherine Mary Kerkow, 20.

They were reported to have asked for asylum and said they were members of the Black Panther movement, which has a base here. A number of Panthers were at the airport for the arrival of the Western Air Lines Boeing 720.

Algerian officials said earlier they might permit the couple to remain in the custody of the Panthers while the asylum question is being decided.

Algerian officials said the plane and its five crewmen would be allowed to leave as soon as possible. It was expected to depart during the night.

Holder, who described himself as a helicopter pilot, told a reporter, "I've got nothing to say—absolutely nothing to say."

No address was given for his companion, who was described as an American oceanography student.

The hijacker wore a white shirt and brown trousers and carried an attache case as he left the plane. The government news agency said his blonde companion was dressed in a red shirt and sky-blue pants.

The agency said in the attache case were two books and an empty razor box. The hijacker had told the airliner's pilot he had a bomb.

The couple carried the ransom money—$500,000 in $100, $50 and $20 bills—with them as they left the plane.

Police surrounded the silver and red plane when it landed. The control tower closed off access to the airfield but reopened it to normal traffic 10 minutes later.

The plane taxied to a runway area about a mile from the terminal. Two automobiles and three fire trucks accompanied it.

Armed security forces, deployed around the airport, kept newsmen away.

The U.S. charge d'affaires, William Eagleton, waited in the terminal and conferred with police and foreign ministry officials. Algeria broke off relations with the United States in 1967.

The hijacker, then wearing an Army captain's uniform, seized a Western Air Lines Boeing 727 during a flight from Los Angeles to Seattle. He freed about half the 90 passengers unharmed when the plane flew to San Francisco, where he collected the ransom, changed to the longer-distance 720 and ordered it to New York. The other passengers were released in New York Saturday. Then the plane flew to Algiers.

Among passengers on the 727 when it was commandeered was Ron Dellinger, 37, of Chula Vista, Calif., a senior chief yeoman in the Navy.

"We were passing Mt. Rainier and I saw him walking up the aisle with a hostess," said Dellinger of the hijacker. "The next

Arrest Follows Manhunt

RENO, Nev. (AP) — A Vietnam veteran and sport parachutist was arrested in a desert manhunt Saturday and arraigned on charges that he hijacked a United Air Lines jet Friday night, collected $200,000 ransom and bailed out over Nevada.

An "intensive search" was under way for the money, although some of it was reported left in the plane by the hijacker. The ransom was paid in $100 bills.

U.S. District Judge Bruce Thompson told the defendant, Rob D. Heady, 22, of Reno, at his arraignment that he faces a possible death penalty.

"The defendant admitted all the details of the incident," said the criminal complaint against the 6-foot, slender Heady, dressed in blue jeans for his brief court appearance. The formal charge included two counts of air piracy and three counts of interfering with crew members.

Asked about a possible motive, U.S. Atty. Raymond Little said "it looks like money to me." The defendant said he was not working and was broke and propertyless.

The judge set next Friday for a preliminary hearing and appointed two defense attorneys, Keith Lee Jr. and Nevada State Sen. Coe Swobe of Reno. Bond was set at $100,000 for Heady.

FBI agent Vern Loetterle said the hijacker, his head covered by a pillow cover with eye slits, commandeered the Boeing 727 Friday night after it arrived in Reno from New York en route to San Francisco and passengers had debarked.

Holding three stewardesses and two pilots hostage, he shifted to another UAL 727 when told the first plane was low on fuel and had a bad engine.

Minutes after the second plane took off, the hijacker jumped in darkness into remote sagebrush-covered hills near Lake Washoe, about 25 miles south of Reno.

Loetterle said Reno police officers nabbed Heady five hours later when he walked into an area near the lake where they had "staked out a suspect car."

He said a parachute, gun and clothing similar to what witnesses said the hijacker was wearing were found nearby.

Continue Attacks Over The North

SAIGON (AP) — American planes struck more than 250 times in North Vietnam and gunned down their 35th MIG interceptor this year, the U.S. Command reported Saturday.

As the air attacks continued, North Vietnamese troops increased pressure on Binh Dinh South Vietnam's central coast province with more than a million inhabitants and a vital rice crop.

Four artillery rounds landed on a South Vietnamese ammunition dump at Phu My, a district capital, sparking thunderous explosions for 3½ hours, Associated Press correspondent Michael Putzel reported.

Two U.S. advisers had already evacuated Phu My, 32 miles north of the Binh Dinh capital, Qui Nhon. Field reports described fighting there and also 80 miles south in Quang Ngai Province.

Officials said scores of U.S. Air Force, Navy and Marine aircraft blasted targets Friday in an area in North Vietnam stretching from Hanoi south to the key port of Vinh, destroying nine bridges, 43 supply buildings, 21 storage areas, 41 trucks and 36 boats.

Pilots used television-guided "smart" bombs.

Four Air Force F4 Phantoms escorting bombers about 50 miles south of the Chinese border tangled with two North Vietnamese MIG19s the U.S. Command said. One Phantom downed a MIG with 20mm cannon fire.

According to U.S. figures, the North Vietnamese have lost 35 aircraft this year against four U.S. planes shot down in aerial clashes. Since June 1965, statistics show, North Vietnam has lost 146 interceptors.

The command said no U.S. aircraft were lost Friday but downed planes are not announced if crews are believed alive. Capt. Roger C. Locher of Sabetha, Kan., was rescued Friday after 23 days hiding in North Vietnam.

In South Vietnam, defenders at the central highlands provincial capital of Kontum reported their quietest day since North Vietnamese troops seized parts of the town 10 days ago.

Seven enemy soldiers were killed. There were no South Vietnamese casualties despite sporadic attempts to clear some areas remaining under enemy control, spokesmen said.

There was shelling and some fighting along Highway 14 to Pleiku and North Vietnamese units mined and temporarily blocked Highway 19 linking Pleiku to Qui Nhon on the coast, field reports said.

Air action slowed Saturday because of thunderstorms, with Tropical Storm Mamie moving in over Da Nang.

Zumwalt Claims Challenge Serious

WASHINGTON (AP) — Firing back at critics who claim the Pentagon is crying wolf, the U.S. Navy's top admiral says the Soviet navy poses "a serious challenge to our previous superiority at sea."

Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr., chief of naval operations, accused Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., of using "biased and conceptually flawed" research to support Proxmire's assertions that the Pentagon misleads the American people about the present and future naval balance between the superpowers.

Zumwalt's 24-page letter and analysis, sent to Proxmire Friday and made public Saturday, was the Navy's first major counterattack in a growing dispute over the Nixon administration's plans to strengthen the U.S. fleet. Main target of critics, led by Proxmire, is a request for authority to spend $3.6 billion for new warships.

In a Senate speech May 25, Proxmire said the United States leads the Soviet Union in almost every naval category and that "current building programs will keep us on top."

In response, the Navy chief told Proxmire his conclusions overstate U.S. forces by including 127 ships that are under construction or requested for the future while listing only two Soviet ships being built.

"In actuality, we know that the Soviets have been building ships at a faster rate than the U.S. and that, over the past decade, have increased their shipbuilding capacity enormously," Zumwalt wrote.

"The statistics you have cited, therefore, compare a whole U.S. Navy that we would like to have in the 1980s, some of it not even yet approved by the Congress, with a portion of the Soviet fleet of today."

As it now stands, Zumwalt said, the Soviet navy has about 568 major surface combat ships and submarines compared to 378 for the United States.

Furthermore, Zumwalt said, the Soviet fleet is far newer than the U.S. Navy, with Russian vessels averaging nine years in age while U.S. Navy vessels are 16 years old on the average.

Zumwalt said he was "dismayed at the dubious quality of the analytical work on which some of your condemnation of the Defense Department was apparently based."

The data, Zumwalt alleged, "has been qualified or selected in such a way as to be misleading."

Opening of Pool At Centennial Park Is Postponed Again

The opening of the Centennial Park swimming pool has been postponed yet another week, to next Saturday, according to Mayor Jerry Jones.

"Little things, such as painting, concrete work on sidewalks, and the failure of some equipment, notably clothes baskets, to arrive on time," have caused the delay, Jones said.

A contractual penalty of $50 per day for each day the pool goes unopened beyond its original completion date has been enforced against the contractor, Homer Carr Construction Co., Carthage, Jones added.

He told The Democrat-Capital that the daily penalty clause has now been in effect since the last of April, with the total fine to be deducted from the original construction cost agreement.

Doubtful Federal Government Will Cut Wiretapping Activities

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's doubtful the federal government will cut back its wiretapping and eavesdropping activities because of a recent court ruling that the 1968 snooping law is unconstitutional, Justice Department sources indicated.

"We will continue to seek court orders and to make installations under them wherever it is legally permissible," a high Justice official said.

What this means is that the federal government will continue to apply to federal judges for permission to install secret listening devices and, whenever they are granted, install them, another source said.

U.S. District Court Judge Joseph S. Lord III of Philadelphia ruled last Thursday that the wiretapping and surveillance provision of the 1968 Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act is unconstitutional because it violates the Fourth Amendment to the Constitution, which prohibits unreasonable searches and seizures. U.S. Atty. Carl J. Melone said last Friday in Philadelphia the federal government is preparing an appeal.

But even in the Philadelphia area, a Justice source said, the federal government could evade the ruling and continue to eavesdrop on private conversations by applying to a different federal judge for permission. Philadelphia has over a dozen federal judges.

Under the law, the federal government cannot install a wiretap or hidden microphone unless it first receives permission from a federal judge. It also must be approved by the attorney general.

Justice Department spokesmen said that over a dozen district court cases and one court of appeals decision have upheld the law as constitutional. They cited these decisions as an indication the law is constitutional despite the Philadelphia decision, which one Justice source described as an "aberration."

It was not immediately known how the decision would affect the states. Only 19 states have enacted legislation enabling them to install taps or utilize electronic listening devices. Of these states, only 13 have applied for court permission to install them. They are Arizona, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Kansas, Maryland Massachusetts, Minnesota, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, Rhode Island and Wisconsin.

Campbell Behind Camera

Sedalian's Film Recognized

By MAX ERKILETIAN
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

"Is Your Future Technology?" a film produced by State Fair Community College instructor J. Gary Campbell, 616 West Fifth, will receive national recognition at the 1972 Communications Competition of the American College Public Relations Association in Minneapolis, Minn., July 17-19.

Completed in July, 1971, the six-month project was conducted by Campbell in place of a thesis to fulfill requirements for a Master of Science degree in industrial technology from Kansas State College, Pittsburg.

Announcement of Campbell's success was made in a letter from Harry Durham, co-chairman of the 1972 ACPRA communications competition. In the May letter, Durham noted Campbell's color-sound motion picture was selected from among 150 individual entries.

The film has been viewed on television in Kansas City, Wichita, Kan., and Pittsburg, Kan., according to Campbell. The 28-year-old automotive service program instructor added the six prints of the film at KSCP are presently used as part of that school's recruiting program, "being distributed to high schools throughout Kansas."

Campbell told The Democrat-Capital the film is being received well. A letter he received recently from KSCP said "they were just now filling last October's request" for use of the 16 millimeter motion picture.

The film is so popular, in fact, that Kansas State College had to borrow Campbell's copy of the 15 minute film to enter it in the ACPRA competition.

Campbell said the idea for the film came to him while he was working in a Chevrolet plant in Detroit, Mich. He said, "I had bought a super 8" and "was getting into film."

The mustached Campbell confessed some apprehension over the school's willingness to let him make a film in place of a thesis. However, he said, "What I didn't realize was Spence (Dr. William Spence, dean of KSCP School of Technology) was really into recruting students," and greeted Campbell's proposal with enthusiasm.

"I kept him (Spence) informed and had almost total free range," Campbell said. "We just sat down and reasoned out what we thought would work," Campbell said of his preparations for the motion picture.

Describing his creation, Campbell added, "It's really just a montage of quick sequences showing students involved in various activities of their curriculum." He also depicted the film as "extremely fast-paced" and a "visual catalogue of the 12 curriculums of the School of Technology at Kansas State College of Pittsburg."

Campbell recalled his plan for making the film required covering "as much as possible in the time allotted."

He said the movie was designed to be easy to show in a 50-minute high school class period without taxing the attention span of an audience.

No Definite Idea Of Wallace's Future

SILVER SPRING, Md. (AP) — Doctors have explained in some detail the condition of Gov. George C. Wallace's paralyzed legs. But will Wallace walk again? The doctors say nobody knows.

Dr. Joseph Schanno told a news conference Friday that several physicians have examined the wounded governor and "agree that there is the potential for significant residual paralysis; there is also the potential for a fair amount of recovery."

Of his chances of walking, Schanno said, "You can't ask us to play God. When you have neurological injuries, there are many things that come into play."

The Alabama governor and candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination remains immobilized at Holy Cross Hospital recovering from bullet wounds suffered May 15.

Candidates Field Questions

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Five Republican candidates for governor and lieutenant governor of Missouri faced questions from more than 300 persons at the Missouri Federation of Republican Women's convention Friday night.

The hottest issues were the possible loss of the state auditor's office to a Democrat and the St. Louis airport to Illinois.

Christopher Bond, state auditor, said he would appoint his successor if he is elected governor.

Disagreeing sharply was Rep. R.J. King Jr. of Clayton, also seeking the nomination for governor.

"Anyone holding an office could not be sworn in until they resigned their present office," King said. "No individual can hold two offices."

King said Gov. Warren E. Hearnes could appoint a Democrat as auditor between Bond's resignation and his being sworn in as governor.

Another gubernatorial candidate, Rep. Stephen Burns of Des Peres, said he understood the Democrats "have already bartered off who the auditor will be."

Bond pointed out that Hearnes did not resign as secretary of state before he was sworn in as governor for this first term. "When a man takes a second office, the first becomes vacant at that instant," he said. "At the instant I become governor, not before, the auditor's office would become vacant."

Two candidates for the nomination for lieutenant governor argued over the location for a proposed St. Louis airport. Joseph L. Badaracco, president of the St. Louis aldermen board, said he favored the Illinois site. Rep. William C. Phelps of Kansas City said "I can't imagine a lieutenant governor of Missouri promoting an airport in Illinois."

Badaracco said Missouri has not put up money or a more suitable site, and an Illinois location close to downtown St. Louis would be better than a distant Missouri site.

Phelps said, "I don't think we should lie down and let the major development in eastern Missouri in this decade go to Illinois."

Bond said the airport probably will go to Illinois because the Hearnes administration had made no plans to build one. "We are 10 years behind Illinois," Bond said. "It may be too late now."

Other candidates included Gene McNary, St. Louis County prosecutor, and Harvey F. Euge of St. Louis, both for governor; Rep. Marvin Kennon, Gregory Hansman of University City, and William B. Ewald, all for lieutenant governor.

McNary rejected the proposed state compensation for victims of violent crimes. He said the "real problem is to strengthen our justice system."

McNary suggested the state experiment with the welfare system.

"If the system is working," he said, "it should be reducing itself. We are failing miserably and we are destroying people."

Euge urged a review of aid to families with dependent children.

"Any woman should be entitled to one mistake," Euge said, "but when it comes to the second and third. . . ."

Kennon said "the tax burden is too high."

Ewald said he wants to attract more industry to Missouri.

Hansman said he favors a one-term limit for governor.

Spy Ship Warned Away From Mines

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. 7th Fleet said Saturday one of its destroyer escorts warned a Soviet spy ship away from the mined harbor of Vinh of North Vietnam's central Coast and got a Russian thanks in return.

The Navy said the destroyer escort McMorris signaled the Soviet surveillance trawler Izmeritell last Tuesday by flashing lights and flags.

The Russian trawler altered her course after the warning and signaled: "Thank you for your cooperation and have a pleasant voyage."

U.S. 7th Fleet ships have been patrolling the North Vietnamese coast and notifying other ships of mines dropped in major harbors by U.S. planes May 9.

Weight Gainer

Kathy L. McChesney puts the finishing touches on her campaign to gain weight Thursday as she downs some lasagne and other high calorie foods. Kathy, a graduate of Washington State University with a degree in police science and administration, passed all the written and oral exams for a policewoman's job with the King County Police Department with near perfect scores, but she was underweight. The civil service commission gave her a month to add the necessary three pounds to make the 98 pound minimum. She made the weight Thursday after force feeding herself for about three weeks. (UPI)

Q — Can you find out why the west side of Centennial Park has not been mowed yet this spring? The east side has been kept mowed regularly. I live next to the park and it is quite an ugly sight to live next to this overgrown weed patch. — K. H.

A — Jack Couts, superintendent of parks, told Hot Line that most of the west side of the park has been mowed. However, one area, he said, includes extremely rough terrain and requires the use of special mowing equipment.

Couts said the park's winter crew was still on duty due to budget difficulties. He said the summer crew was coming on now and, as soon as material used to build the new swimming pool at the park is removed, the area you mentioned would be mowed. "We hope to have everything clean and shining within a week or ten days," Couts said.

Q — How many county schools are there that the county superintendent of schools must supervise? — J.L.D.

A — George Thompson, superintendent of schools, told Hot Line that Dresden and Sweet Springs R-XII schools are still under his jurisdiction. "We need to get those schools closed," he said, but added such action would be impossible until state law is changed to force small county school districts to incorporate or add a high school.

In the meantime, he said, all records kept by such districts must be processed by the county superintendent of schools before being sent to the State Department of Education.

Q — Why aren't the mowers used by the Missouri Highway Department equipped with the "slow moving vehicle" warning signs as required by law? I saw three of them this morning and they only displayed the customary red flags. — L.H.W.

A — Roy Lane, state highway maintenance foreman in Sedalia, said all vehicles in District Four, which includes Sedalia and Otterville, are equipped with the warning signs. He added that the vehicles in question could possibly be from the neighboring District Five, but indicated this was not likely.

City Pension Plan Not Opposed

About 90 per cent of those responding to a Democrat-Capital survey concerning a retirement system for city employes indicated they favored adoption of such a plan, it was learned last week.

Readers were asked: "Mayor Jerry Jones has said he will recommend to the City Council that the city adopt the Missouri Local Government Employes Retirement (LAGERS) system to provide pensions for city workers. Would you favor such action?"

One unidentified reader said, "They (city employes) need a retirement plan the same as anyone else. While we're at it, we could say 'thank you' for all the improvements they have made in the past years."

A reader who asked to remain anonymous said he favored a city pension plan, but "I'm wondering if hospital employes are included in this."

On the negative side of the ledger, a life-long Sedalian wrote that he feared the pension plan would "increase our taxes again. We can't take too much of that anymore." He added that his income was at a fixed level, coming primarily from Social Security and a small railroad pension.

Another Sedalian said he would be opposed to the plan "unless the city uses money it already has."

Industries Must Obey, EPA Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Discarding its old use-your-own-judgment approach, the Environmental Protection Agency now says all industries will be required to apply whatever technology is broadly usable, regardless of the cost, to control water pollution.

A "best practicable" yardstick will become a nationwide bare-minimum requirement says John R. Quarles Jr., EPA assistant administrator for enforcement.

Where water-quality standards demand more money, time and effort to control pollution, they will be applied, Quarles said.

Quarles explained the EPA's new, unpublicized policy in an interview after The Associated Press obtained a copy of a letter he sent last May 25 to state antipollution officials.

He also disclosed that EPA is making a new attempt to give its regional officers clear instructions how to set discharge limits for each major category of industry.

EPA's first attempt at this collapsed last summer after The Associated Press disclosed that guidelines then in preparation were to be based on secret company-supplied information.

This time, Quarles said, when pollution abatement requirements hinge upon information on company production, "that information will be made public."

Instructions covering some industries have already gone out to regional EPA chiefs, he said.

EPA is currently awaiting action by Congress or a federal appeals court to let it begin issuing industrial discharge permits—the administration's chosen over-all method of controlling water pollution.

The program was stalled last December by a court decision requiring an environmental impact study for each of 20,000 proposed permits.

Asked to explain the "best practical control" concept, Quarles said he meant technology of demonstrated reliability, whose cost is low enough for general use.

Adoption of this policy, along with the instructions now being drafted, would give regional officials a clearer target in writing the thousands of industrial discharge permits, he said.

BUSINESS NEWS

Elizabeth H. McLaughlin, 1301 West Third, won first prize, a Garcia 5000 C reel and Garcia rod, in the "fishing contest" sponsored by the Third National Bank. Bob McDonald, a bank official, said Miss McLaughlin's guess "was right on the nose," concerning the number of total plastic worms in a brandy snifter.

Second place winners were Duane Brownfield, Versailles; James McCollough, 1612 East Ninth; and Hulda Means, 807 East 18th. They received Garcia 300 C spinning reels and Garcia rods.

The five third place winners received Abu 170 spinning reels and Garcia rods. The ten entrants placing fourth received tackle boxes and 15 fifth-place winners received landing nets.

4-H News

Nine 4-H delegates from Pettis County will join some 800 4-H members from over the state to attend the State 4-H Club Week June 6-9 at the University of Missouri-Columbia. They are Richard Hunter, Danny Lindsey, Mary Jo Westermier, Rita Westermier, Carolyn Dotson, Stephanie Schroeder, Carla Jackson, Lynn Runge and Nancy Darby.

The theme of the State 4-H Club Week is "4-H Bridges the Gap." Speaking at the convention will be Dr. Tex Sample, professor at Saint Paul's School of Theology, Kansas City, who will speak on "Bridges to Human Relations." James Kirkpatrick, secretary of state, will speak on democratic action, and Francis Pressly, director of international programs of the National 4-H Foundation, will discuss "4-H Bridges to International Citizenship."

Establish Statewide Job Banks

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Missouri now has a statewide system of job banks where job orders are updated daily by computer and distributed daily to the 40 local offices of the Division of Employment Security.

The final two banks for southeast Missouri and the capital area went into operation Thursday, involving 12 cities and 43 counties.

The southeast Missouri job bank covers officers in Cape Girardeau, Caruthersville, Kennett, Sikeston and Poplar Bluff. The capital area job bank includes offices at Jefferson City, Columbia, Hannibal, Kirksville, Marshall, Moberly and Mexico.

The first state job bank was established in St. Louis in June, 1969, followed by a Kansas City job bank in 1970 and a southwest Missouri bank last year. Any bank may make referrals from job listings received from other areas.

Announcing completion of the statewide network, Herman Julien, director of the Employment Security Division, said:

"The Missouri division is sixth among all state employment security agencies to establish job bank statewide.

"The function of the division's employment service is the filling of employers' job orders and the suitable placement of job-seekers in the state, those entering the labor force and returning servicemen as well as those unemployed workers hit by economic change.

"Job bank makes it possible to refer workers in areas where there are no job openings to an employer in another community where workers may be needed."

Tainted Food Big Problem

ROME (AP) — Contamination of food by chemicals has become a worldwide problem, the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization says.

A study prepared jointly with the World Health Organization calls for a continuous survey and monitoring of raw and processed food to detect contaminants and harmful additives.

While food has always been exposed to biological contamination, "chemical contamination, once largely local, has now become a worldwide problem," it says.

"Certain types of chemical contamination might cause irreparable damage to body organs, cancer, or may in certain cases cause defects in future generations."

The study lists different types of contaminants in food, such as mercury residue in fish, heavy metal contamination in canned fruits and vegetables, pesticide residues in root crops, meat and milk, and fecal pollution in shellfish or drinking water.

Emphasizing the financial loss caused by pollution, the report says: "In the United States, one-fifth of the area capable of growing shellfish has been closed because of increasing pollution. The annual loss runs into tens of millions of dollars. The closing of fishing waters in Canada and the United States because of mercury contamination has caused great losses to the fishermen and to the firms that processed the fish."

It also finds that millions of pounds of meat are condemned each year because of diseased condition or residues of pesticides and antibiotics.

SPEED READING COURSE TO BEGIN IN SEDALIA AREA

Arrangements have been made to conduct a 21-hour course in speed reading. The course is open to anyone above the age of 13 and guarantees every graduate a reading speed over 1,000 words per minute and with at least 15 per cent increase in comprehension.

After the seven week program a person can read any average length book in less than an hour and understand it better. In addition to speed reading the course also emphasizes improved study techniques, better test taking skills, and increased concentration and retention abilities.

The course requires a person to attend one class per week on the evening of their choice for those who would like more information, without obligation to enroll, a series of FREE one-hour orientation lectures have been scheduled.

These meetings are free to the public and the course will be explained in complete detail including entrance requirements, classroom procedures, tuition, class schedule and location. You need to attend only one of the meetings whichever is most convenient for you. These free one-hour orientations will be held as follows: Wednesday, June 7, 7:30-8:30 p.m.; Thursday, June 8, 7:30-8:30 p.m.; Friday, June 9, 7:30-8:30 p.m.

A final meeting Monday, June 12, 7:30-8:30 p.m.

These meetings will be held at Holiday Inn, Sedalia, Mo. Persons under 18 should be accompanied by a parent.

McGovern

California poll that rated McGovern the leader by 20 per cent, called the figures nonsense, and said even if he loses, he has no intention of folding his political tent.

California's is one of four primaries Tuesday, as the long season of Democratic balloting nears an end. It is the one that counts, the one that has claimed the biggest investment of campaign time and money and the one McGovern must win.

McGovern said he had not thought the spread between Humphrey and himself as great as the poll, by Field Research Corp., reported. But his own organization conducted a survey that showed him 16 percentage points ahead.

Strategists for the South Dakota senator, who vaulted out of the field when he started winning primaries two months ago, were concerned at forecasts that would set their California target too high, and take the edge off a narrower victory.

"I certainly wouldn't predict a 20 per cent spread," McGovern said, warning his forces against overconfidence.

In terms of nominating votes, Tuesday's margin makes no difference. The candidate whose slate leads the statewide contest wins all 271 delegates.

But political psychology is important, too, because no candidate will go to the Miami Beach, Fla., convention in command of the 1,509 delegates it will take to choose a challenger to President Nixon. McGovern hopes to have at least 1,300. A runaway victory in California could well give him the momentum to collect the rest from among uncommitted and wavering delegates, to capture nomination on the first call of the roll at Miami Beach.

An upset win by Humphrey would block the political surge of the South Dakota senator who came from far back in the field to assume the Democratic lead. It would point to a divided convention, and provide the political ammunition for more conservative Democrats who would like McGovern stopped.

A California write-in effort is under way for Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, partially paralyzed in an assassination attempt May 15. Wallace is third but far back in the polls.

His wife, Cornelia, and son, George Jr., both came to Los Angeles to ask for Wallace votes. He is not on the ballot.

In other Tuesday primaries, all of them overshadowed by California:

—New Jersey chooses 109 Democratic delegates, seven on statewide basis, the rest by counties. Delegate slates backing McGovern and Humphrey are the main contenders, with spokesmen for both candidates claiming their man will win 50 to 75 per cent of the delegation.

McGovern appears to have the lead, largely because of his potent organization in a state the candidates have only brushed with their personal campaigning. Humphrey is counting on organized labor and state party leaders.

McGovern's New Mexico organization has been at work for more than a year. Leaders of the Democratic organization there, too, tend to favor Humphrey.

thing we knew the pilot told us there was a passenger aboard who didn't want to land in Seattle."

The hijacker told the pilot, Jerome Juergenes, he had a bomb and three accomplices. The accomplices proved nonexistent, and no passenger said he saw a weapon.

Steve Leatherwood, 25, of San Diego, said the hijacker announced over the intercom: "SDS men, relax, our demands are being met. Everything is all right." A second message used the word "Weatherman."

The air pirate ordered the plane to San Francisco.

About 40 minutes after landing at San Francisco International Airport, the hijacker ordered the plane to take off again. It circled for two hours, while $500,000 cash was brought to the airport in a mail sack and the longer-range plane he demanded was flown from Las Vegas.

At the hijacker's direction, the pilot ordered everybody on the right side to get off the plane and board the larger aircraft.

But he told children, parents and elderly people they could stay in San Francisco if they wished.

The hijacker identified himself to FBI agents in San Francisco as Willie Holder, 24, according to an airlines spokesman.

About an hour after leaving San Francisco, the hijacker told the passengers they would be released in New York, said John Ridgeway, 22, of Seattle, who was traveling with his mother.

At Kennedy Airport in New York the hijacker ordered the plane turned around to face the terminal, rather than a blast fence at the end of the runway. Last July, an FBI sharpshooter shot and killed a hijacker from behind that fence.

Man Arrested For Damaging Auto

Donald Ray Salmons, 1615 South Lamine, was arrested for damaging and defacing the property of another early Saturday morning when he allegedly pulled several wires from under the hood of a 1963 Dodge owned by Richard Woodward while it was parked at 1611 South Lamine.

Salmons was released at 3:20 p.m. the same day, according to police records, on a $100 signed bond and scheduled for appearance in Municipal Court Monday.

Hijacker Surrenders To Embassy

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Four weeks after he allegedly bailed out of a hijacked plane over Central America with $303,000 in ransom, William Hahneman was flown here Saturday under FBI escort from Honduras after surrendering to U.S. embassy officials there.

Hahneman, 49, who according to a State Department spokesman in Washington had no money on him Saturday when he requested asylum and return to the United States, was flown to Miami International Airport aboard an Eastern Airlines DC9 sent specially to bring him back.

It was an Eastern Airlines jet that Hahneman, an electronics engineer, is accused of hijacking over Pennsylvania.

"We were quite happy to send a plane to bring him back," an Eastern official said.

Eastern officials said the $25,000 reward they had offered for the capture of the hijacker would be paid to an anonymous tipster.

The officials said the identification of Hahneman as the alleged hijacker was established from information supplied by the tipster who met in Miami with airline executives last weekend.

Officials refused to disclose his identification or give any other details except to say that "all his facts check."

Howard said that on the trip back Hahneman was "pleasant, calm and most talkative but we did not shake hands when we met."

Question

It is my understanding that you collect eyeglasses for shipment to a charitable group—please tell me about this.

Answer

There is a non-profit, charitable organization in Short Hills, New Jersey, known as "New Eyes for The Needy" for whom we have been collecting eye glasses that no longer have a useful purpose.

This organization has dedicated itself to gathering eye glasses from all over the United States and Canada for distribution to those people in this country and abroad who need corrective lenses but cannot afford to purchase them.

If you have eye glasses in your home that are no longer useful please drop them by our office and we will see that they are carefully packed and forwarded to this excellent philanthropic group.

Bad Trip on Drugs Changes Boy's Life

Dear Ann Landers: Some cats who read this will think it's a phony letter but any kid who is strung out on drugs will know it's on the level. And that's the kid I want to reach.

I started with pot — a little harmless smoking. Potheads laugh when they hear the squares say grass leads to stronger stuff. I laughed too, but I must admit that's the way it was with me. The second step was "only an experiment." I wanted to see how much acid I could drop before I blew my mind or it blew me. It was cool, man, like shaping up for a moon shot. I got everything together and than I called a buddy to sit with me in case I hit a bummer. This is the unwritten law for acid-heads. You gotta come when a buddy calls. The sitter smokes pot but he doesn't join you in needle art.

What happened in the next 24 hours I'll never know for sure but I woke up in a hospital. I got too much LSD on the second squirt. I ran out of the place onto the roof, trying to fly. Finally I crashed through a skylight. It took me three days to get it all together. Even then I wasn't sure who I was or what had happened. I made up my mind that God had given me a second chance to live. It was like coming back from the dead. I swore never to touch another needle, a cigaret, a pill, or a pipe, and to tell my story wherever I could get an audience of one. Thanks, Ann. — Reborn In Omaha

Dear Omaha: Your audience today is slightly larger. Would you believe 54 million? Thanks for telling your story.

Dear Ann Landers: Several months ago our son married a girl we were not very fond of, but we made up our minds to accept her and we have done so. Jeff and his wife live 700 miles from here. Before they moved, Jeff promised that he or his wife would write us a short letter every week instead of spending money on the long distance telephone.

They have kept their word. I would like to know, however, why a 22-year-old college graduate would start a letter to her in-laws with "Hello" and close with "So long for now." Can you explain this, please? My husband and I are baffled. — Riverside Readers

Dear Riv: It's obvious the girl is evading the traditional "Dear————" because you are not dear to her and she is letting you know it. Her casual close is a device for skirting the customary sentimental sign-off.

I hope the relationship improves, for your son's sake. I can feel the Arctic breezes from here.

Dear Ann Landers: You sometimes change your advice when your readers convince you you've made a mistake. I hope you will reconsider your answer to the woman who asked if she should tell her best friend that her husband is cheating.

I think it's stinking for the wife to be kept in ignorance while everyone else is whispering behind her back. What kind of friendship is it to keep your eyes covered, your ears plugged and your mouth shut?

A friend of mine has been cheated on like crazy for three months. Her husband is a doctor and he is having an affair with the nurse in his office. Everyone knows it but the man's wife. I haven't told her because my husband has made me promise I wouldn't. He says you are against telling the wife, too. Please change your views, Ann. I want to tell her as an act of kindness. — Des Moines

Dear D.M.: Don't do her any favors. It's a hundred-to-one bet she knows and is playing dumb so she can hold her head up. Permit her this dignity.

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How To Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to this newspaper.

Dr. John W. Emo

Sedalian Is Awarded His M.D. Degree

John W. Emo, son of Mrs. Rose L. Emo, 1420 South Osage, and the late Herbert W. Emo, received his Doctor of Medicine degree at St. Louis University School of Medicine Tuesday.

Dr. Emo, a graduate of Sacred Heart High School, received a bachelor of science degree from Rockhurst College, Kansas City. He is a member of Alpha Sigma Nu national Jesuit honor society and Phi Beta Pi medical fraternity.

He and his wife, Karen, will reside in Overland Park, Kan., where he will serve the first year of residency in family practice at the University of Kansas Medical Center.

Expresses Concern Over Viet Future

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Dr. Pat Smith returned from the battlefields of Vietnam, deposited two young adopted Montagnard children and promptly said she must get back to take care of her people.

The 45-year-old doctor, who has become known as the "grandmother" of the Montagnard tribesmen of South Vietnam, acknowledged Thursday night that she plainly was worried about the future of the beleaguered war zone area.

Dr. Smith's hospital in Kontum was overrun by the North Vietnamese offensive and so she pulled back to Pleiku, 25 miles to the south.

"Things in general are going to pieces," she told newsmen as she arrived from Honolulu on the last leg of her trip from Saigon.

"There are another new half-million refugees in South Vietnam. I had hopes for the South but I've been feeling very pessimistic lately. The North Vietnamese have a potential no one appraised rightly."

Despite the danger, Dr. Smith said she must return.

"I must get back to Pleiku, back to my people."

Dr. Smith, who cut her eyeteeth as a young physician volunteering for emergency work during bloody communal strife in Harlan County, Kentucky, is almost a legend in Vietnam where she has built up a medical reputation over a 13-year span.

"It's my life," she said.

The Seattle area where she was reared provides voluntary contributions up to $40,000 a year for the work she does in Indochina.

Dr. Smith brought with her 5-year-old Det and 3-year-old Wir, two Montagnard boys. Their mother was killed by a Viet Cong mortar shell and their father disappeared in combat.

Jerry Smith, a brother of the doctor who has five children of his own ranging from ages 5 to 21, will take care of the boys.

"What's two more?" he asked.

After getting her new wards settled, Dr. Smith said she would return to her hospital in Pleiku, now staffed by three American doctors, one American nurse, an American administrator and one Swiss nurse.

Acupuncture Seen As a Possibility

NEW YORK (AP) — The chairman of New York State's medical regulatory board has predicted that acupuncture could become an approved method of deadening pain for surgical procedures within two to five years.

Dr. Saul I. Heller, chairman of the state Board of Medicine, stressed Friday that the procedure in which needles are inserted into parts of the body is still experimental and not yet approved.

Heller spoke at a news conference.

Man Killed By Car

ODESSA, Mo. (AP) — Earl D. Cloughly, 40, Kansas City was killed Friday night when he was struck by a car on Interstate 70 about five miles west of Odessa.

The highway patrol said Cloughly apparently got out of his truck and was on the pavement when hit by a passing car.

Food Stamps Make Uncle Sam Largest Supermarket Customer

By JOHN T. WHEELER
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Of the 20 persons standing in lines at the supermarket checkout counters, 12 had no money to pay for the goods they had gathered to feed husbands and children during the coming days.

When their turn at the cash register came, only a few of the dozen passed the moment without some outward display of emotion.

An elderly woman moved her gaze from the floor to cast quick, almost guilty glances around as the final item was rung up.

A small man who had grown back into himself with age came through moments later, talking vaguely and to no one in particular of a son "high up in IBM." When he ruffled through his billfold, one lone dollar appeared briefly and was quickly passed over. The counter boy's grin was not friendly as he packed the man's two bags of groceries.

Still later an argument erupted at counter four. "Damn it, what do you mean I can't buy this steak and have butter if I want it. It's my right ain't it. I saved two months for this night. Gimme the steak at least."

An assistant manager intervened briefly. The man got his steak and butter. The clerk got a handful of coupons. Like the other 11 in the store, the man had paid with U.S. Department of Agriculture food stamps, grocery money for 11.1 million American poor.

The program to relieve hunger or prevent outright starvation among one out of every 20 Americans is expected to cost just over $2 billion this year. And those costs would roughly double if all Americans eligible for stamps signed up for them. That the program exists points up a major problem in modern American life. Stamps were born in the Great Depression, halted as unnecessary in World War II, and then restarted as a nation soaring to unprecedented affluence realized millions of fellow citizens had been left behind in hunger.

The potential for further explosive growth has led to many a nightmare for President Nixon's budget planners. Efforts to trim the program even slightly touched off instant congressional and popular uproars. Now there is an Administration backed bill in Congress that would abolish 90 per cent of the stamp program and could severely constrict the food budgets of those on welfare and the working poor who make up 40 per cent of those presently on food stamp rolls.

A major election year battle appears certain over stamps since the poor and their advocates in Congress want the program retained and expanded.

Those arguing for a larger and more generous program point out that the present assumed food budget for a family of four comes out to about 30 cents per person per meal.

The present food stamp program was initiated by the late President John F. Kennedy in 1961 but its greatest growth came under President Nixon.

Nixon, in calling for an expanded drive against hunger, told Congress in May, 1969: "Something very much like the honor of American Democracy is at issue.

"... America has come to the aid of one starving people after another. But the moment is at hand to put an end to hunger in America itself for all time.

"That hunger and malnutrition should persist in a land such as ours is embarassing and intolerable."

And yet, Department of Agriculture spokesmen say, antihunger programs have failed to reach millions who by federal standards are in nutritional need. Part of this is said to be due to the aversion of many persons to the welfare stigma attached to stamps. But state and local welfare agencies often are incapable or unwilling to expand their present food stamp workloads paid for almost entirely by Washington.

Welfare supporters also claim the President in 1972 is backpeddling on his promises of 1969 and cite the proposed abolition of food stamps among other plans to back their charge.

For instance the Agriculture Department under orders from the Administration proposed last year cutting off or drastically reducing food stamps for 2 million persons. It was first said that economy dictated the move, but then it was discovered that $200 million appropriated by Congress for the stamp program had been impounded by the Bureau of Management and Budget. Fifteen state governors, including some Republicans, sent representatives to a Connecticut caucus that denounced the move and accused the Administration of "retreating from the principle" of a "basic nutritional diet to indigent and needy families."

Critics noted that the now abandoned regulations would have favored poorer states, especially in the South and Midwest. As now constituted the program still discriminates against nearly all states which have especially high costs of living and thus high welfare checks to keep the poor going. This is because those buying stamps get the same "free bonus" based on the same income standards no matter whether the recipient lives in the most or least expensive states. This has raised charges that the stamp program is involved with political strategies.

However, critics of the program often fail to mention that under President Nixon, albeit often with sharp congressional prodding, the food stamp program has grown from $250 million in 1969 to an estimated $2.3 billion to $2.5 billion in the coming fiscal year. All food programs, including school lunches, milk programs and direct food distribution, have risen in the same period from $1.2 billion to an estimated $4.1 billion in fiscal 1973.

Those who can establish that their incomes fall below a certain level, $373 a month for the "average" family of four, can purchase stamps at less than their face value when cashed in the supermarket.

Those at the top income level can buy $112 worth of stamps for $88, getting what the Agriculture Department calls a $24 bonus. The same size family with $150 in monthly income gets its $112 in stamps for $41. At the bottom, those with $30 or less to run a family of four get their stamps free.

The stamps under the law can be used only to purchase food produced in the United States. Stores cannot legally permit purchases of soap and other kitchen items.

The average bonus per person is $13.64 per month, up from $6.50 several years ago.

Those lobbying to have the program expanded claim the allotment should be boosted to $134 per month for a family of four. Even this, these advocates say, does not take into consideration the sharply higher food costs since the diets were originally worked out.

Nutritionists in the Agriculture Department have recommended adopting such a diet in the past, but their concern was for calories rather than balanced budgets.

In principle the program is in its final phases of overhaul with firm federal standards going into effect July 1. Some states have said they cannot meet the target on all points, however.

The new program includes restrictions aimed at "hippies" and youths in communes which some congressmen call "free-loading kids." The restrictions also have cut off hundreds of thousands of more conventional poor from food stamp benefits.

Now all persons in a household who share the same living quarters and cooking facilities must be related to qualify for stamps. One ineligible person in such a household deprives all of benefits. Besides hippies this is aimed at unwed mothers living with their men. Excluded are those 60 or older prompting one Agriculture spokesman to note, "Apparently congress decided sin was okay if you are over 60."

Those who do qualify for food stamps must obtain Authorization to Purchase Cards from welfare offices. In some cases this can require days of waiting in lines to complete the application and then weeks of waiting for approval. Waiting in line is especially hard on the elderly, crippled and the working poor. Waiting for the card itself can mean in the most extreme cases near starvation.

Mrs. Sam Brown of the Community Nutrition Institute headquartered in Washington, said of the waiting: "It's really criminal in many places." She said in many areas her organization had found racism. Also, she added, welfare workers at the local level sometimes feel the poor should be made to pay in harassment for drawing on public funds.

The delays are out of the hands of federal officials since the programs are administered by state and local welfare agencies.

Those arguing for reform in welfare say millions of dollars in administrative costs and monumental amounts of hassle could be saved simply by tying all programs together, requiring recipients to register only once and deal through only one agency. Checks and food stamps then could be sent out monthly. At present most food stamp recipients must purchase their coupons monthly from special outlets, often miles from their homes.

The new federal regulations require that recipients request stamp payments deducted automatically from welfare checks and the stamps included with the monthly checks. Only 13 states and the District of Columbia have complied, most of the remainder saying the administrative costs of such a plan, including in many states massive computer reprogrammings, are prohibitive.

Aside from fears of staggering new administrative costs, some states may be hanging back, waiting for final congressional action on the welfare reform plan supported by President Nixon. The bill, sponsored by Rep. Wilbur Mills, the Democratic chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, presently is stalled in the Senate where it has been much amended and may die. Mills, a presidential hopeful, wants food stamps 90 per cent done away. Liberal congressmen and poverty lobbyists say this could create vast hardships.

The highly complicated bill, which also includes a boost in Social Security benefits, would allow states in effect to set their own level over certain federal minimal of what families logically would have to spend on grocery bills.

The Senate Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs said in a report this year the costs to many states to keep food budgets at the present level would run into tens of millions of dollars.

The report added: "Clearly the magnitude of these amounts raises serious questions as to whether the (bill's) assumption that all states will in fact choose to "cash out" food stamps (or provide food budgets at near the present level) is correct. If they do not, then the position of families regarding nutritional adequacy will be many times worse than is true under the present program.

"In 42 states the cash grant provided under (the bill) including the food stamp cashout is substandard in terms of nutritional adequacy. In those states families are clearly being put in the position of sacrificing food expenditures to other basic needs such as housing heat, clothing, transportation and health care. Under (the bill) these families are being put at a nutritional risk." In many areas the "average" budget of 30 cents per person per meal could fall to 16 cents, the report estimated.

An Agriculture Department source said while he did not have exact figures he considered the report's conclusions generally accurate.

Dr. Jean Mayer, Harvard University nutritionist and former food advisor to President Nixon, said of the bill: "It would be a tragic irony of the fight for a more decent welfare reform program if welfare reform in itself created hunger in America all over again. Instead of eliminating food stamps we should be ... expanding food stamps to cover every needy person."

The Nixon Administration earlier told a congressional committee that it would not want to see food stamps dropped until a welfare bill insured an income level far in excess of the Mills bill. Later Nixon declared at a White House Conference on Food, Nutrition and Health that he was philosophically opposed to food stamps. The President said: "The task of government is not to make decisions for you or for anyone. The task of government is to enable you to make decisions for yourselves.

"Our job is to get resources to the people in need and then to let them run their own lives."

Many welfare advocates also oppose the stamp program saying it is an unneeded further degradation of the poor. Still others claiming to represent the poor are calling for an expanded program that will put more groceries in the bags of the needy whether they like it or not.

"Let's face it," said one official source who asked not to be identified, "Aside from the small amount of cheating that is going on, food stamps mean food. A guy with a $50-a-day heroin habit may take the rent money and what ever else is around, but have you ever heard of a pusher taking food stamps? The likelihood is that the guy's kids are going to have something on the table at night to eat. Dump a once a month check for everything in his hands and where do you think the family is going to be three days later?"

Cheating is something that has plagued the food stamp program from the start and accelerated rapidly during the years of explosive expansion. Not only the recipients were involved. The Department of Agriculture reports there has been waste, official corruption, crime and even loan sharking.

Nathaniel Kossack, inspector general of the Agriculture Department, says theft of stamps from state and local gencies in from state and local agencies in the current fiscal year may see losses of $750,000 to $800,000.

Welfare workers also scoop up handfuls of coupons for their own use, and illegal use of stamps for non food items, ranging from soap to booze, continues to be a major problem, Kossack says.

But for all its problems, the Department of Agriculture argues the major thrust of the program to reach the poor has not been blunted.

The Senate Select Committee on Nutrition and Human needs, which includes not a few sharp critics of the Administration and the stamp program, concluded this year: "The program is clearly fulfilling its promise as the nation's best existing weapon against poverty-related hunger."

Farm Roundup

Farmers Equal Record-High Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department records show farmers in May equaled a record-high price average set more than two decades ago.

A report on farm prices and expenses issued Wednesday shows the historical "prices received" index in May was 313 per cent of its 1910-14 base. That was a 10-point jump from April, largely because of improved cattle and hog prices.

According to USDA records, the last time the index was so high was in February 1951 when it soared to 313 per cent. At that time, however, the inflationary spiral of the Korean War pushed up farm prices much faster than expenses.

As a result, according to the records, the "parity ratio" for February 1951 was 113 per cent. The ratio, which relates prices farmers receive to their costs, theoretically is in harmony at 100 per cent.

Now, however, the picture is much different. Farm costs have risen steadily for years, to new heights almost every month. In May the expense index was 428 per cent of the historic base, compared with about 275 in 1951.

Thus, in May the parity ratio was 73 per cent, up two points from April but far less than the glorious situation for farmers 21 years earlier.

The parity scale is viewed by many economists, including Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, as of little relative value in comparing today's farm situation with the past. Net income per farm, many believe, is a better indicator.

An illustration of how farm costs are rising was provided in the May report. Last month, for example, a new half-ton pickup truck cost an average of $4,280, up $180 from last November and $420 more than two years ago.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's hog-corn ratio, a measure of how well producers are doing on the market, increased sharply last month.

The Agriculture Department's price report for May put the ratio at 21.7 compared with 19.9 in April and 12.3 in May last year.

The ratio expresses in bushels the amount of corn equal in value to 100 pounds of hog on the hoof. Hog market prices averaged $24.90 per hundredweight at mid-May and corn was $1.15 per bushel.

A year earlier, hog prices averaged 7 per hundredweight and corn was $1.38 per bushel. Since then, however, hog producers have cut back sharply and the record 1971 corn crop has built up food supplies.

Thus, the ratio has improved substantially the past year. Economists do not believe producers will boost hog output sharply this year, but think some expansion will occur next winter if the hog-corn ratio remains near the current relatively high level.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Final statistics for 1970-71 show world wheat trade was the most in four years, the Agriculture Department reports.

The volume totaled 53.8 million metric tons, compared with 51.6 million in 1969-70, according to a report issued by the Foreign Agricultural Service.

Smaller wheat crops in Western Europe and the re-entry of the Soviet Union into the import market were cited as major factors in the increase, the report said.

As a result, the major wheat export nations were able to increase wheat shipments. Officials said Australia accounted for 26 per cent of the 1970-71 world wheat export increase; the United States 20 per cent; and Canada 28 per cent.

Shipments from Argentina, France and Spain declined because of reduced production.

Black militant H. Rap Brown, wearing a knit cap, leaves U.S. District Court in New Orleans under the careful scrutiny of numerous U.S. Deputy Marshals on his way back to a New York City jail. Brown, handcuffed, had just been sentenced by a U.S. judge to five years in prison and a $2,000 fine for a conviction on the illegal transportation of firearms. Brown, for many months a fugitive from Maryland in connection with a charge of arson and inciting a riot, was seized in New York City last year following a holdup and shootout. (UPI)

Farm Roundup

Preparing For Two Conventions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farm organizations are cranking up policy machinery for making specific recommendations to Republican and Democratic platform committees this summer on how best to lend a helping hand to farmers.

The National Farm Coalition — which represents many but not all farm groups—will meet Monday in St. Louis to exchange ideas on how best to approach the major political parties this election year.

Coalition members include the National Grange, National Farmers Union, National Farmers Organization and a number of regional and commodity organizations.

Fred V. Heinkel president of Midcontinent Farmers Association, is heading the coalition effort. Each of the member organizations he said, can make its own recommendations to the Democratic and GOP conventions.

Not included in the coalition is the American Farm Bureau Federation, which has been in support of many policy ideas of the Nixon administration.

Some of the coalition members, on the other hand, including the National Farmers Union, have sought major changes in basic government farm policies such as higher price supports on grain and a tougher approach to controlling crop acres.

Two years ago the coalition opposed a move by the administration for a new farm law built around the "set-aside" acreage concept. That effort failed, however, and Congress approvevd the set-aside principle in the Agricultural Act of 1970, which applies through next year.

Administration officials, including Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, claim the set-aside program is working well and that farmers have benefited. They have not, however, indicated publicly any planning details on programs after the current law expires.

Some Democratic spokesmen, meantime, say the administration should take further action now to help farmers and begin at once to work out plans for after 1973.

Concordia School Put On Probation

CLAYTON, Mo. (AP) — The American Associatin of Theological Schools announced Friday the placing of Concordia Seminary on two years' academic probation for lack of academic freedom.

By coincidence, the Missouri Synod of the Lutheran Church announced at the same time the dismissal of seminary professor Dr. Arlis Ehlen, center of a feud at the school for more than a year.

Dr. John H. Tietjen, president of the seminary, and synod president Dr. Jacob A.O. Preus had announced in April an agreement in teaching assignments for Ehlen.

An announcement by the AATS said a two-man investigative team had visited Concordia in March and "found evidences of serious infringement on the freedom of the Board of Control. . . to set policy for the institution and to govern it through the administration. . . ."

Lottery Is Opposed By Church

LEBANON, Ill. (AP) — The United Methodist Southern Illinois Conference has gone on record opposing any Illinois state lottery.

The group, meeting in its annual convention, adopted a resolution Friday "unalterably opposing" the proposed lottery. The resolution was proposed by the Rev. Donald Carlton of Effingham.

The resolution directed the conference secretary to write to Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie, urging him to veto any lottery measure that might be passed by the Legislature.

The Illinois House passed a lottery measure Thursday. If passed by the Senate and signed by Ogilvie, it would provide $100 million annually to the state, according to its sponsors.

Ogilvie, a critic of such propoals in the past, reportedly has softened his stand on a state lottery.

Speaking at a news conference Friday, he said, "I certainly favor measures to relieve the burden on taxpayers," and noted that New York and New Jersey have had "some success" with their state lotteries. Ogilvie said he will "wait and see" what happens to the bill in the Senate.

The lottery bill will be heard in a Senate committee next week, according to Sen. Cecil Partee, D-Chicago, president pro tem.

Nixon Trip 'Used' By U.S., China

FOUNTAINHEAD STATE LODGE, Okla. (AP) —Both the United States and the Peking governments used President Nixon's China trip as a "media message" for image-building, a reporter who made the trip told Oklahoma publishers Friday.

"For the cleanest brainwash you've ever seen, try Great Wall Soft Soap," Robert Boyd said in a parody of a television commercial technique.

He termed the trip "Nixon's Peking Primary," and said for the Chinese it was a "Great Wall of flackery"—flackery being journalistic slang for press-agent techniques.

Boyd, Washington bureau chief for the Knight newspapers, said there were positive aspects to the trip, as well, and he said the so-called "Spirit of Peking" would endure despite the intense fighting in Vietnam.

The state's publishers were gathered here for a convention of the Oklahoma Press Association.

Saturday's schedule included panels headed by Bill Rutherford of the Tulsa County News, Walter Handy of the Alva Review-Courier, Francis Langdon of the Tonkawa News and Bill Little of the Ada News.

Boyd accused the television networks of blatantly disguising network executives as "technicians" to get them included on the roster of the press corps for the China trip.

"Once in a while you'd see one of them carrying Walter Cronkite's briefcase," he told the publishers.

He said he saw one list of 17 supposedly technical people that actually included the names of 10 top television producers.

To Hold Hearing On Sale Proposal

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A hearing will be held Tuesday on the proposed sale of a controlling interest in Executive Security Life Insurance Co. of Springfield, Mo.

The purchaser would be the Roosevelt National Investment Co., a holding company at Springfield, Ill.

William Y. McCaskill, state insurance commissioner, said Friday he has invited policyholders, shareholders and the general public to attend the meeting in his office. He said Missouri law requires a hearing when a holding company tries to buy a Missouri insurance firm.

McCaskill said some shareholders had complained because Roosevelt National offered to buy a controlling interest from officers of Executive Security, but not the shares of other stockholders.

Last year an examination of Executive Security criticized high salaries and expenses of the firm, including such things as country club memberships.

Two MU Graduates Join Democrat's News Staff

Ron Jennings and Jack Schicht, both May graduates of the School of Journalism of the University of Missouri-Columbia, have joined the reporting staff of The Democrat.

Jennings, who also holds a B.A. degree in history from Northwest Missouri State University, Maryville, was previously employed by the Stanberry (Mo.) Headlight and the St. Joseph News-Press. He is a native of Stanberry, and graduated from high school there.

Schicht is a St. Louis native, and previously worked on the Neosho Daily News. He is a graduate of Lutheran High School South in St. Louis.

Both reporters also had experience on the Columbia Missourian while at the School of Journalism.

Jennings' primary responsibility will be coverage of governmental affairs, while Schicht will report on law enforcement agencies and the courts.

Linkletter In Error

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Insurance Director Kenneth DeShetler says entertainer Art Linkletter was mistaken when he reported that health insurance advertisements banned in Ohio had been approved earlier by a state commission.

"We don't have any state commission that approves those ads in advance," DeShetler said.

"We are not in a position to do that, and we don't want to be in that position."

DeShetler ordered the ads, featuring Linkletter, temporarily withdrawn, saying Linkletter was not telling the whole story about health insurance in the ads.

Linkletter, in Kansas City Friday to attend the Mid-West Health Congress, told an interviewer the National Home Life Assurance Co. is making changes in the ads to overcome objections of Ohio officials. Then he added:

"Here's the funny thing. These ads are submitted to a state commisson for approval before they are run. If they think the ads are wrong, why did they approve them in the first place?"

State officials objected to the fact that the ads failed to explain that the insurance payments would not begin until the sixth day of hospitalization and that they did not disclose that Linkletter was on the board of directors of National Liberty Corp., parent company of the insurance firm.

One-Car Accident Fatal for Driver

Reprieve Granted Workers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency has given the Ford Motor Co. and thousands of its workers a reprieve from the production shutdown feared after Ford admitted errors in antipollution testing.

EPA Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus announced Friday that he will permit Ford to distribute 1973 model cars under temporary certification.

But he said Ford will not be allowed to sell the cars until they pass final antipollution tests.

The situation arose when Ford told the EPA last month that 50,000-mile emission tests on its 1973 cars were in error.

Ruckelshaus said he could not grant full certification but agreed to temporary certification to avert a shutdown.

The new order allows the cars to be sent to dealers as soon as they pass a 4,000-mile antipollution test. They will be certified for sale only after passing the final test, he said.

Meanwhile, an EPA official in Ann Arbor, Mich., questioned the honesty of Ford officials in conducting the initial testing.

"In all earnestness, I must now say that I have questions in my mind about Ford's honesty," said Edward Brune, director of certification and surveillance at EPA's automotive pollution center in Ann Arbor.

A Ford spokesman denied that the company had deliberately falsified the tests.

Treatment of Trees Local Firm's Specialty

By JACK SCHICHT
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Five hundred years ago Leonardo da Vinci, the famous Florentine artist, architect and engineer, laid the groundwork for controlling Dutch elm disease when he invented a way to treat sick trees.

Leonardo's method was simply to drill a hole in the trunk of the sick tree, inject chemicals into the hole and then seal up the hole.

For 500 years, tree expert Del Kennedy says, this is the way tree specialists have treated trees internally. All too often, he says, this method has hindered rather than helped the recovery of the sick tree. The deep drilling kills many of the important cells and thus prevents the chemicals from working effectively.

But two years ago a firm in Burbank, Calif., the J. J. Mauget Co., devised a way to treat trees internally without harming the tree cells. It took the company 20 years to develop this new injection system.

"This is the first real breakthrough we've had since da Vinci in the tree injection, system," says Kennedy, the president of CLM National Inc., the Sedalia-based firm which distributes the product nationally for the Mauget Co. Headquarters are at 1805 West 18th.

At the same time the Mauget Co. was developing the tree injector system, the Du Pont Co. was developing a fungicide — Benlate benomyl — to combat Dutch elm disease.

The chemical originally was designed to be put into the soil and to come into contact with the tree's roots, but scientists at Du Pont devised a way to dilute the chemical so it could be used in the Mauget injector system.

New Treatment

(Democrat-Capital Photo)

Thus, Benlate could be injected directly into the sap stream of the tree and carried to all parts of the branches and twigs.

A study published two months ago by three tree experts at the University of Wisconsin states that Benlate "appears reasonably effective in protecting elm against fungal invasion via European bark beetle feeding" and "has some curative power against these infections if treated immediately after symptoms occur."

What makes injections of Benlate more effective than other chemicals designed to curb Dutch elm disease?

"Prior to Benlate, control measures emphasized the beetle and not the fungus," Kennedy says. The disease is caused by a fungus, not a beetle. The elm bark beetle's body is covered with a sticky fungus, he says, and when the beetle bores into the tree, the fungus spreads and clogs the water supply of the elm, causing the tree to wilt and die.

The principal behind the tree injection system is much like getting a shot at the doctor's office, Kennedy says. An inserting tool drives a six-inch piece of a narrow steel tube into the body of the elm. Attached to the tube is a plastic cup containing a premeasured quantity of Benlate. The Benlate seeps into the tree a little at a time.

Injector units are placed two inches apart around the circumference of the tree about four feet from the ground. This is to insure even distribution of the chemical. The units usually remain on the tree 24 hours.

Even though Benlate seems to be the first major breakthrough in the internal treatment of Dutch elm disease, it still is not a miracle drug, Kennedy says. The product will stop the disease only if fewer than five per cent of the leaves are dying, he added.

The main purpose of Benlate is to be a preventative and not a curative. One treatment will last a year.

Brothers Are Saved After Days at Sea

PANAMA CITY, Fla. (AP) — For seven days and seven nights, 24-year-old Clifford Gay Jr. told his young brother Roger the Lord would save them as they bobbed in the Gulf of Mexico in their tiny boat.

"Today He did," their jubilant mother said Friday night following their rescue.

"There has been so much thanking God and rejoicing around here that I haven't even had a chance to talk to them and find out what happened out there during that terrible week," said Jewel Gay, a member of the Parker Baptist church. "But there will be plenty of time for that now that my sons have come home again."

Clifford and his 10-year-old brother, Roger, were on a fishing expedition last Friday when the outboard motor ran out of gas.

They were rescued in the Gulf Friday by the fishing vessel Atlantic Queen, which spotted the Gays' boat drifting about 93 miles south of the Panama City sea buoy and some 60 miles south of Mexico Beach.

Death Toll At 5 After Shooting

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A 77-year-old woman died early Saturday, bringing to five the death toll in Monday's shootings at a Raleigh shopping center.

Jessie B. West of Raleigh died of a bullet wound in the head without regaining consciousness.

U.S. Sen. B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., was campaigning at the shopping center when the shootings occurred. But police said Jordan was not the target of the gunman, who killed three persons and wounded eight others before taking his own life with a .22-caliber rifle he had bought earlier in the day.

Birth Rate Decline Is Explained

WASHINGTON (AP) — Liberalized abortion laws, economic decline and women's lib are cited by population experts as some probable causes of the sharpest dip ever in the nation's birth rate.

The rate has almost declined to a point of zero population growth, according to a new report released Friday.

For the first three months of this year, the National Center for Health Statistics said, the birth rate was 15.8 children per 1,000 population. That compares with 17.6 per 1,000 for the same quarter last year and 17.3 for all of 1971.

Those figures mean that prior to the end of the first quarter of 1972 women in child-bearing ages are likely to have had in their lifetimes an estimated average of 2.145 children compared with 2.284 for all of 1971, said the center, a branch of the Census Bureau.

If that dips to a family size of 2.11 children over a woman's lifetime, according to population specialists, the country will level in population growth by about the year 2010.

Rescue U.S. Pilot From Viet Jungle

SAIGON (AP) — A U.S. Air Force pilot who for 23 days evaded North Vietnamese troops, some coming within 20 feet of his hideaway, was rescued by a fleet of planes and helicopters deep in enemy territory Friday.

"There didn't seem like much hope, but I never gave up," Capt. Roger C. Locher, 28, of Sabetha, Kan., said Saturday after he was lifted out by 30 to 40 aircraft under a hail of enemy gunfire in steep mountainous terrain northwest of Hanoi.

Locher, who is credited with shooting down three North Vietnamese MIG interceptors, was shot down May 10 on his 407th combat mission. The second crewman aboard the F4 is missing, the Air Force said.

"I'm a little weak but I'll pick it back up," said Locher, whose weight dropped from 180 pounds to 150 during the ordeal.

"I shaved a couple of times for the hell of it," he said in a telephone interview from his Thailand base. "There was nothing else to do. I used a surgical knife from my survival kit. I was getting to look pretty scrubby."

Locher still had several days growth of beard and a big grin when the rescue helicopter landed him at the base.

When Locher bailed out of his crippled Phantom, he kept moving.

"I ate assorted fruits from the trees and imagined they were steaks. I drank rain and stream water and imagined it was root beer. I was getting pretty hungry. But I never had any trouble sleeping, only when it rained."

Several times, Locher recalled, North Vietnamese troops got as close as 20 feet to his position but never detected him.

Locher could hear F4 jets screaming overhead as they streaked to their targets deep inside North Vietnam day after day.

But the pilots, alerted to listen to radio signals from Locher, didn't pick up his beeper until Thursday.

Locher has served 20 months as a combat pilot with 68 missions over North Vietnam and the rest over Laos and South Vietnam.

Man Who Sued Nixon On His Way to U.S.

SAIGON (AP) — Spec. 4 Ernest Dacosta, the American GI who opposes the Vietnam war so much that he sued President Nixon, has been sent home to the United States aboard a medical evacuation flight, military officials said today.

A U.S. Army spokesman said the 22-year-old Queens, N.Y., soldier underwent surgery for removal of a cyst on his lower back and doctors decided he should go home rather than return to the field. His tour was nearing completion anyway.

A machine-gunner with a 1st Air Cavalry Division reconnaissance platoon east of Saigon, Dacosta has a lawsuit pending against Nixon, charging that the President illegally escalated the war without congressional approval.

Must Give Chisholm Same Time

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two television networks have been ordered to make equal time available to Rep. Shirley Chisholm to counter televised appearances of her two top rivals for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ordered the Federal Communications Commission Friday to direct the Columbia Broadcasting System to provide a half hour of prime time to Mrs. Chisholm by June 5, the day preceding the crucial June 6 California presidential primary.

And it directed the FCC to order the American Broadcasting Co. to include Mrs. Chisholm in its June 4 program of Issues and Answers or provide her with a half hour of prime time.

Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and George McGovern of South Dakota have appeared together on shows telecast by CBS and the National Broadcasting Co. and they are scheduled guests Sunday on ABC's Issues and Answers program.

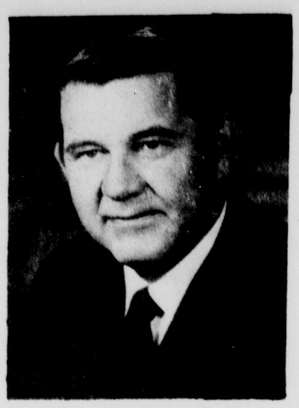
The FCC had turned down her request on grounds the Humphrey-McGovern appearances were not true debates. The agency said they were exempted from the equal-time rule as "bona fide news interviews."

The three-judge court overturned the FCC, saying the appearances were, indeed, debates.

Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles, also a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, also appealed to the FCC, and was similarly turned down.

He had been turned down earlier by a San Francisco federal appeals court and later sent telegrams to the networks and FCC Chairman Dean Burch demanding that he be included in any equal time order for Mrs. Chisholm.

Mrs. Chisholm, who was campaigning in Linden, N.J., Friday, said of the court decision: "This kind of victory is so meaningful to me because . . . I do not have the tremendous sums of money that people now seem to need to run for elective office in this country."



George W. Parker

Will Hold Dinner For Parker Here

George W. Parker, state representative of the 120th district and unopposed candidate for the Republican nomination for state treasurer, will be honored at an appreciation banquet at 6 p.m. June 15 at the Walnut Hills Country Club.

Wendell Smith, Parker's Pettis County campaign chairman, said the banquet will serve as a fund raising effort in behalf of Parker's bid for the state treasurer's post in November. Parker will be the princial speaker at the $8-a-plate affair.

Parker, a native of Nevada, Mo., is a veteran Air Force pilot and holds the distinguished Flying Cross and Purple Heart. He received the "Outstanding Freshman Legislator" award in 1968 and a similar award in 1970. Parker led legislative efforts to abolish the fee car license offices as well as the fee system of paying other county officials. He also introduced a bill to establish a state board to determine the amount of tax money to be invested at interest.

Invitations to the dinner have been mailed to persons in a nine county area. It is being sponsored by the Pettis County Grand Order of Pachyderms in cooperation with the Pettis County Federation of Republican Women, the Pettis County Republican Committee and the Sedalia Republican City Committee.

Favorable Action Is Expected

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders say they expect speedy ratification of the arms limitation agreements President Nixon brought home from the Moscow summit.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield and Republican leader Hugh Scott gave that assessment after they and a bipartisan group of 28 other House and Senate leaders were briefed on the accords Friday by Nixon and his national security adviser, Henry A. Kissinger.

Mansfield said he found the private briefing more persuasive than Nixon's nationally broadcast address to Congress Thursday night.

Excluded from the White House session, however, were all of the most vocal critics of the arms-limitation agreements.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said he expects the accords to be presented formally to Congress next week.

There are two sections: one limiting the Soviet Union and the United States to current levels of offensive missiles, including those under construction. That must be endorsed by a simple majority of the House and Senate.

The other agreement limiting each nation to two defensive antiballistic missile installations needs two-thirds approval of the Senate.

Critics have warned that the accords could permit the Soviet Union to establish nuclear arms superiority over the United States.

But Scott said Nixon and Kissinger "made the point that we are militarily so strong as not to be endangered" by the arms curbs.

School System Is Working For Answer to Segregation Claim

BOSTON (AP) — The city's public school system is working on an answer to charges it discriminates against black and Spanish-speaking students, a response that could affect $24 million in federal and state aid.

The school district, with 96,582 pupils the 29th largest in the nation, was cited Friday by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for a hearing on alleged racial discrimination and became the largest district outside the South to be called to a civil rights hearing. The district has a nonwhite enrollment of more than 35 per cent.

A hearing examiner could recommend that a request for about $10 million in federal aid be denied. The 1964 Civil Rights Act prohibits federal aid to any institution practicing discrimination. Some 4 million in state aid to the system already has been frozen under the state's racial imbalance law.

The district has 20 days to respond formally to the allegations, which the government says can be resolved without additional busing.

Boston School Committee Chairman James W. Hennigan Jr. denied HEW's charges Friday night and said he would seek state legislation to enable the city to borrow money to insure the opening of schools in September.

Hennigan, a candidate for Congress, also denied HEW charges that Boston officials had committed themselves last January to develop a voluntary plan to racially balance Boston schools.

He said officials had been asked to put forth a plan that would "require forced busing of Boston children and we feel that this is in contravention with the wishes of the people who elected us to the school committee."

J. Stanley Pottinger, director of HEW's Office for Civil Rights, in a hand-delivered letter to Ohrenberger, said he cited Boston after an 18-month investigation and six months of fruitless attempts to secure voluntary compliance.

HEW also said that 26 per cent of Spanish-speaking children between the mandatory state school attendance ages of 7 and 15 are not enrolled in city schools because of the district's alleged failure to employ attendance officers, teachers and other school personnel who speak Spanish.

Marceline Woman Dies in Accident

MENDON, Mo. (AP) — Mrs. Florence Staubus, 77, of Marceline, Mo., was fatally injured Friday night in a collision on a country road four miles east of this north central Missouri community.

The highway patrol said Mrs. Staubus died shortly after midnight Saturday, about four hours after a car in which she was riding with her husband collided with a car driven by Kenneth Jenkins, 33, of Mendon.

The husband, George Staubus, 79, was reported injured.

Claims Viet Bosses Are Controlling Drug Sales

WASHINGTON (AP) — A narcotics researcher has testified top South Vietnamese leaders control their nation's illegal drug trade and are profiting handsomely from heroin sales to American GIs.

Alfred W. McCoy, 26, said control of heroin and opium traffic in South Vietnam is split among the political organizations of President Nguyen Van Thieu, former Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, and Prime Minister Tran Van Khieum.

McCoy, a doctoral student in Southeast Asian history at Yale University, testified Friday before the Senate Appropriations Committee's subcommittee on foreign operations.

McCoy, son of a career Army officer, also said American officials have condoned and even cooperated with corrupt elements of Southeast Asia's illegal drug trade for political and military reasons.

In reply, a State Department spokesman said, "We are aware of these charges, but we have been unable to find any evidence to substantiate them, much less proof."

McCoy said the South Vietnamese narcotics ring has links with Corsican gangsters, with a Mafia family in Florida, and with scores of high-ranking military officers in South Vietnam, Laos, Cambodia and Thailand.

He said he interviewed officials for four months in Southeast Asia, for two months in Europe and for a year in the United States.

McCoy said that Santo Trafficante Jr., whom he identified as the heir to a Florida-based international crime syndicate, traveled to Saigon in 1968, contacted prominent members of Saigon's Corsican criminal syndicates and arranged increased imports of Asian heroin to the United States.

Yanks Capture 18-10 Slugfest

CHICAGO (AP) — Thurman Munson and Bobby Murcer clouted three-run homers in the 13th inning, highlighting an eight-run uprising that propelled the New York Yankees to a wild 18-10 slugfest victory over the Chicago White Sox Saturday.

The Yanks, who tied it 10-10 with a pair of ninth-inning runs, began the 13th off Bart Johnson, 0-3, with a single by Murcer and a walk by Roy White.

Jerry Kenney was safe on an error, winning reliefer Sparky Lyle, 2-0, doubled for a run. Horace Clarke singled for another, Rusty Torres walked, then Murcer came up for the second time against Johnson and unleashed his homer into the right field stands.

The teams combined for 30 hits, 18 by New York, with each team using six pitchers in the 4-hour 16-minute game.

The Yankees had tied it in the ninth on run-scoring singles by White and Ron Blomberg. But with the bases loaded and nobody out, reliever Steve Kealey got Kenney and Bernie Allen to ground into forceouts at the plate, than fanned Gene Michael.

Rick Reichardt gave Chicago a 4-0 lead with a three-run homer in the first inning and an RBI double in the third.

Javier's Single Sinks Phils, 6-5

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Julian Javier's tie-breaking single in the 10th inning carried the streaking Cincinnati Reds to a 6-5 victory over Philadelphia Saturday, extending the Phillies losing streak to seven games.

Ted Uhlaender began the one-out rally off Ken Reynolds, 0-2, with a single and took second on Bobby Tolan's single.

Darrell Brandon took over on the mound and Javier scored Uhlaender with the single to left that gave the Reds their sixth straight victory and eighth in nine games. The Phils have now lost 17 of their last 18 games.

Philadelphia jumped to a 5-0 lead against Wayne Simpson as Tommy Hutton homered in the first with two men on and Larry Bowa drilled a two-run triple in the third.

But the Reds, held scoreless on two hits through six innings by Steve Carlton, finally tied it in the ninth on Hal McRae's one-out homer.

Johnny Bench got the Reds on the scoreboard in the seventh inning with his 13th home run of the season. It was also his seventh in five games, tying a National League record set in 1929 by Jim Bottomley of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Cincinnati added two more runs in the seventh as George Foster doubled and Javier homered, then cut the Phils' lead to 5-4 in the eighth as Joe Morgan doubled off Carlton and Tony Perez tripled off reliever Dick Selma.

Young Hopeful

David Knapp, Atlanta, strains for a few more inches in the long jump event at the Atlanta Track Classic Saturday. Knapp is considered as one of the young hopefuls for Olympic competition in four years. Knapp's jump of 49'1½" was not enough to win this event.

Mo-Valley Conference Keeping 14 on Schedule

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Missouri Valley Conference voted Saturday to continue a 14-game championship basketball schedule for the 1973-74 and 1974-75 seasons.

Both seasons are based on ten teams competing for the league title. While the schedules will be made on a divisional basis, a single set of standings will be used to figure the championship.

The league also clarified its by-laws in case of two-team ties such as the one last season between Louisville and Memphis State. Under the change, if one team should win both regular season games from an opponent and a tie still exist, the winner would go the NCAA tournament. Any other tie would require a playoff and new Commissioner Al (Mickey) Holmes was authorized to spell out the particulars for such playoffs.

The conference voted to hold its indoor track meet at Drake next year, at Memphis State in 1974 and West Texas in 1975.

The golf tournament was expanded to a 54-hole, three-day affair and will be at New Mexico State next year, North Texas in 1974 and Wichita in 1975.

The league also voted to continue its baseball championship on a tournament basis.

Five Chiefs' Players Head S-M Entry List

The annual Snoden-Mize Sporting Goods Golf Tournament will be held tomorrow at the Walnut Hills Country Club.

Heading the celebrity field this year will be eight members of the Kansas City Chiefs, five of whom are players. They include reserve quarterback Mike Livingston, defensive tackle Buck Buchanan, cornerback Emmett Thomas, safety Jim Kearney and this year's first-round draft choice Jeff Kinney from the national collegiate champion University of Nebraska football team.

Tom Pratt, the defensive line coach; Tom Bettis, the defensive backfield coach and equipment manager Bobby Yarbrough will also represent the Chiefs.

In addition, Gus Otto of the Oakland Raiders, will be in the field.

S-M holds the tournament each year for the area high school and college coaches and administrators.

MIAA Baseball Nod Goes To Bob Pledge

(Democrat-Capital Service)

ST. LOUIS — Bob Pledge, a freshman this past season on the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association baseball champion University of Missouri at Rolla, has been named to the MIAA's All-Star Team.

The fastballing righthander, son of Mr. and Mrs., A. H. Pledge of 1813 West 10th, posted a won-lost record of 6-2 in his first season of collegiate competition.

Three of Pledge's teammates, Steve Munzert, Dale Walling and Steve Biederman, were also selected on the squad.

Atlas, Kirby Meet In Grudge Match

A grudge match between Natureboy Kirby and Omar Atlas, two pro wrestlers working toward title shots, is the main event Tuesday night at Convention Hall. The pair will clash in a best of three falls test with a 60-minute time limit.

Mixed tag team action is also scheduled. Frank Diamond will side with Betty Niccoli to oppose Danny Little Bear and Jean Antone.

The 275-pound Stomper will take on Yasu Fuji in the special event. Little Bear and Diamond are set to tangle in the 8:30 p.m. opener.

Attention Baseball, Softball Leagues

The Sedalia Democrat-Capital's sports department will accept results from local and area baseball and softball teams, if those results are submitted in person or by telephone prior to 8:30 a.m. the morning after games are played. The office is closed on Sunday.

The Democrat-Capital office is open until 11 p.m. daily except Sunday for persons wishing to call or drop off results of games that night.

The sports department opens at 6:30 a.m.; calls or information submitted in person will be accepted until 8:30 a.m.

Forms are available for those persons wishing to use them. They may be obtained at the sports desk.

Leagues may submit weekly standings, which will be accepted upon completion of that week's schedule.

Royals Will Host Sedalia Boys Club

The Kansas City Royals will host the Sedalia Boys Club at a home contest June 26 against the Chicago White Sox, in Municipal Stadium.

Members of the local club wishing to attend the game should contact the Boys Club headquarters at 826-7682 or Palmer Nichols at 826-3506.

Tiger HR's Clip Twins

DETROIT (AP) — Gates Brown and Dick McAuliffe crashed upper-deck home runs in the first two innings to power the Detroit Tigers to a 5-3 victory over the Minnesota Twins Saturday.

Joe Niekro gave up five consecutive hits in the first inning, but got out of the jam after two runs scored and subdued the Twins with three hits the rest of the way for his first victory.

Harmon Killebrew homered off him in the eighth, the 521st of Killebrew's career to tie Ted Williams for sixth on the all-time list.

Brown tied the score in the bottom of the first when he socked his third homer into the upper right field seats after Aurelio Rodriluez singled off Jim Perry, 4-4.

McAuliffe hit his second homer in the second after Tom Haller walked and Niekro beat out an infield hit. The victory kept Detroit atop the American League East.

A base-running mixup helped Niekro out of the fiest-inning. Danny Thompson tripled with one out and scored on Rod Carew's single. Harmon Killebrew singled Carew to third and Steve Braun's single scored Carew.

When Bob Darwin singled to short center, Killebrew stopped at third but Braun also headed for third. Killebrew had to start again and was run down easily.

Blundy Holds Slim Sprint Points Lead

(Democrat-Capital Service)

DES MOINES, Iowa — Two-time International Motor Contest Association sprint car champion Jerry Blundy, Galesburg, Ill., still holds a slim lead over Kansas City's Ray Lee Goodwin in that division's standings.

Blundy has tallied 905 points, 10 more than Goodwin's 895.

Third place belongs to Bill Casella, Weirton, W. Va., while Jan Opperman, Beaver Crossing, Neb., is in fourth.

Bill Utz, Sedalia, with his sixth-place finish in last week's Sedalia Jaycees-IMCA Memorial Classic at the Missouri State Fairgrounds, has a total of 250, good for 16th place in the current standings.

In the IMCA's stock car division, Irv Janey, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, has a strong lead over Gerry Harrison, Topeka, Kan. Janey has a total of 410 points; Harrison, 240. Thurman Lovejoy, Kansas City, is third, while fourth belongs to Don Simpson, Kentwood, La.

Stratman, Lock Star on Mound In Junior BR

DeWayne Stratman getting his first start of the season for ADCO in Junior Babe Ruth League action Friday night, hurled a one-hitter and guided ADCO to an 8-0 victory over Third National Bank.

In the night's opening contest, Tony Lock took command with both his arm and his bat as he spun a three-hit, 5-2 victory for S-M Sporting Goods over VFW.

Lock cracked out his third home run in the last two games in the seventh inning. He leads the league in that department.

Lock struck out 18 of the 27 batters that he faced in the game.

Dave Lewis was the losing hurler for Third National Bank; Mike Marcum was chalked with the loss in VFW's loss to S-M.

Sectionals End Tuesday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sectional qualifying Monday and Tuesday at 13 sites will complete the 150-man field for the U.S. Open Golf Championship at Pebble Beach, Calif., June 15-18.

With 35 players exempt from qualifying, 845 players will compete for the 115 remaining places. There were 4,252 original entries, already whittled down by local qualifying.

The strongest sectional field will be at Charlotte, N.C., site of this week-end tour tournament. There 64 will vie for 30 spots.

A strong group will compete at Philadelphia Tuesday. They include Gardner Dickinson, Deane Beman, Marty Fleckman, Lee Elder, Dale Douglass, Pete Brown, David Graham, Grier Jones, George Knudson, Bob Shaw and amateurs Marvin Giles III and William Hyndman III. A field of 105 are shooting for 21 berths.

Former Open champion Jack Fleck and former PGA winner Al Geiberger are in the list of 115 seeking 11 places Monday at San Francisco.

The other qualifying sites, with total players and number of qualifying spots: Monday—Denver 34-3; Chicago 79-7; Cincinnati 45-4; Portland 31-3 and Dallas 81-8. Tuesday—Atlanta 56-6; Birmingham 35-3; St. Louis 51-5; Greenwich, Conn. 102-10; Pittsburgh 47-4.

Still the best buy of the 500s.

Gilbert Maintains Stroke Edge

Lee "Super Mex" Trevino ...
... a government report headache

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Gibby Gilbert maintained a one-stroke lead with a one-under-par 71 Saturday in the third round of the $175,000 Kemper Open Golf Tournament.

Gilbert, slump-ridden all this season and a non-winner on the tour for the past two years, had a 54-hole score of 206, 10 under par on the 7,278-yard Quail Hollow Country Club course.

Lee Trevino, one of the game's most feared competitors, moved into contention, one stroke back, with his third consecutive 69.

Trevino, winner of the Danny Thomas-Memphis Open two weeks ago, was tied at 207 with veteran Doug Sanders and first-round leader Cesar Sanudo, each of whom had a 71.

Australian veteran Bruce Crampton and Dave Hill were next at 208. Crampton shot a 67 and Hill matched par 72 on the hot and sunny day.

There were seven more players at 209. That put a total of 13 players locked within three strokes of each other going into the final 18 holes in the chase for a $35,000 first prize.

In that group—very, very much in contention—were South African Gary Player, defending champion Tom Weiskopf, Australian Bruce Devlin, Tom Shaw, Kermit Zarley, Labron Harris and veteran Billy Casper.

Casper, one stroke off the pace when the day started, bogeyed the 17th hole for a 73. Weiskopf, who had an eagle two in his round, and Devlin came out of the pack with 66s.

Player had a 70. Shaw had a 70 and Zarley 71.

Arnold Palmer, who just made the cut for the final two rounds, managed a 71 but appeared out of title contention with a 216, 10 strokes off the pace.

Jack Nicklaus is not competing, taking time off from the tour to prepare for the United States Open Championship in two weeks.

Sanudo, a Mexican-born American citizen, had to birdie the last hole from 15 feet to gain his share of second. He's seeking his first title on the major tour in a four-year career.

The graying, veteran Sanders moved to within one shot when he stroked a four iron to five feet on the final hole and made it.

"I'm playing a lot more consistently than I have in a long time," declared Sanders, a flashy dresser whose colorful outfits have earned him the nickname 'the walking rainbow.'"

Trevino, too, talked about his putting.

"I feel good about it now. I can see the line real good, I'm rolling it good. I just feel like I can make 'em all. And I'm making all those little four and five footers. Those are the ones that count.

"I think I can tie with another 69 and win with a 68. And I think I can shoot a 68. At least, I hope so."

Gilbert, winner of more than $60,000 in each of the last two seasons but making less than expenses this year, dropped back into a tie—at one point six players were locked for the lead at eight under par—when he scrambled over the first nine holes and turned one over at 37.

French Finalists Surprise Experts

PARIS (AP) — Andres Gimeno of Spain and Patrick Proisy of France, both rated unlikely candidates to succeed when the tournament started, reached the final of the men's singles Saturday in the $100,000 French Open tennis championships.

Proisy, 22, who is ranked No. 3 in France, beat Manuel Orantes of Spain 6-3, 7-5, 6-2, before a cheering near capacity crowd of 12,000 on the center court at Roland Garros Stadium.

Gimeno, 34, defeated Alex Metreveli of Russia 4-6, 6-3, 6-1, 2-6, 6-3, in a battle of long rallies from the baseline that were spiced with only a few of the brilliant shots that marked the Proisy-Orantes match.

For Orantes, seeded No. 4, the loss broke a victory string that started early in April and carried him to the Italian and Belgian championships, and a victory in the France-Spain Davis Cup series. Only two weeks ago, Orantes demolished Proisy in straight sets in Davis Cup play on this same court, allowing the Frenchman only three games.

Mrs. Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., and Betty Stove of Holland won the women's doubles championship by beating Nell Truman and Winnie Shaw of Britain 6-1, 6-2, in 35 minutes. Mrs. King and Miss Stove had far too much power and experience for the British team.

Mrs. King, the top ranked United States player, will meet Australia's Evonne Goolagong, the defending champion, in the final of the women's singles Sunday. They played the Wimbledon final last year and Miss Goolagong won in straight sets.

It was Proisy who dealt Orantes his last defeat, in the Spanish championships in Madrid, almost two months ago.

The final will bring together Proisy, the No. 9 seed, and Gimeno, the No. 6 seed. This will be the first appearance of a Frenchman in the French final since Pierre Darmon lost to Roy Emerson of Australia in 1963. No Spaniard has made the final since the 1964 victory by Manuel Santana.

Sports Fans Set Records In 1971

The statistics were compiled by Triangle Publications Inc., publisher of the Daily Racing Form.

Thoroughbred tracks drew 46,750,643 fans and 30,203,645 turned out for the trots for a total attendance of 76,954,288 and an increase of 2,921,871 over 1970.

Automobile racing was a distant second with an estimated 43,700,000 fans, up 1.2 million from 1970.

A close race for third place on the spectator scoresheet shaped up between football and baseball, but for the fifth straight year football won on the basis of attracting nearly 31.5 million fans to college games alone. Including college and pro regular season and post-season attendance, the sport drew 42,039,065, an increase of 1,622,788.

Baseball, both minor and major plus the playoffs and World Series, drew 41,256,145 fans, up 1,337,821 from 1970.

College and pro basketball, including the professional post-season play, drew 32,603,034 fans as the No. 5 sport but enjoyed an increase of 2,684,019, second only to horse racing.

Hockey was next on the list with the National Hockey League attracting 7,965,310, some 1.5 million more than the previous year. But figures for the Stanley Cup playoffs were not included in the statistics. With minor leagues, amateur and college games included, the sport totaled 17,022,190 fans, up 2,211,551 over the previous year.

At the bottom of the list were greyhound racing, 13,666,462, up 988,016; soccer, 4,794,070, up 513,600; wrestling, 3,892,014, up 328,012 and boxing 2,341,116, up 188,054.

Professional golf and tennis, despite their rich purses, were not among the frontrunners.

Pro Baseball Free Agent Draft Set

NEW YORK (AP) — Professional baseball clubs will be looking for the likes of Burt Hooton when the eighth summer free agent draft will be held here Tuesday and Wednesday.

Hooton, the Texan who hurled a no-hitter for the Chicago Cubs earlier this season, was one of the plums of last season's picks and pitchers are expected to dominate the first-round draft this year.

Among those expected to be grabbed initially by American and National League clubs in inverse order of their 1971 finish, are right-handers Bob Grossman from the University of Maryland; Larry Christiansen from Marysville, Wash, and Dick Ruthven from Fresno State and left-hander Scott MacGregor of El Segundo, Calif.

Others expected to be in demand in the first round of the regular draft are third basemen Dave Calk of the University of Texas and Roy Howell, Lompoc, Cali.; Dave Roberts, University of Oregon, and Richard Manning, Niagara Falls, N.Y., and catchers Richard Bengston, Peoria, Ill., and Bobby Goodman, Memphis, Tenn.

In the regular phase of the draft, the San Diego Padres, cellar-dwellers in the National League last year, will have first pick, followed by the Cleveland Indians, poorest performers in the AL last season.

Others, in order of selection: Philadelphia, Texas, Montreal, Milwaukee, Cincinnati, Minnesota, Houston, California, Atlanta, Chicago White Sox, New York Mets, New York Yankees, Chicago Cubs, Boston, Los Angeles, Kansas City, San Francisco, Detroit, St. Louis, Oakland, world champion Pittsburgh and AL pennant winner Baltimore.

In the secondary phase, determined by drawings, Los Angeles will go first, followed by Cleveland, the Mets, Texas and San Diego.

Others, in order, are California, Houston, Kansas City, Cincinnati, Milwaukee, Atlanta, Detroit, Montreal, Yankees, Cubs, White Sox, Philadelphia, Minnesota, San Francisco, Boston, St. Louis, Baltimore, Pittsburgh and Oakland.

Angels Power Past Indians On Homers

CLEVELAND (AP) — Home runs by Leroy Stanton and Kan McMullen helped power the California Angels past the Cleveland Indians 8-4 Saturday for their fifth straight victory.

Stanton's two-run homer capped California's four-run rally in the first inning. Then, after the Indians tied the score at 4-4 in a fourth-inning outburst keyed by Eddie Leon's three-run homer, McMullen hit a two-run shot in the fifth.

The Angels added two insurance runs in the ninth inning on a run-scoring double by Sandy Alomar and an RBI single by Vada Pinson.

McMullen's homer, his second in two games, followed Pinson's infield single and was delivered off reliever Steve Hargan, who was charged with the loss.

The Angels' winner was Rudy May, who took over for Nolan Ryan in the fourth.

Ryan had control problems as he walked five, including Graig Nettles prior to Leon's homer. The other Cleveland run, also charged to Ryan, came on Tom McCraw's triple and Jack Brohamer's single.

The defeat was the Indians' ninth in 10 games, and 10th in their last 12.

Pirates Slip Past San Francisco, 4-3

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Al Oliver's two-run double in the seventh inning highlighted a three-run rally that lifted the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 4-3 victory over the San Francisco Giants in a nationally televised game Saturday.

The Giants had taken a 2-1 lead in the sixth when Willie McCovey celebrated his return to action with a two-run homer.

Roberto Clemente then lashed a run-scoring single to center before Willie Stargell's infield single chased San Francisco starter Sam McDowell, 6-3.

Jose Pagan's homer gave the Pirates a 1-0 lead in the fifth before McCovey, hitless in his first two trips, lined a 375-foot two-out homer in the sixth.

McCovey, who had not played since suffering a broken arm April 18, walloped a pair of homers off World Series hero Blass, in the 1971 National League playoffs.

Lucas Finds Specialty In Steeplechase Event

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Joe Lucas ran his first 3,000-meter steeplechase two years ago, winning in 9:28.0 in a race "my grandmother could have won."

Saturday, the Georgetown ace with blond, floppy hair and mod wire-frame eyeglasses captured the NCAA steeplechase in nearly one minute faster to become one of the world's best in the event.

"I knew the steeplechase was my event when I realized I could hurdle well and had good speed," said the 22-year-old psychology major. "I don't have any race plan when I run; I just run.

"I just start running faster when I think the pace is too slow," Lucas said. "I think the world record will go this year but right now I don't want to think about it. I'll pass up the AAU meet in Seattle and concentrate on training for the Olympic Trials."

Dave Wottle, the 1,500 champ at this 51st NCAA meet, said he would run two races at the AAU meet, the 1,500 and the 800. "There are four days between those races so I don't think it'll be a hardship," he said.

Wottle, coming from off the pace set by Dave Hill of Southern Illinois, used a quick final lap to nip Jerome Howe of Kansas State in 3:39.7. "I just tried to stay with the leaders and rely on my kick at the end," said the Bowling Green snior.

Though both Wottle and Lucas are seniors at their respective schools, both are juniors in eligibility and will be back next year to defend their titles.

Results Unavailable

Although all events were completed, the results of the Amateur Athletic Union Junior Olympics preliminary competition at Jennie Jaynes stadium were not available Saturday.

The results of the meet, which determined qualifiers for the Missouri State Championship at Jennie Jaynes June 10, will be published Monday.

Penn Takes Race

The University of Pennsylvania strokes to victory in the Varsity Eight feature race Saturday at the Intercollegiate Rowing Association Regatta held on Onondaga Lake near Syracuse, N.Y. (UPI

Penn Grabs Rowing Title

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — The University of Pennsylvania's varsity eight-oared crew sprinted to the front and was never headed Saturday en route to victory in the 70th National Intercollegiate Rowing Championships.

The title was the Quakers' first here since 1969.

Penn was timed in 6 minutes, 22.6 seconds for the 2,000-meter course on Onondaga Lake, beating second-place Brown by nearly a boat length.

Brown was timed in 6:26.1, a half-second better than third-place Wisconsin. The University of Washington, defending-champion Cornell and Northeastern trailed.

Wisconsin won its first Ten Eyck Memorial Trophy for the best overall performance in the varsity, junior varsity and freshman-oared events.

Washington captured the JV eights event, Wisconsin the frosh eights, UCLA the varsity fours, Princeton the frosh fours and Trinity, Conn., the varsity pairs.

A crowd estimated by police at more than 11,000 watched the racing under partly cloudy skies and temperatures in the 70s. The wind came in a moderate breeze and was an important factor in the racing.

Wisconsin amassed 17 points to win the Ten Eyck award. Washington was second with 13 points, while Cornell and Penn shared third place with 11 points.

UCLA Hauls In Title

Olympic Threat Created By Lucas' NCAA Mark

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Joe Lucas rocketed into international steeplechase prominence Saturday, winning the 3,000-meter run in 8 minutes 30.2 seconds for a meet record at the NCAA track and field championships.

Lucas, a senior at Georgetown in Washington, D.C., grabbed the lead from early pace setter Al Myers of Ball State and held off Washington's Jim Johnson to become America's fourth fastest ever in the race. Lucas also became the third fastest in the world for 1972, making him a definite Olympic threat.

The previous NCAA meet mark of 8:31.0 was set by Sid Sink of Bowling Green a year ago, a race in which Lucas finished sixth. The previous best for Lucas was 8:35.0 at this year's Penn Relays.

UCLA's triple jumpers and quarter milers turned on the steam in this third day of competition as the Bruins won their third national title in seven years.

The largest cheers, however, were for hometown favorite Steve Prefontaine, who nullified great tactics by Penn State's Greg Fredericks to win the 5,000-meter race in the second fastest time ever for an American.

Prefontaine was clocked in 13:31.4, second only to his U.S. mark of 13:29.8 set earlier this year. Fredericks, second to "Pre" last year in these championships, ran 13:34.0, making him the fourth fastest American ever.

Fredericks ran five yards behind Prefontaine after the third lap and said he didn't want to pass the Oregon runner until the final kick. "I was hoping I could catch him sleeping," said Fredericks, "but it didn't work out that way."

Prefontaine said he wasn't thinking about a record because, "I didn't really want to sprint because I wanted to save myself for the Olympic Trials."

James Butts of UCLA won the triple jump at 53 feet 2¼ inches with an aiding wind. Teammates Harry Freeman and Milan Tiff were third and fourth as the Los Angeles team ran away with the team title, scoring 82 points. Southern California was second with 49 and Texas-El Paso third with 45. Oregon, a pre-meet favorite, scored only 32 for fourth.

Rick Dowswell, a sophomore at Ohio University and a native of Canada, uncorked the javelin 265-11 on his first throw to capture that event.

Sam Colson, the national leader at 272-5, was only third with 255-5.

Freshman Tom Woods of Oregon State jumped 7 feet 3¾ inches to become the fourth leading collegian in the history of the high jump as he picked up a surprise win over a good field.

Woods' mark equaled Clarence Johnson's national freshman record and was an NCAA meet mark, breaking Reynaldo Brown's 7-3 for Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo last year.

UCLA's Dwight Stones and national leader Barry Schur of Kansas both cleared 7-2 and finished third and second, respectively.

The half-mile produced another surprise winner, Willie Thomas of Tennessee, who whipped a good 800 field in 1:47.1. Ronnie Phillips of Illinois was second in 1:47.2, Tony Waldrop of North Carolina third in 1:47.4 and Tom Bach of Northwestern fourth in a lifetime best 1:47.4.

First-year runner Larry Burton of Purdue ended his Cinderella season with a victory in the 200, timed in 20.5. He was aided by a 5.9 mile per hour wind. Burton, a 6-foot-2 sophomore, never ran track before this season.

Because of a mixup in the stagger of the mile relay trials Friday, Saturday's finals of the event were held in heats, with the best times determining the winner.

UCLA, anchored by John Smith, ran 3:05.3 in the first section of the race to make it a runaway for the team title. Smith was timed in 44.9 for his 440 leg.

Smith, the world record-holder at 440 yards, also captured the 400 meters in 44.5, a meet record which bettered the 45.0 by San Jose State's Lee Evans four years ago.

Smith had hepatitis early this year and has come back strongly after losing the Pacific-8 quarter mile to USC's Edesel Garrison, who could do no better than fourth in this meet.

Garrison could do no better than fourth in this meet as Larance Jones of Northeast Missouri State, the NCAA college division champ, nipped UCLA's Benny Brown for second. Jones was timed in 45.1 with Brown clocking 45.3 and Garrison 45.5.

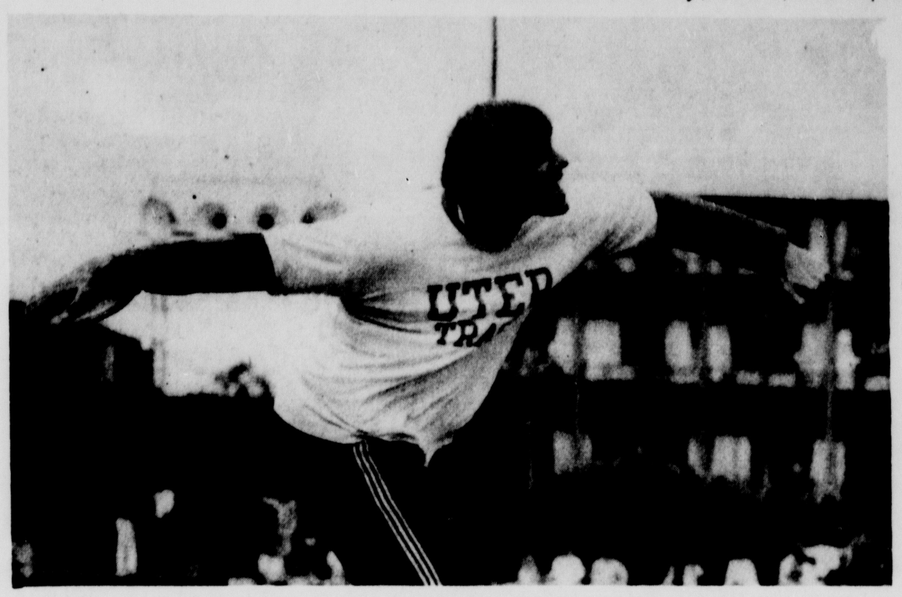
Bruce Collins, a sophomore at Penn, shocked Oklahoma State's Jim Bolding, in the 400-meter intermediate hurdles. Collins put on a burst of speed in the final 40 yards, moving into the tape in 49.1 seconds for a meet record. The old mark of 49.6 was set by Bolding in the semifinals.

Fred DeBernardi of Texas-El Paso became a double winner by winning the discus in 196-5. He finished second in the event last year. The 22-year-old senior won the shot put at 66-6 Friday.

Southern Cal won the 440-yard relay in 39.6, but Trojan sprinter Don Quarrie suffered a cramp in the 100 meters and never finished. Garrison took his place on Troy's 440 relay team.

Quarrie also had qualified for the 200-meter run finals, but the cramp sidelined him in that event as well.

A crowd of 14,500 watched the three-day championships wind up Saturday.



Yells To Championship

Fred DeBernardi, University of Texas-El Paso, lets out a yell Saturday as he throws his way to the NCAA championship in the discus. His championship throw was 196'5". DeBernardi also took the shot put competition which was held Friday, also at Eugene, Ore. (UPI)

Frazier Corrects Rumors

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Joltin' Joe Frazier took time from getting his "wheels" fixed to straighten out a few rumors.

"I keep hearing from California that I won't fight in Los Angeles because I got eye problems," Frazier said Friday.

"There isn't anything wong with my eyes," said the heavyweight champion. "Yancey Durham (Joe's manager and trainer) don't want me to fight in Los Angeles. He's got some personal reasons. He don't like the rules or something."

Durham is in Spain and won't be back until June 10.

Frazier was at a garage getting his automobiles and motorcycle worked on when he called a sports writer to get some things squared away.

"I will not climb into a ring until some promoter brings me a contract to fight one of the guys in the top ten," said smokin' Joe. "If it's Cassius Clay (Muhammad Ali) fine. Give me $3.5 million and I'm ready."

Joe explained some of the problems with his "wheels" and then said, "you know, I'm getting sick of some of these rumors. It's my blood pressure or my eyes. Tell those people that the only way they're going to get the title from me is to whip me. There ain't anybody can do that."

Frazier said he didn't believe Ali wanted to meet him again.

"He has no punch," said Joe. "He can't hurt anybody. That's why everybody wants to fight him and not me. But I'm ready. If it's George Foreman or Floyd Patterson, I don't care. Or anybody the public wants to see me fight."

Frazier said he was back in the gym working out, and planned to go to Beaufort, S.C., where he has a plantation. He's going to build a gymnasium there for the kids, and where he can work out when he's in the South.

How about the rumors he wants to quit the ring.

"Nah, I don't want to quit," Frazier replied. "I don't have to quit. I like the money. The money is good. I can buy a lot of things, help a lot of people."

Frazier said he could quit without any financial worries. "My money has been invested wisely, not foolishly. My family is comfortable. There are trust funds for my kids. I don't have any organizations to support like you know who. I could make it on my own. I don't have to fight anymore," he said.

As General Manager

Phillies Choose Owens

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Paul Owens, farm director of the Philadelphia Phillies since 1965, was named general manager and director of player development of the National League team Saturday, replacing 64-year-old John Quinn.

Phillies' owner Bob Carpenter announced the appointment of Owens and said Quinn would remain with the organization as a vice-president on a counsulting basis until he becomes eligible for the club's pension plan April 1, 1973.

"I've decided to make this change at this time because of the unexpectedly poor showing of the team," Carpenter said.

The Phillies, after a fine start in the National League season that had them in contention for first place, lost 16 of their next 17 games. They had lost six straight before Saturday afternoon's game against Cincinnati.

Owens, 47, begins his new duties immediately.

Quinn was in his 28th year as a major league general manager. His Boston Braves won the National League championship in 1948, and the franchise, moved to Milwaukee, won league titles in 1957 and 1958 and the World Series in 1957.

He became general manager of the Phillies in January, 1959.

Quinn had been regarded as one of the top traders in major league baseball, but last winter—in one of the busiest trading months in major league history—he failed to make a deal for the Phillies, who finished last in the NL East in 1971.

Expos Squeak By Sagging Astros, 1-0

MONTREAL (AP) — Boots Day's one- out single in the 10th inning off Houston reliever Jim Ray carried the Montreal Expos to a 1- 0 victory over the sagging Houston Astros Saturday night.

Ray, who had won seven straight games in relief, took over for starter Ken Forsch in the 10th and Hector Torres greeted him with a double to left center field.

After Bill Stoneman grounded out, Day slashed his game-winning single up the middle. It saddled the Astros with their seventh defeat in eight games and dropped them into third in the National League West.

Stoneman allowed just four hits, struck out five and walked five in raising his record to 5-4. The Expos, with some help from Houston's Doug Rader, got themselves out of a second-inning jam by pulling off the second triple play in their four-year history following singles by Bob Watson and Rader. Tommy Helms hit a dribbler in front of the plate, catcher Terry Humphrey grabbed it and fired to third for the force on Watson and Bob Bailey relayed to first to get Helms, and when Rader tried to go from first to third on the play, Mike Jorgensen threw back to Bailey, who tagged Rader for the third out.

Parsons' 5-Hitter Downs Rangers

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Right-hander Bill Parsons pitched a five-hitter and George Scott knocked in two runs to lead the Milwaukee Brewers to a 3-1 triumph over the Texas Rangers Saturday.

Parsons, 5-2, outdueled Pete Broberg, 3-4, as the Brewers won their third game in a row.

LaVerne To Have Best NAIA Shot

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — LaVerne College, a free-swinging Californnia team, has been given the best chance of walking away with this year's National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics baseball crown.

But the powerful Cougars may find tough opposition in Sam Houston State College, a Texas team which relies heavily on a fine pitching staff.

LaVerne (39-9) is the Area I championaand will face Winona State (Minn.) when the five-day series opens Monday.

The remaining opening day schedule is: Oklahoma Christian vs. Frostburg State, Md.; David Lipscomb, Tenn., vs. High Point, N.C.; and Sam Houston State, Texas, vs. Lewis, Ill.

While LaVerne is the power team, Sam Houston will rely on a pitching staff which has a 1.55 ERA while earning a 31-11 record.

David Lipscomb College, which finished second in last year's tournament, will carry a 30-7 record and a 16-game winning streak into the series while Lewis College, Ill., has the most wins among the eight teams, 42.

Four games are set for Tuesday, three for Wednesday, a pair for Thursday, and the championship game Friday.

Oakland Trims Baltimore, 4-2

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mike Epstein drove in the winning runs with a two-run homer in the eighth inning and Ken Holtzman notched his eighth victory of the season as the Oakland A's trimmed the Baltimore Orioles 4-2 Saturday.

Epstein ripped his sixth homer of the year after a one-out single by Sal Bando and made a loser of Baltimore starter Pat Dobson, 5-6.

Holtzman, 8-3, was staked to a 1-0 lead in the second inning when Dave Duncan chased in Bando from third with a squeeze bunt.

A triple by Bobby Grich and single by Dave Johnson in the Baltimore second gave the Orioles a 1-1 tie. Oakland took a 2-1 advantage in the third on Joe Rudi's double and single by Reggie Jackson before Baltimore pulled into a tie again on Don Baylor's bases-empty home run in the fourth, his sixth of the year.

Royals Bomb Bosox

KANSAS CITY (AP) — John Mayberry's three-run double capped a six-run Kansas City explosion in the seventh inning that carried the Royals to a 10-4 victory over the Boston Red Sox Saturday.

Joe Keough's pinch single and Fred Patek's game-tying double knocked out Boston starter Marty Pattin, 1-7. Bill Lee took over on the mound and Richie Scheinblum greeted him with a pinch single that put the Royals ahead to stay.

Lou Piniella followed with a single and Carl Taylor walked to load the bases, bringing Ken Tatum in from the bullpen. Cookie Rojas then beat out an infield hit for another run before Mayberry cleared the bases with his double to left.

The victory, Kansas City's third straight and sixth in eight games, went to reliever Tom Murphy, 1-1, who came in to quell a rally when Boston went ahead 4-3 in the top of the seventh.

The Royals took the lead in the first inning but the Red Sox moved in front 2-1 in the second.

Kansas City regained the lead in the fourth but Boston went ahead again in the seventh.

Seaver Chalks Up Win Number Eight

NEW YORK (AP) — Tom Seaver became the National League's first eight-game winner despite failing to pitch a complete game for the seventh straight time and Duffy Dyer drilled a three-run homer as the New York Mets beat the Atlanta Braves 5-2 Saturday.

Seaver, 8-2, scattered seven hits before leaving the game after hitting a batter with one out in the eighth inning. Tug McGraw relieved the Mets' ace at that point and gave up two hits and a run before recording his eighth save of the season.

Seaver, who had a staff-leading 21 complete games for New York last year, most recently went the distance April 26 against San Diego, when he pitched a seven-hitter. He's completed only one other start this year, a four-hitter over Chicago.

Dyer, a part-time catcher filling in for Jerry Grote, provided the winning margin with his three-run blast in the second inning after a single by Cleon Jones and walk to Wayne Garrett by Tom Kelley, 3-5.

Seaver doubled, went to third on a single by Bud Harrelson and came in on Ted Martinez' bouncer to give the Mets a 4-0 lead in the fourth. After Atlanta scored its first run in the sixth on Dusty Baker's sacrifice fly, the Mets came up with their last run in the seventh on Cleon Jones' RBI double.

Cincinnati Team Now KC-Omaha

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Cincinnati Royals of the National Basketball Association are now officially the Kansas City-Omaha Kings.

Joe Axelson, the team's general manager, made the announcement of the new nickname Friday night, following a month-long contest.

The Kings will play 26 games in Kansas City's Municipal Auditorium next season and 15 in Omaha's Civic Auditorium.

800 Compete In Special Olympics

MARSHALL, Mo. (AP) — More than 800 mentally retarded students won ribbons and medals in track and field events and swimming Saturday in Missouri's Special Olympics.

The competition was coordinated for the fourth straight year by the Marshall State School and Hospital. About 75 of the winners will compete in international contests at the University of California at Los Angeles in August.

Dr. Frank Hayden, national director of the Special Olympics at the Joseph P. Kennedy Foundation in Washington, was the first Foundation representative to attend the Missouri event. Members of the Kennedy family regularly visit Special Olympics across the country.

"We want all the kids to try to win," Hayden said, "but the most important thing is for each kid to give his best shot."

Clinics were conducted by Bobbie Bell and Kerry Reardon of the Kansas City Chiefs, Jay Hankins, former player with the Kansas City Athletics, and Mickey Higham, professional bowler.

Thinks Rematch Will Be In Fall

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The man who holds the contracts says he expects heavyweight boxing champion Joe Frazier to defend his title against Muhammad Ali at the Forum in Los Angeles this fall.

"I think we should have the bout in September or October," said Jack Kent Cooke. "And it will be here at The Forum."

That sports emporium was built by Cooke and owned by Cooke and Cooke was the man who guaranteed the multi-million dollar purses for Frazier and Ali when they met last year in New York.

Neither fighter seems to want the return bout in California. Ali favors the Astrodome in Houston and Frazier, all in favor of Los Angeles last fall, now says his manager, Yancey Durham, wants a different site.

Ali is scheduled to meet Jerry Quarry of Bellflower, Calif., at Las Vegas, Nev., on June 27.

New at the Zoo

This baby gorilla, yet to be named, was born to Femelle, the gorilla, at the National Zoological Park in Washington on Memorial Day. The new baby, who met members of the press for the first time Friday, is a male and is the largest gorilla baby born at the zoo—weighing 5 pounds, 10 ounces at birth, 3 ounces more than any previous baby. Amish in Sturgeon Are Resisting Modern-Day Life

By ROBERT T. NELSON
Columbia Tribune
For The Associated Press

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The sun and the Amish often rise together and more often than not the sun will set on them at work in their fields, casting stark silhouettes across the freshly plowed rows.

A young man catches a brief moment's rest as he sits behind a plow. He and his horse contemplate digging the last furrow in a row of earth. They began the day together and they will finish it that way.

A farm machinery salesman wouldn't find any customers in an area of Boone County just north of Sturgeon. It is Amish country, where everything is done by man and original horsepower.

Occasionally a little gasoline motor power is used for expediency, but electricity is not. It came after the gasoline motor and therefore is not needed, under Amish belief.

Roads in the area are for the most part gravel. Recreation for the young includes an occasional buggy race and Sunday night singing at one of the four churches in the area.

But recreation comes last for the Amish. Work and church rank much higher.

While buggy travel on asphalt roads is quick and easy, travel on gravel roads often sends them to the repair shop owned by Levi Hochstetler in the Amish settlement.

"This is the first place they come," Hochstetler said.

A new wheel and tire is $24 to $27. A new buggy sells for $100 to $300 and there is a seven-day waiting period.

"Actually, we're not much different than anyone else," Hochstetler said. "We want the same things, we just don't always go out and get the same things you do."

Hochstetler cut a metal tire to size then welded it together. In his shop were man-powered or gasoline powered tools. Electricity isn't used.

"Why should we jump at everything that comes along? The gasoline motor came first and it serves us well. I use coal in my forge but our home is heated with wood.

"Christ had his cross to bear. If we get everything we want or need, where is our cross? Do you think I like freezing in a buggy when I could be in a car? We're not that different."

The Amish children north of Sturgeon attend their own schools through the 8th grade. German, history and religion are taught. Under Amish belief, education ends after the 8th grade because there is no need to continue it.

"Why learn about other people or other things when you have no intention of using them? Hochstetler asked. "We farm here. It's good work — there is no need for more education.

Asked if he fit the Amish image of sternness with children, Hochstetler said Amish youths are punished only when they need it.

"I guess you could say I'm stern. We believe children should be shown the right way. If they stray away from that way later we can't blame ourselves. We tried to show them what was right.

"We lose some to the city and other ways of life," he said. "Occasionally someone will want to come into the faith but they never last. We take them into our church but almost always they break away and leave."

Just then, Hochstetler's 82-year-old father-in-law jogged across the backyard and up the stair into the house.

"He's very spry for his age. He runs a little every day, believing that if you run some every day you'll always be able to run.

"He takes care of himself. We all try to. Our body is God's temple."

Novel By Lash Tops List Here

"Eleanor and Franklin" by Lash tops the Sedalia Public Library's list of available best sellers, it was reported Friday.

Others in the top-ten category are "The Word," by Wallace; "The Blue Knight," Wambaugh; "The Exorcist," Blatty; "Captains and Kings," Caldwell; "Game of Foxes," Farogo; "Washington Pay-Off," Winter-Burger; "Winds of War," Wouk; "My Name Is Asher Lev," Potok; and "A World Beyond," Montgomery.

New fiction works available at the library now are "The Settlers," Meyer Levin; "The Red House," Derek Lambert; "The Clock Winder," Anne Tyler; "A Game of Statues," Anne Stevenson; "The Nick Adams Stories," Ernest Hemingway; "The Enduring Hills," Janice Holt Giles; "The Witnesses," David Kossoff; "The Malcontents," C. P. Snow; "The Blue Heaven Bends Over All," Jane Oliver; "The Last Angel," Elizabeth Goudge.

Non-fiction works on the available list are "In the Fullness of Time," Paul Douglas; "Nadar, the People's Lawyer," Robert Buckhorn; "The New Pagans," Hans Holzer; "Food Pollution," Gene Marine and Judith Van Allen; "Two on a Big Ocean," Hol Roth; "Our Country," U.S. News and World Report; "How to Get a Dollar's Value for a Dollar Spent," Arthur Milton; "Laughing With Little League," Catherine and Loren Broadus; "The Brass Ring," Bill Mauldin; "O Jerusalem," Larry Collins and Dominique La Pierre.

Accident Total

The Sedalia Police Department investigated 56 accidents during May, 12 less than in May, 1971, according to police records. The number of injuries last month totaled 14, which is 11 less than in May a year ago.

The 1972 accident count thus far has reached 364 with the number of injuries totaling 87. A year ago, 371 accidents and 98 injuries had been recorded.

One fatality has been listed for the first five months of 1972 which matches last year's total during the same time period.

THE SEDALIA DEMOCRAT

In Combination With The Sunday Morning Capital

May Bride

Miss Jo Ellen Watson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip B. Watson, Fort Worth, Tex., became the bride of Carl W. Almquist, son of Dr. and Mrs. C. K. Almquist, Houston, Tex., May 20 in Fort Worth. The groom is the grandson of Mrs. C. R. Almquist, 1503 South Moniteau, and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Greer, 1641 Country Club Rd.

Trautman-Hieronymus Say Vows

Wedding vows were exchanged May 28 at Christ Lutheran Church between Miss Marilynn Kay Trautman and Gary Hieronymus. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Norman Trautman, Route 2, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hieronymus, Route 5.

The Rev. Fred Hueners performed the double ring ceremony before an altar set with gold urns holding yellow and white daisies flanked with two white tapers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white floor length gown with a high neckline and empire waist that was of white satin with an over-lay of white lace with long sheer lace sleeves. Her white illusion veil was secured to a crown of white seeded pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white rose buds, daisies and baby's breath and wore beige Cameo earrings, a gift from the groom.

Miss Sharon Trautman, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Tom Ragan and Mrs. Terry Anderson. They wore identical floor length gowns of yellow batiste with pink rosebuds. Their accessories were large yellow brimmed hats with yellow streamers and white gloves. They carried large basket bouquets of yellow and white daisies.

Miss Lauree Hieronymus, niece of the groom, served as ring bearer. She carried a white satin pillow and wore a wristlet of yellow daisies. Flower girl was Kristee Hieronymus, niece of the groom. She carried a basket of yellow daisy petals. They were attired in floor length gowns identical to the bridesmaids.

Steve Bowers and Robert Trautman, brother of the bride, were ushers and John Neiderwimmer served as the candlelighter.

Following the ceremony a reception was held with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hickam serving as host and hostess. A three-tier wedding cake centered the serving table and was flanked by two candelabra holding white tapers. Yellow daisies also decorated the table.

Mrs. Bill Moellmann cut and served the cake. Pouring coffee was Mrs. Joe Hackman with Mrs. Larry Humphrey serving punch. Assisting were Mrs. Alvin Neiderwimmer and Mrs. Frank Payne.

Registering guests was Miss Joyce Kettner, Miss Jeanie Franklin, and Miss Beverly Frisk. Miss Marcia Swanson and Miss Debbie Rickert were in charge of the gifts.

Organist was Mrs. Larry Kavadas. She accompanied Miss Marcia Swanson who sang at the reception. For her going away outfit the bride chose a floor length red and blue knit dress. She wore a corsage of red roses.

After a short wedding trip to an undisclosed destination the couple will reside in their new home on Route 2. The bride is a licensed practical nurse and the groom, who attends Central Missouri State College, will teach social studies at Smithton High School in the fall.

Abilities of Blind Told

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Lynda Bardis is a totally blind professional lobbyist who likes to go to movies and cook elaborate gourmet dinners for friends.

She says her biggest problem in work is not getting around to visit all of the lawmakers she must contact, or even keeping up with the large volume of written material that goes with her job.

Instead, it is getting people to think of the blind as normal people who do many things sighted people do, and not as people to be "protected."

She said she doesn't mind people laughing when she talks enthusiastically about the latest motion picture or television show, but she can't stand it when they try to avoid using words such as "see," "watch" and "look" around her.

"Those are natural words. Did you see 'The French Connection?' I did. What other way is there to put it?" Miss Bardis asked.

"It bothers me when people avoid those words. It's part of that whole feeling, 'You must be unhappy. It must be tough. You must have a hard time.'

"That's not true. I like my job very much. I'm very pleased with it. There are a lot of other things I do, too, that are just as enjoyable for me as for a sighted person."

She was raised in Berkeley and earned a master's degree in French at the University of California. She lost her sight gradually during her childhood due to glaucoma. She said she became totally blind, losing her last light perception, at age 14

Miss Bardis, 29, started her lobbying career nearly four years ago representing the California Council of the Blind. Four months ago she became principal California lobbyist for the National Association of Social Workers.

"I'm still very interested in legislation concerning the blind, of course. But I have been wanting to get out of work for the blind—partially because you get stereotyped and partially because it's limited."

50th Wedding Anniversary Celebrated

BUNCETON — Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Fry, Bunceton, were honored by 90 friends and relatives with a surprise luncheon in observance of their 50th wedding anniversary May 28 at the Lion's Club here. The event was hosted by their children, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Fry and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Fry.

The honoree table was covered with gold paper overlaid with a lace tablecloth and the centerpiece was a bouquet of yellow mums, roses and yellow and white asters flanked by two gold candles. Other tables were decorated with peonies, iris, mock orange and fern.

Mr. and Mrs. Fry were married May 28, 1922, in California, Mo. The couple's attendants at the wedding were present for the anniversary celebration.

A teaspoon of dried herbs is equal to about three tablespoons fresh.

Area Families Plan Reunions

The Swope and Beuscoter family reunion will be held June 11 in Convention Hall of Liberty Park.

The Bremer family will hold its annual reunion next Sunday at Liberty Park.

Descendants of Amos Green Richardson, who settled in Morgan County in 1828, will hold their annual reunion next Sunday at the Fairgrounds Building in Versailles. A noon basket dinner will be served.

For a gay salad, mound drained canned fruit cocktail on a bed of crisp watercress or shredded iceberg lettuce. Surround spoke-fashion with slices of California avocado. Drizzle with a sweet French dressing, using some of the fruit cocktail syrup with vinegar or lemon juice as part of the liquid.

BPW Begins 50th Year

Beginning its 50th year of activity in Sedalia, the Business and Professional Women's Club met Thursday at Bothwell Hotel with Mrs. Dorothy Boyd, president, presiding.

Mrs. Kheta Faubion, program chairman, told the goals of the BPW Club and told about prerequisites for winning awards at the annual spring convention.

Miss Ann Michael reported on her experience at the recent state convention where she represented the Sedalia chapter as the Young Career Woman.

Major Marjorie Weber of the Salvation Army explained the meals on wheels project and over $70 was collected by a free will offering for the project.

Special music was presented by Miss Gail Embree and Miss Pam DeWitt and a birthday gift was presented to Miss Edna Mae Kirchhofer.

New members introduced were Mrs. Virginia Zahringer, Mrs. Dixie Northington and Mrs. Barbara Rampone.

Guests at the meeting were Mrs. Karen Miller, Mrs. Helen Halbig, Mrs. Debbie Foster, Mrs. Hazel Neill, Mrs. Maurine Schwalie, Mrs. Ruby Irwin, Miss Michael, Mrs. Betsy Charles, Mrs. Carol Monsees and Mrs. Frankie Phillips. They were introduced by Mrs. Betty Blackwell.

Hostesses were Mrs. Mabel Glenn and Mrs. Emily Brunjes.

President Visits Local Group

Mrs. Guy L. Page, Weymouth, Mass., supreme worthy president of the Supreme Assembly of the Social Order of the Beauceant, paid her official visit to the Sedalia Assembly No. 23 Wednesday, inspecting the work done by the local assembly.

Mrs. Stanley Holt was initiated into the Sedalia assembly at that time.

Mrs. Page was honored in song by Mrs. W. H. Stephenson, who sang "Our Best To You"; she was presented a gift by Mrs. George Chamberlin; an honorary membership by Mrs. Joe Smetana; and a certificate donation by Mrs. Lloyd Kirkpatrick, president of the Past President Club.

Mrs. Page was also honored with a banquet and attending were members of the Sedalia Assembly and the St. Omer Commandery.

Gloe-Arnold Married

MRS. JAMES D. ARNOLD
Miss Joyce Gloe

Miss Joyce Gloe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Gloe, Big Spring, and James D. Arnold, son of Mrs. Virgil Houchens, 1409 West 11th, and the late Mr. Harry J. Arnold of Sedalia, were married in a double ring ceremony on May 27 in St. Martin's Catholic Church at Starkenburg. The Rev. Hilke, pastor, officiated at the marriage service.

A sister of the bride, Miss Kathy Gloe, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Joan Hinrichs and Miss Debby Rainey. The flower girl was Miss Lori Ann Manifold, niece of the groom.

The bride chose to make her long gown of white crepe with full sleeves and blue ribbons across the bodice and a blue ribbon around the waist tied in a bow at back trailing to the length of the gown. In her hair were white baby's breath tied with a blue ribbon and she carried a bouquet of a dozen pink roses and white baby's breath. The bridesmaids wore floor length gowns of blue crepe trimmed with white ribbons and lace and carried bouquets of spring flowers and baby's breath. The flower girl carried a basket of spring flowers and wore a gown similar to the bride's.

Ushers were Gregory Lackman and Barry Walz, friends of the couple. The organ music was played by Miss Mary Heath, cousin of the bride and vocalist was Miss Mary Birk.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the church hall where Miss Janice Schlottach of Owensville, presided at the guest book. Miss Brenda Heying, cousin of the bride, was in charge of the gift table. Mrs. Guy Manifold, sister of the groom, served the wedding cake.

The bride is a 1971 graduate of Hermann High School and has been employed with the Division of Welfare in Jefferson City. The groom graduated from Linn Technical College in 1972. The couple will reside in Sedalia.

A rehearsal supper was given by Mr. and Mrs. Houchens at Hillebrand's Restaurant in Hermann.

MRS. RICHARD C. PFEIFFER
Miss Beverly Long

Beverly Long Is Bride Of Richard C. Pfeiffer

Miss Beverly Long, 601 South Kentucky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Long, Kansas City, became the bride of Richard C. Pfeiffer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pfeiffer, 1806 South Grand, Saturday at the First Christian Church in North Kansas City.

The Rev. John McInnis and the Rev. Robert Byrnne officiated at the early evening ceremony before an altar decorated with two flower baskets filled with yellow and blue majestic daisies. Bob Rialti, brother-in-law of the groom, was the vocalist and he was accompanied by organist Mrs. William Heller.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an empire gown of candleglow organza and re-embroidered Alencon lace motifs of lace embellished the bodice, skirt and sheer lantern sleeves that were caught with organza. The watteau train fell to chapel length and the tiered mantilla was embroidered with pearls and irridescents. The bride carried a bouquet of white stephanotis, blue and yellow daisies with blue, yellow and ivory satin showers.

Dressed in floor length gowns of large floral silken dobby pique with low necklines and short sleeves in shades of blue, green and yellow were Mrs. W. L. McCulloch Jr., matron of honor; and bridesmaids, Miss Ann Michael and Miss Kathi Dolan. The empire waistline of each gown was accented with a long wide yellow velvet ribbon sash and a large wide-brimmed picture hat of sheer yellow with yellow velvet ribbon and daisy trim. Each attendant carried a natural wicker basket of white, blue and yellow daisies with baby's breath to complete her old-fashioned look.

Flower girl was Miss Christie Tippie, niece of the groom, who was dressed in a floor length floral gown with a lime green bodice. She carried a basket of yellow rose petals.

Best man was Bob Pierson and groomsmen were David Rouchka and Kim Dabner.

Performing the ushering duties were Ray Tippie, brother-in-law of the groom and Brian Rialti, nephew of the groom, carried the double rings on a satin pillow.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the church. Serving at the bride's table were Mrs. Robert Cullen, Mrs. Jerry Clark, Miss Pam Clark, Mrs. Conley Berry and Miss Patricia Berry.

The couple will reside at 1113 South Massachusetts. The bride is a home economist with the University of Missouri Extension Service for Pettis County and the groom is employed by Cablevision, Inc.

Spillars-Robb Say Vows

(Democrat-Capital Service)

TIPTON — Wedding vows were exchanged Saturday between Miss Reta Spillars, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Spillars, Tipton, and Terry Robb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Robb, California.

The Rev. Tommy Barrett and the Rev. William Martenson performed the evening ceremony before the altar of Fortuna Baptist Church which was decorated with bouquets of pink and lavender daisies and mums. Mrs. Stern Simmons was the organist and Mrs. Les Schrader, the vocalist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white organza gown with a lace ruffle capelet that enhanced the bodice. Rows of lace ruffling encircled the long sleeves and skirt that swept to a chapel train. Her long mantilla was trimmed with matching lace and pearls and she carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Maid of honor was Miss Barbara Schreck who was dressed in a long gown with short puff sleeves and a standup collar. The white and lavender wall-paper print skirt was accented at the raised waist with a purple ribbon that formed a bow and streamed down the front. A large picture hat of matching fabric was worn with purple ribbon banding the crown. She carried a bouquet of lavender daisies and pink and lavender baby's breath.

Dressed identical to the maid of honor was Miss Janice Houf who carried a bouquet of pink daisies with lavender baby's breath.

Miss Wilma Homan and Miss Sandra Bookout lit the candles in gowns identical to the others.

Best man was Bill Allee and the groomsman was Rick Knoten. Performing the ushering duties were Jim Spillars, Dale Spillars, Kenny Robb and Guy Newirk.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church and serving at the bride's table were Miss Diedra Stewart and Mrs. Irving Moon.

Attending the guest book was Miss Sherry Schuster and in charge of the gifts were Miss Carol Hader and Mrs. John Hoover.

After traveling on a wedding trip to Minnesota, the couple will reside in California. The groom is employed by Von Hoffman Press in Jefferson City.

Candlelight Ceremony Unites Lilia Howe and Darrel Snider

The Rev. Donald Curtis performed the evening candlelight ceremony May 19 between Miss Lilia Faye Howe, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. James Howe, Sr., Warrensburg, and Darrel Stephen Snider, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Snider, Cole Camp, at the United Pentacostal Church.

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white Alencon lace. The fitted bodice featured a scalloped neckline and long pointed sleeves embellished with sequins which outlined the flowers on the lace. The full skirt featured four scalloped tiers which extended in the back forming the train. A matching veil completed the ensemble and her bouquet was a cascade of white carnations and roses and blue cornflowers.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Jesse Perez, sister of the bride, was dressed in a floor length gown of light blue and royal blue polyester crepe. She carried a single light blue carnation with long light blue ribbon streamers.

Mrs. John Breshears, Miss Darlene Phillips and Miss Debbie Curtis served as bridesmaids and were dressed in gowns identical to the matron of honor. Each carried a single light blue carnation with ribbon streamers.

Best man was Elton Larson, brother-in-law of the groom. Groomsmen were John Breshears, James Brown and Roy Barnhill. Performing the ushering duties were James Howe Jr., and David Howe, brothers of the bride.

Flower girl, Miss June Stevens was dressed identical to the matron of honor and carried a straw princess basket filled with blue and white carnation petals.

Lighting the candles were Miss Janice Snider, sister of the groom, and Danny Lowey.

Wed At Osage Beach

Miss Cindy McClure became the bride of Bob Frances in a ceremony May 14, at Harpers Chapel United Methodist Church in Osage Beach.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee McClure, Warrensburg, and the groom's parents are Mrs. Margaret Buck, Osage Beach, and John Frances, Brownsburg, Ind.

The bride wore a princess style gown and carried a nosegay of daisies and pink roses. The honor attendants were Miss Debbie Masters and Greg Mathis.

The couple is at home at Osage Beach.

A hint of curry does something wonderful to canned cling peaches. Blend a spoonful of curry powder with dairy sour cream dressing. Spoon into cling peach halves. Top with finely chopped nuts and garnish with greens, for an easy dinner salad.

Richards-Dieckman Wed

Christ Lutheran Church formed the setting for the Friday wedding of Miss Jan Richards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loy L. Richards, 1218 South Sneed, to Darrell Dieckman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dieckman, 3605 South Grand.

The Rev. Fred Hueners officiating at the evening double ring ceremony and organ selections were performed by Mrs. Frank Pahlow.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a chalk white floor length gown of embossed voile over bridal satin. The high bodice had a small stand up collar and sheer bishop sleeves that were trimmed with seed pearl buttons on the wide cuffs. The bridal headdress was a crown of seed pearls and rhinestones which held a short veil of imported illusion. She carried a nosegay of white miniature carnations, pink rosebuds and baby's breath.

Maid of honor was Miss Elizabeth Fisher who wore an aqua voile floor length dress with embossed pink roses. The dress featured an empire waist, butterfly sleeves and was trimmed with pink satin ribbon. She carried a pink long stemmed rose.

Best man was Earl Fletchal.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Serving at the bride's table were Miss Paula Ferguson and Miss Sharron Williams.

Miss Garmon-John Reynolds United

(Democrat-Capital Service)

STOVER — The Rev. Donald A. Metzger united Miss Barbara Jean Garmon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Garmon, Stover, and Pvt. John R. Reynolds Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Reynolds Sr., Versailles May 21 at Christ Lutheran Church in Stover.

Traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. Luke Campbell, sister of the groom, and solos were sung by Miss Charlotte Pryor before the altar that was decorated with bouquets of spring flowers. The bridal bench was flanked by two seven branched candelabra.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father. She designed and constructed her floor length gown of white satin with lace overlay. The fitted bodice featured a round neckline and the sleeves were full to the forearm then fitted to the pointed wrists. The full skirt featured an aisle wide seven foot lace train with satin lining and that was trimmed with ruffled lace. Her silk illusion veil was held by a crown of seed pearls and rhinestones, she carried a cascade bouquet of spring flowers and she wore a pearl necklace, a gift from the groom.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Darrell Pryor, sister of the bride, wore an empire waist floor length gown of lavender voile that was embossed with a spring motif. The empire waist was accented with lavender ribbon tied in the back and her headpiece was a simple bow with daisy appliques. She carried a bouquet of spring flowers.

Serving as bridesmaids and dressed identical to the maid of honor were Miss Sherry Capps, Miss Carolyn Witte, Miss Deb Craig and Miss Ruth Monsees.

Best man was Brent Helton and serving as groomsmen were Robert Gerlt, Paul Hickey, Paul Meyer and Kenny Joe Fields. Acting as ushers were Luke Campbell, Darrell Pryor, Pete Royle and Kenny Looten.

Flower girl, Miss Lisa Williams, wore a gown identical to the attendants and nephew of the groom, Ronnie Campbell, was the ring bearer.

Miss Linda Looten, niece of the groom and Jamie Royeton, cousin of the bride, were the candlelighters.

A reception was held following the ceremony in the church social hall and the refreshment table was decorated with a lace tablecloth and lavender underlay which held the six tiered wedding cake and crystal punch service. The bride's table was covered with a white linen tablecloth and centered with a bouquet of spring flowers. Two three branched candelabra flanked the floral centerpiece.

Serving were Mrs. Reno Warnke, Miss Veletta Kipp, Miss Ruth Ann Rosa and Miss Treva Meller.

At the gift table were Miss Denise Huffman, Miss Gail Capps, Miss Brenda DeJarnette and Miss Linda Avey.

MRS. JOHN R. REYNOLDS — Classic Studio

Miss Barbara Jean Garmon

Presiding at the guest book were Miss Ruth Ann Rosa and Miss Treva Meller. Rice maids were Mrs. Barry Braden and Miss Patty Barbour.

The couple will reside in Manhattan, Kan. The groom is serving active duty in the U.S. Army at Ft. Riley, Kan.

Long Distance Romance Ends in Spring Wedding

ALLEGAN, Mich. (AP) — Through the medium of a film canister, a long-range romance has culminated in marriage for a Wyoming girl and a Michigan man.

The romance spanned half the country, nearly five years and lots of letter writing. But it ended recently with the wedding of Dennis Misner, 21, of Allegan in southwestern Michigan, and Barbara Merchant, 20, Cody, Wyo.

On a June day in 1966, the Raymond Misner family of Allegan was vacationing in Wyoming, headed for Yellowstone National Park.

The family arrived at the park's East Gate before it opened, so they had a picnic breakfast at a roadside park on the banks of the Shoshone River.

The Misner sons, Dennis and David, looked around for something to do. No one recalls whose idea it was, but the boys decided to write notes, put them inside 35mm film canisters and drop them in the river.

The family returned home and the film canisters were forgotten. But in February of 1971, a letter arrived from Barbara, saying she found one of the canisters while fishing on the Buffalo Bill Dam Reservoir, some 50 miles downstream from where it had been placed in the river.

That letter marked the beginning of a friendship between the two families. After several letters were exchanged, the Misners spent a vacation in Wyoming, then Barbara came to Allegan for a visit last November.

Dennis and Barbara were married in Cody this spring.

Church Notes

The Women's Society of Christian Service of First United Methodist Church met Thursday at the church with the Brown Circle presenting the program, "Changes, Changes, Changes."

The program, which consisted of six short skits on communication, drugs and divorce, was presented by Mrs. Robert Horton, Mrs. Roy Brown, Mrs. Pinkney Miller, Mrs. Forrest Drake, Mrs. Earl Crawford, Mrs. C. F. Gault, Mrs. P. M. Licklider, Mrs. Orin Chappell and Mrs. Golda Curtiss. Roles of mothers, fathers and teens were portrayed.

A memorial service for deceased members was given and Lewis Circle hosted the luncheon which followed.

Beta Tau Wins Softball Game

Scoring 18 runs in a softball game that had been challenged by Epsilon Beta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi was Beta Tau team. Both teams had many supporters at the Wednesday evening game at Centennial Park which resulted in an 18 to 10 victory for Beta Tau.

Winning pitcher was Mrs. James Eschbacher and for Epsilon Beta were Mrs. Dutch Overmeyer and Mrs. Cecil Monsees.

Desert Unicorn—Oryx—Fighting Losing Survival Battle

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

AL ZUBARAH, Qatar (AP) — On a hunting expedition in the sandy nothingness of Rub Al Kahli—Saudi Arabia's "Empty Quarter"—Sheik Qassim Bin Hamad wept when a rare white Arabian oryx in a dying charge deftly skewered the right front tire of his jeep with its long, corkscrew horns.

There and then, the remorseless hunter turned dedicated conservationist and set about preserving one of nature's largest and lovliest animals. That was seven years ago. It already may have been too late.

The sheik, who is Qatar's minister of education has had occasion to weep again for the elegant, long-pronged member of the antelope family that romantics claim is a direct descendent of the mythological unicorn. An epidemic of pleural pneumonia wiped out eight of the 35 white Arabian oryxes in the herd the sheik had built up as the largest and one of the last in captivity. Two more males died the same week in a butting contest over the affections of a female, a common end for the love-crazed critters whose horns have long been in demand in the Arab world as an aphrodisiac.

It's been at least four years now since any Bedouin camel caravans or hunting parties came across any of the huge milk white hoofed animals in the vast desert just behond the borders of Qatar, a new nation jutting into the Persian Gulf.

The species is virtually extinct in the wild. Along with the 29 white Arabian oryxes at the Phoenix, Ariz., Zoo, the surviving herd at the sheik's ranch, 90 miles from the capital at Doha, may be the sole survivors anywhere in the world.

When we visited the ranch, his private secretary, Ghazi Azzeh, showed us around.

"Please, scrub your boots," he requested as we approached the oryx corral, indicating a long brush and a trough of strong disinfectant solution. "In captivity, they are gentle and shy. In the desert, they are brave and extremely difficult to capture. They are most sensitive animals. Sometimes at the mere smell of man, they begin to vomit and die."

Large as cows, with the same slow, sad eyes, the pale white animals with the dark blaze down their snouts and the fine, erect, rapier-like horns herded together in the middle of the open, sandy pen. Some of the calves, pinkish-buff and without horns, shied a bit and galloped nervously toward the shed against the far wall when a photographer moved amongst them. The adults impassively stood their ground. Two females, still recovering from the bout with pneumonia, slumped in the shade of the wall; a male with a broken leg limped about nearby.

"Sheik Hamad," his secretary said, "receives many requests for the white Arabian oryx from zoos and preservation societies all over the world, but he turns them all down. He feels the species would have little chance of surviving outside a desert environment."

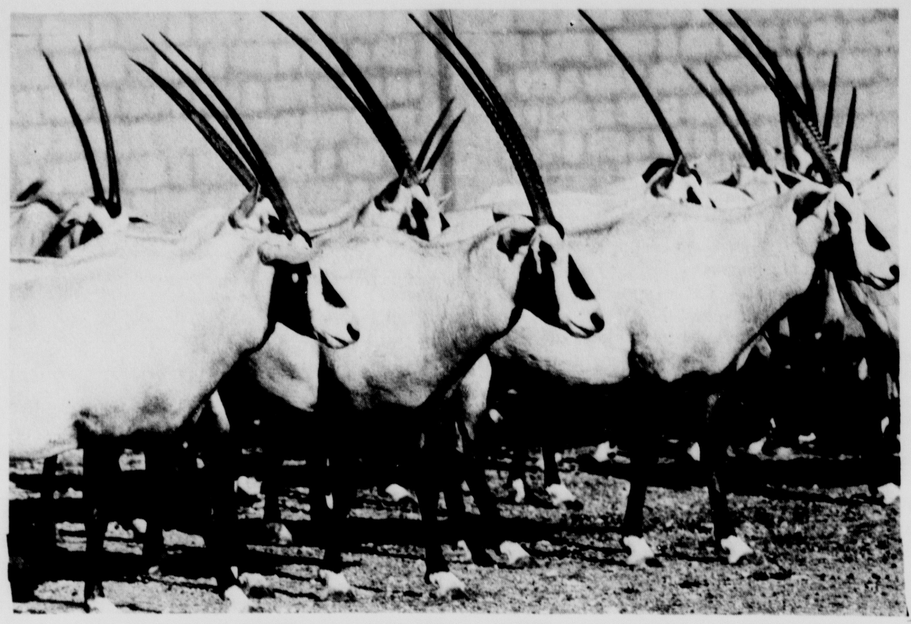
After his conversion by a punctured jeep tire in 1964, Sheik Hamid captured a number of live oryxes but only three lived long enough to reach his ranch in Qatar. The next year he added two more, and the tiny herd began breeding. Until the outbreak of pneumonia, he was averaging eight to 10 calves a year, losing several males from the inevitable love quarrels but still retaining two of the original oryxes.

The sheik belongs to and keeps in contact with most wild life and fauna preservation societies around the world, and often leaves his ornate palace in Doha for trips into Rub Al Kahli, hoping to find new ways of keeping alive his rare, long horned herd. Proud as he is of showing them off, he may soon close the ranch to all outside visitors.

"A survival expert in England," the secretary said, "suggested in a recent letter that perhaps it is its old foe, man, who is bringing the germs that threatened the herd this time. It is sad, because now after years, centuries no doubt, of being hunted, they seem to genuinely like being tourist attractions."



Almost Mythical Creatures

People In The News

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has accepted a challenge from Vice President Spiro T. Agnew for a tennis rematch at the National Governors Conference next week.

Milliken is to be teamed with fellow GOP Gov. Linwood Holton of Virginia against Agnew and his aide, C.D. Ward.

The foursome played last in early May at the Republican Governors conference in White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. Milliken and Holton won, 8-6, 4-6, 8-6, but Milliken took a hard Agnew return in the ear.

Moments after hitting Milliken, Agnew was struck by a ball himself.

"They never tell it when I get struck," Agnew quipped at the time. He has made news for tennis or golf accidents involving his partners.

LONDON (AP) — Actress Hayley Mills, 25, and her director husband Roy Boulting, 59, are expecting their first child in January.

"We don't mind what it is," Miss Mills said Friday. "But right now we are calling it Folly—because it's my folly."

MANILA (AP)—The Philippines' first lady, Imelda R. Marcos, suffered a miscarraige Friday night, losing the child that had been expected in December, her doctor said.

Dr. Gloria Aragon said the 42-year-old Mrs. Marcos lost the child on the presidential yacht after suffering excessive bleeding.

Candidates' Wives Fight Battle

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Muriel Humphrey, shuttling between speaking appearances, has finished two needlepoint pillow slips since January—they took 9,000 road miles each.

Eleanor McGovern, fatigued and underweight, still has trouble eating hurried lunches, but says she has learned to overcome stage fright.

Once next-door neighbors in Washington with a "warm relationship," each submits to the same demanding ambition: to make her husband president of the United States.

Both are in California on their own campaign trails seeking votes in Tuesday's Democratic primary for their husbands—Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey and George McGovern.

The women's campaigns, like their husbands', are ordeals that can entail working days of 19 hours. Each has made 17 appearances in a single day. For more than a week, they may see their husbands only on news programs.

It's a bewildering round of teas, talks and television spots—but they both say they like it.

"It's a crazy life, but it's great," said Mrs. Humphrey.

Mrs. McGovern concedes that her Washington neighbor of 1966 has an advantage in campaign experience. Muriel Humphrey was the first wife of a candidate to campaign independently outside her home state—that was 1960 in Wisconsin.

Mrs. Humphrey, who said she was once afraid to address her own women's club, is a relaxed speaker now with a resonant, calming voice.

Mrs. McGovern admits to being nervous.

"Before one of these speaking tours, I'm not fit to live with," she said. "My family always knows when I'm about to campaign—no one has to tell them. It's stage fright, I guess. But once I start speaking, I get over it right away."

Like Mrs. Humphrey, Eleanor McGovern describes her campaigning as "low key." But she said she still "couldn't do it seven days a week," as Mrs. Humphrey does. Mrs. McGovern has been campaigning four days and spending three at home with her teenage children.

She admitted that at times she wished her husband wasn't running—"because of the pressures on him." But she added, "I still agree with him that campaigns shouldn't be easy. The candidate should be tested, because the presidency isn't easy."

Mrs. McGovern came to Los Angeles on Thursday, arriving a day late from Santa Fe because of exhaustion. Her weight is down to 91 pounds, from 100, and McGovern workers are protective of her.

She spoke at a plush hotel at a large, stylish $10-a-plate luncheon spotted with celebrities.

At the same time, Muriel Humphrey, soft drink in hand, was speaking at neighborhood gatherings in the suburbs. The audiences were middle-class women, and copies of her beef soup recipe were on hand.

Mrs. Humphrey wore light television-type makeup, but ironically it was Mrs. McGovern the TV cameras waited on. It was Mrs. McGovern's first stop in California since September. Muriel Humphrey has been campaigning here about two weeks.

Both women address a variety of audiences. They emphasize their trips to schools and community projects and both feel they get closer to individual voters than their husbands can.

The women speak fondly of one another, and Thursday in Los Angeles both asked a reporter the whereabouts of the other.

But their big disagreement—who should be the Democratic nominee—keeps each in the rush of a taxing enterprise that's not likely to let up until the nominee is named.

Tricks In Car Rental Game

By PETER WEAVER

If you plan to rent a car for a vacation or business trip this summer, shop around. Rates vary by as much as $8 a day.

In my area, for example, Avis charges $22.50 to drive a large car 50 miles for one day. Dollar Car Rental charges only $17.50 (includes estimated cost of gas you buy) to drive the same car 50 miles.

But Avis and the other of the Big Three renters (Hertz and National) give a 20 per cent discount to a wide variety of customers including those who have the renters' own credit cards, government employees (federal, state, local), major credit card holders who are employed by, or belong to, approved businesses and organizations.

So with a 20 per cent discount Avis' charge of $22.50 comes down to only $17 which is competitive with Dollar Car's $17.50 rate. The Big Three renters sometimes don't tell you about these discounts. You have to pry them out.

The Big Three won't give discounts on little cars, but on these the rates are competitive with most local discounters. For one day's drive of 50 miles in a Pinto or Vega, Avis, Hertz and National charge around $12.50 to $13. Budget Rent-a-Car charges only $11 for the same cars but has a $200 deductible collision insurance clause which gives you less protection.

Dollar Car Rental charges only $8.50 to drive a Volkswagen 50 miles but there's a catch. You have to drive a "minimum" of 50 miles. If you drive much less or more than 50 miles, the price is about the same as the others.

There are special, all-inclusive, weekly rates where they give you unlimited miles or 1,000 miles free. If you plan to drive long distances, these rates can save considerable money. Driving less than 350 miles in one week, however, won't save you any money and might even cost more than the regular weekly rate plus mileage.

To figure out which one of these deals is best in your area, estimate in advance how many miles you will be driving and then call some of the major car renters and some discounters. They are located under Automobile Renting and Leasing in the phone book Yellow Pages.

Ask for the daily rate, the mileage charge, who pays for the gas and how much free collision insurance you get ($100 deductible or only $200). If you pay for the gas, figure your costs at two cents a mile for small cars, 3 cents for medium-size and four cents for big cars.

As for insurance, a $2-a-day optional charge will save your paying the $100 deductible if you damage the car. If you're planning some difficult driving in an unfamiliar traffic area, this insurance might be worthwhile. For an easy drive, you can save money by refusing this optional charge.

Before driving off in your rental car, be sure to check for possible mechanical defects and body dents (have them note the dents on a special form). Check the tires, lights, wipers, brakes, engine tune and air conditioning. It's a good idea to look in the trunk to see if the spare is inflated or the jack is missing. Test drive the car before embarking on a long trip.

The cheapest method of getting a car for a long trip is to sign up with an auto transport company that needs drivers to deliver customers' cars to various cities all over the country.

You drive someone else's car across country or to some resort area and you only pay for the gasoline. These companies, regulated by the Interstate Commerce Commission, give you from five to seven days to make the trip.

To get more information, look under Automobile and Truck Transporting in the phone book Yellow Pages. If your phone book doesn't have any listings, ask the operator to help you check listings in the nearest major city.

Before accepting one of these "transport" cars, be sure you know who pays for repairs and how the insurance works. Read the contract carefully. Check out the car and test drive it at freeway speeds before taking off.

Lead Held By U.S. Pilots

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. fighter pilots have scored better than 8 to 1 over North Vietnamese fliers in air combat this year.

Pentagon charts list 34 North Vietnamese MIG jet fighters downed in air duels since Jan. 1. Four U.S. planes have been shot down by MIGs.

Most of these kills have come since the United States resumed heavy bombing of North Vietnam in April.

This record is a turnabout from the late stages of the 1965-68 air war against the North when the fighter score was nearly even and, for a time, North Vietnamese MIGs outkilled American jets.

Many of the U.S. planes that attacked North Vietnam in the late 1960s were Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs, so awkward to maneuver when bomb-loaded that they were derided with the nickname "Thud."

Veterans of the air war said the F105s often flew northward without escort in those days, and MIGs caught some of them in a virtually helpless position before the F105s could pull out of their bomb runs.

Now, however, the F105 is out of the air war except for a small number of Thunderchiefs specially equipped with electronic-warfare gear for use against North Vietnamese surface-to-air missile sites and radar.

In the current air campaign against the North, much of the work is being done by agile F4 Phantom jets. U.S. Air Force and Navy planes on bombing missions over North Vietnam are escorted by fighters virtually all the time, officials said.

Over-all, the United States has lost about 35 planes over North Vietnam this year, mostly from antiaircraft-artillery fire. This compares with 44 to 46 MIGs lost, counting two dropped by naval antiaircraft weapons and 8 to 10 destroyed on the ground.

Let's Use the Cities We've Already Built

According to the recently issued final report of the President's Commission on Population Growth and the American Future, at least 50 million people will be added to the U.S. population before the end of this century—and almost all of them will live in the cities.

The report notes that even in 1970, nearly 70 per cent of the population was metropolitan and that this figure will approach 85 per cent by the year 2000.

"For better or worse," it concluded, "we are in the process of becoming an almost totally urban society."

There is a lot of talk about the need for something like 100 brand-new cities to accommodate this population increase. But one student of the problem disagrees.

"There are arguments against the idea of scores of new cities rising unnaturally on the virgin landscape and lacking the cultural traditions of present communities," says Dr. Charles Kimball, president of the Midwest Research Institute, a Kansas City-based organization that has been involved in both public and private problem-solving for 28 years.

"More sensible, less costly, less damaging to the countryside, and more rewarding in human values is the planning now for additional people to locate in present cities of manageable size."

There are 75 metropolitan areas in the United States with populations under 1.5 million that could absorb in an orderly fashion the expected increase, Kimball observes. Many of them still have options open that, properly exercised, can assure that they will be "both livable and governable" in the year 2000.

The new kind of city has these points: It is not being destroyed by archaic property taxes. It emphasizes values based on being in the center of things. It is linked to international air routes. It provides for the dignified life style demanded by those in the service professions, who now outnumber manufacturing workers.

Above all, says Kimball, the city that will be a successful going concern in the year 2000 "has to be ready for, or ahead of, its population."

"HOW COME YOU DON'T BRAG ABOUT YOUR EXPERIENCE AS VICE-PRESIDENT?"

BERRY'S WORLD

Merry-Go-Round

Former Young Turk Now Establishment

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Thirty years ago, Chet Holifield came to Congress out of a men's apparel shop with visions of public service in his head. He took his place with the young Turks, standing up for reform, battling the special interests, putting his conscience ahead of his bank balance.

Today, the California Democrat still has the tweedy look of a haberdasher. But he has lost the light in his eyes. He has become a power in the House, a party to backroom deals. The special interests he once fought are now his friends, and his office has become a watering hole for their lobbyists.

When he wanted to relax on his way to a Geneva atomic convention last summer, for example, Holifield was offered the use of a Spanish villa belonging to industrialist Perkins McGuire. As House Government Operations chairman, he has general jurisdiction over government contracts involving McGuire's wide corporate interests.

Holifield was accompanied during his five-day stay, incidentally, by Rep. Craig Hosmer, a stuffy California conservative, devoted to the big-money interests. There was a time when Holifield would have fought Hosmer, not fraternized with him.

At home, Holifield has been slugging it out with Ralph Nader over the consumer protection bill and, for his heroics, has been accepting the backpats of the special pleaders.

One of Washington's most effective lawyer-lobbyists, Neil Naiden, has organized $100-a-plate suppers to raise money for Holifield and invited a host of lobbyists to pony up.

When Naiden's son, Fred, wanted a summer job, Holifield put the boy on the public payroll as a Capitol page. The lobbyist's son earned $1,200 during two summers under Holifield's wing.

Naiden also made the arrangements and wrote the testimony for a pitch before Holifield's committee by the Western Electronic Manufacturers Association.

Another Naiden client, Babcock and Wilcox, was distressed over the Atomic Energy Commission's regulatory proceedings. Naiden complained to Holifield, who has considerable clout at the AEC.

In an earlier column, we reported that ITT's Robert Schmidt delivered $500 in crisp hundred dollar bills to Holifield's office. About the same time, Schmidt drafted a letter, which Holifield sent to the Defense Department on behalf of a multi-million-dollar ITT contract proposal.

Holifield admitted in a House statement that he had signed the incriminating letter to the Pentagon, but both he and Schmidt denied any $500 payoff. However, we have evidence the money was left with a Holifield aide, who routinely accepted it for the congressman.

A steady stream of lobbyists, meanwhile, have worn a path on Holifield's carpet. They include Walter Phair, Kaiser Industries; Frank Rogers, Western Oil and Gas; Alan Nedry, Southern California Edison; Harry LeVine, General Electric; Albert Woodward, Flying Tiger Airline; Tom Bendorf, a former Lockheed lobbyist who later lobbied against no-fault insurance for the American Trial Lawyers; Howard Conner and John Vance, Pacific Gas and Electric.

My associate, Les Whitten, called the congressman in Pico-Rivera, Calif., for his comments. "I have no remarks to make to you or anyone in your organization," snapped Holifield. "You can cease calling me." He then hung up the telephone.

Christmas Story — Last Christmas, the American Mining Congress delivered four Christmas trees as gifts to the top Interior Department brass as evidence that trees grow on strip-mined land. Ralph Nader protested to the Civil Service Commission, which has finally finished its investigation. The commission found that Secretary Rogers Morton never got his Christmas tree. Undersecretary William Pecora received his tree but never used it. Assistant Secretary Hollis Dole put his up at home, and Mines Director Elburt Osborn mounted his at the office. In belittling the gifts, Interior reported that the trees, intended to show what bountiful growth is possible on strip-mined lands, were "extremely thin" and of "nominal value."

Our Error — In a recent column, we reported that the Pentagon motor pool's use of premium instead of regular gas was costing the taxpayers about $2 million a year. We have now determined this figure was grossly inflated. The actual amount wasted by the use of premium gasoline amounted to no more than about $5,000. We apologize for the miscalculation.

Mollenhoff's Back — One of Washington's finest investigative reporters, Clark Mollenhoff, is back muckraking again after a benign tumor was removed from his brain. His latest book, "Strike Force," is hot off the press. It tells how the Justice Department has used 18 special strike forces to combat the godfather influence on the American political system. Mollenhoff claims the Justice Department has gotten off to a "commendable start" in the fight against organized crime.

When baby doctor Benjamin Spock was speaking out against nuclear warfare in the mid-1960s, the FBI visited Case Western University in Cleveland, where he was teaching. There they obtained "the personnel file pertaining to Dr. Spock," which was "reviewed on December 23, 1964..."

Such inquiries, of course, serve not only to add bulk to the FBI's files, but also to prejudice a person's employer against him.

For information on black author James Baldwin, the sleuths called on "Joseph Brusco, (apartment) Superintendent, 137 West 71st Street, New York City" to learn that "Baldwin had returned from his trip to Turkey." This hot little item was stamped "Secret — No Foreign Dissemination."

Telephone companies lean over backwards to help the top cops. For information on entertainer Harry Belafonte's associates, for example, the FBI consulted "the records of the New York Telephone Company," which were "furnished to Special Agent James M. Anderson by Edward L. Braune."

The telephone customer of course, rarely suspects that the phone company is tattling on him to the FBI at the same time it is collecting his money.

The Old Humphrey Meets the New

WASHINGTON — We always knew there was an "Old Nixon" and a "New Nixon," but very few people were aware that there was an "Old Humphrey" and a "New Humphrey" — that is, until the California Democratic primary campaign.

Buchwald

The other day the Old Humphrey was waiting in his hotel suite for the New Humphrey to come back from his debate with Sen. George McGovern.

"Well, how did I do?" the New Humphrey asked. "Okay, I guess," the Old Humphrey replied, "but I thought you were kind of mean to George. After all, he was one of your best friends in the Senate."

"That's easy for you to say," the New Humphrey replied angrily. "But this is a fight to the finish, and nice guys finish last."

"But," the Old Humphrey said, "you look slightly hysterical swinging out the way you're doing it. You're going to make people afraid of you."

"I was for the little guy, too," the Old Humphrey said defensively. "I was for the little guy before you knew there was a little guy. Just look at my record. As a senator, I was responsible for some of the most progressive legislation of our time. And I did more for the workingman than any Vice President in history. Where do you and I differ?"

"You smiled too much," the New Humphrey said. "And you talked too long. Nobody wants a President who smiles and talks all the time."

"People liked me," the Old Humphrey said.

"Of course they liked you," the New Humphrey said. "You were a patsy. We're in an age of new politics, Hubie. You have to be tough and strong and virile. Look at all the gray in your hair. Now look at my hair. The young people identify with me."

"Muriel likes me the way I am," the Old Humphrey said.

"Hubert, baby," the New Humphrey said, "everyone likes you. I like you. You like him, don't you fellows?"

All the advisers chorused: "We like you, Hubert."

"But being liked," the New Humphrey said "is not going to beat George McGovern in California. I have to make the voters out here believe George is a wild-eyed leftist who is going to make the United States a second-class power abroad and bankrupt us with his welfare programs at home."

"I like George," the Old Humphrey said.

"I like George, too!" the New Humphrey shouted. "But I can't beat him if I say I like him! Can't you get it through that nice head of yours that I want to be President of the United States?"

"I'd rather be liked than President," the Old Humphrey said.

"And that," the New Humphrey said, "is exactly why we won't let you run in 1972."

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Of the 15 top-selling U.S. magazines eight are women's magazines; they have a total circulation of about 52 million. "Godey's Lady's Book," first appearing in 1837, was the model for today's home magazines, setting trends in fashions, morals and etiquette. The World Almanac notes. It was staffed mostly by women and reached a monthly circulation of 150,000 by 1860.

Flowers For the Dead

"We wandered through some graveyards"
I heard somebody say,
"And saw the many graves with flowers
"On Decoration Day,
"But one of the inventor
"Of ball bearing we found bare
"As the one of his grandfather
"Whose son became a millionaire
"Through the same invention,
"Yet, the thing the grandson gave
"Still keeps the world fast moving,
"But forgotten is his grave."
Lo, that was many years ago
And those who loved them long are gone
Regardless of the fame once known
The memory of them can't live on,
All over, there are flowerless graves
Of those who shaped the world we know,
Who blazed the trails, who built the towns,
And upon many tall weeds grow,
The ones whose brilliant minds have paved
The way for all the things today
That we accept, without a thought,
Some without markers—or bouquet,
For flowers are put with loving care
On graves of those dear to the heart,
Those closely to our lives entwined
And who, in life, have had a part,
The great and famous, too, have died,
As someday, everybody must,
And where the bodies once were laid
Today is just forgotten dust,
The flowers, we place not on the graves,
But in the sometime memories when
The stories, handed down, retold
By mouth or print, now and then.

Boat Tours On Potomac Promoted

By CYRENE DEAR

WASHINGTON — Washington may soon become the Venice of America if a group of young men can realize their dream of seeing the nation's capital by boat. The Potomac Boat Tours hope to be as effective here as the water excursions and commuting is in Paris, London, Amsterdam and New York.

Their plan is not only for the pleasure of schoolchildren and sightseers but to aid the environment and improve ecology. There is no reason, they say, why stops for government personnel cannot be made at the Pentagon, Kennedy Center, Rosslyn, Alexandria, L'Enfant Plaza and Georgetown. This dream needs the cooperation of the National Park Service for docking, but look what it could do for highway traffic as well as pleasure. To quote George Bernard Shaw: "You see things; and you say, 'Why?' But I dream things that never were; and I say, 'Why not?' "

Washington is scenically beautiful, surrounded by the woodsy hills of Maryland and Virginia. The Chesapeake and Ohio Canal offers the mule-drawn barge, canoeing, boating, fishing, hiking and cycling in summer and skating in winter. The Great Falls in both nearby states with their surrounding parks could be included among the great wonders of the world.

The flower-bedecked parks, small and large, scattered all over the city and in front of the many historic buildings help preserve the city beautiful.

All summer long these parks afford entertainment provided by the National Park Service. A youth from Oslo, Norway initiated the program May 23 at Lafayette Park with a pianist who played Edvard Greig, a fiddler who bowed folksongs on his pearl-inlaid Hardanger fiddle, and a soloist who thrilled not only Washington's Norwegian colony but brown-bag luncheon eaters as well with his rendition of "Norge! Norge!"

A Mexican musical group entertained the following week at noon at this magnificent park across from the White House.

The President and Mrs. Nixon no doubt were impressed with their suites in Moscow's Palace of the Czars, but Pat is no doubt glad to get back to her newly decorated White House. Today's Thoughts

"No one can serve two masters, for either he will hate the one and love the other, or he will be devoted to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and mammon." — Matthew 6:24.

Anniversary Day

Gene Strelow, left, who began to work for the Sedalia Bank and Trust Co., in June, 1932, Friday received a gold watch from Jack Kniest, bank president, during the 40th anniversary celebration of the bank Friday. Strelow is the bank's senior vice-president. Other employes of the bank started the day with a piece of this four-tier anniversary cake.

Bank Marks 40th Anniversary

The cutting of a giant-sized four-tier cake and the presentation of a gold watch to the employe with the longest service marked the 40th anniversary celebration of the Sedalia Bank and Trust Co., 111 West Third.

Recipient of the gold watch was Gene Strelow, Route 1, who joined the bank as "extra help" when it opened in June, 1932. Strelow, who was then attending Sedalia High School, worked in the afternoons. Over the 40 years, Strelow has seen many changes in the bank — he is now senior vice-president — the number of employes has increased from six to 28, and the bank introduced computers to speed up work.

According to Jack Kniest, bank president, it was the first bank in central Missouri to open a drive-in facility. A new drive-in bank is being constructed at Broadway and State Fair Blvd. which is scheduled to open June 16.

A third drive-in facility is planned for Hughesville and is likely to be built before the end of this year, Kniest said. The bank's $100,000 asset in 1932 have grown to the present $16 million plus, he added.

The present directors are Jason V. Ott, chairman, Donald Barnes, T. W. Cloney II, T. W. Hurley, J. J. Griffin, L. R. Hughes Jr., Jack Kniest, K. U. Love, Paul J. Hedderich, Frank V. Mehl, Robert L. Rocke, W. G. Whitaker and Philip McLaughlin.

Father Tells Of Rescue

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — The story of a Hutchinson Air Force pilot's rescue from deep inside North Vietnam after he ejected from his jet fighter has come to light in letters to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M.B. Markle of Hutchinson.

Lt. Markle called his parents from overseas in mid-May and told them he had experienced a "night of terror," that he was all right and that he could not tell them from what city he was calling.

Here is his father's accounts of what happened:

"He was in a flight of Phantom jets 30 miles west of Hanoi when one of the other pilots radioed him to take sudden evasive action to avoid an enemy missile which was closing in on his plane from the rear.

"In doing so, his plane went out of control and into a cloud bank. They were in an area where there were 5,000-foot mountains and their altitude was 8,000 feet, so his decision was between possibly crashing into a mountain or ejecting.

"John and his navigator both successfully ejected and landed in an uninhabited valley. By his training, good luck and the help of a lot of brave people, he was rescued by helicopter 5½ hours later. No word was received from his navigator and it is feared he was captured.

"After two days in a hospital for observation and one day's rest at his base, he has been back flying every day."

Lt. Markle downed his first Mig May 10.

Hamburger Prices Said Declining

WASHINGTON (AP) — The price of beef is on the rise at supermarkets, but the price of a quick "Quarter Pounder" hamburger is going down.

The McDonald's Corp. says it will comply with the Price Commission order Friday to cut the price of the "Quarter Pounder" hamburgers and cheeseburgers sold in 31 company-owned restaurants.

The commission ordered the rollback to the base price level by June 16 because it said the company raised prices without commission approval. The Oak Brook, Ill., firm also was ordered to reduce the price by June 30 to a level low enough to repay customers for the charges found improper.

At many more eateries and at supermarket meat counters, consumers can expect higher prices, another government agency said Friday.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported that wholesale livestock prices increased 4.9 per cent in May as the over-all Wholesale Price Index rose 0.5 per cent, seasonally adjusted.

By comparison, the over-all increase in each of the previous months was 0.1 per cent when food prices were declining.

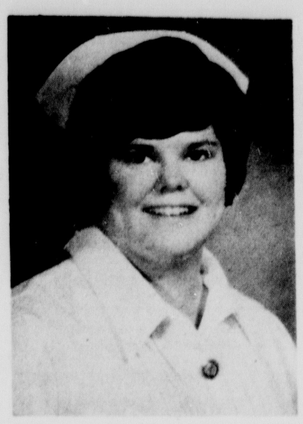
The Labor Department also reported that the nation's unemployment rate remained at 5.9 per cent in May, the same as in March and April.

Claim Dowd Best State Candidate

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Lack of entanglement with current statehouse administration establishes Edward L. Dowd as the best candidate among Democratic gubernatorial hopefuls, about 1,000 persons attending a dinner were told Friday night.

Former Lt. Gov. Hilary Bush, in remarks prepared for a testimonial dinner in behalf of Dowd's campaign, called the current machine of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes and Lt. Gov. William Morris one which has "unfortunately led the Democratic Party to the sad state of affairs we are now experiencing statewide."

Both Morris and State Sen. Earl R. Blackwell of Hillsboro, Bush contended, are too involved in party infighting and patronage battles to lead a "cohesive, effective Democratic general election campaign."



Mary Elizabeth Vandekamp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Vandekamp, 407 West Seventh, will graduate from Deaconess Hospital School of Nursing, St. Louis, June 10. Graduation exercises will be held at 10 a.m. in Graham Chapel on the campus of Washington University.

Opening lead—♠ Q

By Oswald & James Jacoby

South thought for quite a while before passing his partner's six-club bid. He finally decided that grand slams were wonderful but small slams were rich enough for his blood.

He won the spade lead in his hand and noted that there was some slight play for seven and that even six was not a guaranteed contract.

Then South proceeded to play the hand very carefully to bring home his contract in spite of a 5-2 diamond break and badly placed hearts.

He started out by leading a diamond to dummy's ace and ruffing a second diamond. Back to dummy with the king of trumps to ruff a third diamond and get the bad news that dummy's fifth diamond was not going to set up.

This didn't worry South at all. Trumps were breaking 2-1 and his slam was home.

If you don't see the sure thing play, here it is. South just led a second club to dummy and ruffed another diamond. Back to dummy with the ace of spades in order to lead dummy's last diamond but South didn't ruff this one. He simply discarded his seven of hearts and showed West his hand.

West was right between a rock and a hard place. If he led his last spade, South would ruff in dummy and discard his queen of hearts. If he led a heart it would be right up to South's ace-queen.

Legislative Reforms Have Long Way To Go

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Sorting through the debris left from the 1972 Missouri legislative session makes it clear that the legislature still has a long way to go in reforming itself.

Many leaders in both parties want to do that and there's been a lot of talk about it in recent years but the real job still remains to be done.

Study after study has emphasized the problem — unless the committee system is improved, the legislative branch of Missouri's government is heading for a breakdown.

The Citizens' Conference on State Legislatures has spelled it out in detail in ranking the effectiveness of Missouri's legislature far down on the national list.

This year, legislative leaders and lobbyists joined in complaining about the way the committee system was working. Many committees shuffled bills out to the floor with committee approval in almost assembly line fashion.

The result was that both the House and Senate spent endless hours in debate, trying by floor amendments to correct mistakes or make substantive changes in bills which should have been the work of the committees.

Hasty writing of amendments from a legislator's desk on the floor makes for bad legislation and leads to further mistakes. Often such bills wind up in the courts for testing of their constitutionality or for clarification.

Experienced legislators know these dangers, yet in the 1972 session both the House and Senate spent half of their time or more doing work on the floor that should have been done in committee.

One veteran lobbyist, succesful at his trade, pointed out that for years the legislators have relied on lobbyists to do much of their research, draft amendments and marshal the facts they would need for presenting a bill on the floor.

"This year we just threw up our hands," he said. "With 900 bills carried over from last session, and only four months to work on bills, its was just impossible."

Like most professionals, he deplores sloppy work.

He predicted many of the bills passed in 1972 would wind up in the courts because of deficiencies in their drafting and in the drafting of amendments to such complex pieces of legislation as the billboard control or the unemployment compensation bills. Both were passed under pressure to meet federal deadlines. No one really knew what all their effects might be.

In the last two years, the legislature has tried several times to do something about the problem but thus far most of these efforts have failed.

It would be relatively simple to beef up the legislative research committee staff so it could do more than just draft legislation. But that would take money and the necessary appropriations have not been forthcoming.

This year the Senate Accounts Committee sought the advice of a special citizens' advisory committee on the problem. Membership represented a broad segment of concerned people — including the news media, governmental research organizations, labor, industry and the Citizens' Conference on State Legislatures.

The advisers recommended permanent research and legal staff be hired to work for the major senate committees dealing with legal and fiscal problems, including taxes, school aid, constitutional changes and others.

That effort also went down the drain when the governor vetoed a grant from the federal Office of Economic Opportunity to finance the initial staffing.

The governor said a proposed $29,000-plus salary for the first research and legal aide was too high. He prediced that would cause trouble with the House, with other legislative employes and with administrative agencies which cannot pay that kind of money.

Everyone seems to agree that professsional legislative staffing has done wonders for the states that have tried it — California, Illinois and others.

But right now in Missouri it looks as if nothing can be done in this field until the 1973 legislature meets next January to tackle the problem again.

Portrait An Art Treasure

LONDON (AP) — Two sisters have discovered that a dusty old family portrait that has hung unnoticed in their home for 40 years is a Gainsborough masterpiece no one even knew existed, art experts said Saturday.

The painting, valued by an unsuspecting insurance agent in the 1930s at only $2,600, may be worth as much as $338,000.

The sisters stumbled on the art treasure last week when they turned up the old insurance valuation as they cleared up the effects of their late father, Maj. J. Townshend.

They called Sotheby's, the British art dealers, about selling the three-foot square portrait. Sotheby's expert Andrew Festing made a routine check of the painting at the sisters' home in southeast England and discovered that it was actually a Gainsborough.

Sotheby's said the portrait, "The Grosvenor Family," was an unrecorded masterpiece by the famed 18th century English artist and was painted before he began his famous landscape series.

"The discovery of such an important work by a great British artist is almost without precedent," a spokesman for the dealers said.

He said the painting is comparable to "Mr. and Mrs. Robert Andrews," considered by many experts to be Gainsborough's greatest work.

Claim Mishap Could Damage Kennedy Bid

NEW YORK (AP) — A poll conducted in Illinois in April for Harper's magazine indicated "the stigma of Chappaquiddick" still persists for Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and that it may be getting worse.

Pollster Oliver Quayle's surveyors questioned a cross-section of 455 voters in Illinois, chosen because its "socioeconomic makeup is a microcosm of the nation's."

The poll said the results showed Kennedy running stronger than any other Democrat against President Nixon, but losing the public's trust at a time when Nixon was gaining it.

Using a "trust index," measuring voter's trust in public men on a scale of 0 to 100 per cent, Kennedy scored 40 in the Illinois poll, down one per cent from last November, while Nixon rose six points to 66.

The national "trust index" in April was 53 for Kennedy to 59 for Nixon, the poll showed.

Forty-four per cent of those polled agreed with the statement, "In my opinion, Edward Kennedy behaved immorally before his car went off the bridge at Chappaquiddick."

U.S. 550 near Ouray, Colo., is known as the Million Dollar highway because it once was surfaced with gold-bearing gravels by mistake.

THE BIGGEST SELLING CAR IN EUROPE IS NOW FOR SALE IN SEDALIA.

All this becomes more meaningful when you consider that, over there, they have fifty different kinds of cars to choose from.

And that their choice is based on sixty years of driving these various cars under conditions that run all the way from the sub-zero winters of Sweden to the Alpine roads of northern Italy to the traffic jams of Paris to the no speed limit driving of the German autobahn.

Now, if you've been trying to decide between the dozen or so small cars sold here in the States, stop in at our new showroom and look over our eight Fiat models.

It'll make your decision considerably easier.

Wins Best Picture Award

Acclaimed in Canada and the United States for "My Uncle Antoine," Claude Jutra, left, with stars Jacques Cagnon (the boy Benoit) and Jean Duceppe (Antoine) is surprised by his own success. (NEA)

For 'Uncle Antonine's' Creator

Films, Not Fame, Is The Thing

By RALPH NOVAK

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Canadian film-maker Calude Jutra, though he fairly bristles with international awards, is a virtual unknown to American audiences. And it probably won't break his heart even if the situation stays that way.

Jutra is interested in impressing Americans. He took his most recent film, "My Uncle Antoine," to the recent Chicago Film Festival, where it won the best picture award after having won eight of the total 12 awards at the 1971 Canadian Film Festival. And now that the film has opened in New York, Jutra hopes that it will be shown elsewhere in the United States.

He is still, however, far short of the stereotypical movie magnate who dreams only of making a film with John Wayne, Paul Newman, Steve McQueen, Frank Sinatra, Doris Day and 500,000 extras and becoming the rage of Hollywood. He even betrays a certain lack of maniacal dedication to the pursuit of an Oscar.

"There are other things in life besides winning Oscars," Jutra says. "I would be perfectly happy making one small-budget film a year in Quebec and letting it go at that."

As a 19-year-old, Jutra won first prize at the 1949 Canadian Film Awards for directing and writing and he has been absorbed in movies ever since, trying his hand at every job in the business except making popcorn. Up until now, his best-known film here was "Take It All" ("A Tout Prendre") and if, as is likely, you have never heard of it, you have some indication of how famous he is.

"My Uncle Antoine" may change all that. The story of a boy growing up in the 1940s in an asbestos mining town in Quebec, it is a classic film reminiscent of Francois Truffaut's "The 400 Blows," subtle, straightforward and filled with the powerful emotional discoveries of adolescence.

Jutra was co-writer, co-editor and director of the film, in addition to acting in a major role. It is very much his movie.

"This was something very deep in my heart," he says. "I look back to my own childhood with warmth. There are moments of misery but it is still something you like to go back to."

Going back to earlier days is in fashion these days and Jutra recognizes the relationship between "My Uncle Antoine" and the wave of restrained nostalgia that led to such American films as "The Last Picture Show" and "Summer of '42."

"I think there is a general sadness today, a feeling that things aren't going very well," he says. "And we have no place to run away to now except the past.

"In films, so many of the effects have been milked that the most enormous statements have become cliches and we have to come back to genuine moral values."

Jutra refuses to be any more specific about what those "moral values" are. He relies, he insists, on the film to transmit his ideas.

"I always try to please myself with my films," he says. "You can't please everybody and you shouldn't try, because if you do you end up with a formula film.

"I want the audience to come out of this film feeling happier, a little closer to their fellow man. And I would be happy if this film is something that leads to love."

But then Jutra seems embarrassed that he has made a remark that borders on the pretentiousness he so stuidiously avoids. He is, after all, a man who is anxious only to get back to Quebec to work on his next film and a man who is still a little stunned by the popular acceptance "My Uncle Antoine" received in Canada.

"You know, in Toronto, for the first time I saw a queue of people going to one of my films wrapping around the block," he says. "I kept going back to look at it."

Russel Returns To Hollywood

There will be a sequel to that very funny movie, "The Hot Rock," which starred Robert Redford and George Segal as two inept crooks. Donald Westlake, who wrote the book the movie was based on, has a new one, "Bank Shot," which is even funnier and features the same characters. It has been bought by the same producers who did "The Hot Rock."

Nobody is sure yet whether Redford and Segal will do "Bank Shot." Westlake would like to see them do it, of course, but it's far from definite.

Westlake had written many serious crime novels, using the pen name Richard Stark. Some of those novels, which all dealt with a crook named Parker, were made into such movies as "Point Blank" and "The Split."

It came time to do another Parker story and Westlake had an idea. He wrote his usual one-page outline and read it to his wife. She laughed. He read it to his agent. He laughed. So he decided he had a comedy. That's how "The Hot Rock" was born. He used his own name on it.

Hijacking Movie Shows Bad Size

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — The tremendous impact of motion pictures on the public places a worrisome responsibility on the shoulders of responsible movie-makers. And most of them are responsible citizens. There are a few in the business who would do anything for a buck, but the majority genuinely care about the effect their product will have on the minds of the audience.

One of the responsible ones is producer Walter Seltzer. So I was surprised to learn that he was making a movie called "Skyjacked," dealing with the hijacking of a commercial plane in flight. I wondered whether the film, when it was released, might trigger another rash of real-life hijackings.

But Seltzer says he's sure that won't happen.

"All of us connected with the film," he says, "are people with a strong sense of social responsibility. Neither myself nor Charlton Heston nor Rosey Grier — none of us — would do anything to jeopardize people's lives."

Heston heads Seltzer's big cast, which also includes Yvette Mimieux, James Brolin, Claude Akins, Jeanne Craine, Walter Pidgeon and Leslie Uggams.

"The film doesn't make hijacking attractive at all," Seltzer says. "On the contrary, it shows just how bad it is for everybody. It also makes a big thing out of showing that, with the airlines, public safety is the paramount concern."

As proof of his position Seltzer says that he was given cooperation by the FAA and the government. They let the company use planes of the New Mexico National Guard, painted to look like Russian MIGs, for scenes in which the plane is diverted toward Moscow.

The commercial airlines, however, did not cooperate. The whole subject of hijacking is, understandably, something they're most reluctant to get involved with. Seltzer got his 707 from a non-scheduled airline.

"Skyjacked" has an interesting history. It is based on a novel called "Hijacked," by David Harper. Like so many authors, Harper was disappointed in the way his publisher was promoting his book. When no movie sale was forthcoming he took ads in Hollywood's two trade papers — Daily Variety and the Hollywood Reporter — to let movie-makers know about it.

Seltzer's brother saw the ad and called Walter's attention to it. Walter bought a copy, read it, liked it took an option on it. Then MGM agreed with him and the picture came to be.

New Movie 'Skyjacked'

Would an air hijacker succeed with his plans if passengers included Leslie Uggams, Rosey Grier and James Brolin? Only those who see the movie, "Skyjacked," will know. The big question in Hollywood is whether such a movie should be produced and possibly encourage more hijacking incidents. (NEA)

'Hair' Celebrates Fourth Broadway Anniversary

Butler's Sun Shines On

Michael Butler's nine-project schedule includes a health food shop-restaurant in Manhattan, where he's shown here. The millionaire impresario of "Hair," he has programmed an orderly future for himself and Michael Butler Associates, Inc. — three plays, three motion pictures and three miscellaneous ventures. "Hair," the rock musical which started it all, has recently celebrated its fourth Broadway anniversary. The Age of Butler, guided by the stars, seems well under way.

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The people who made "Hair" a global event are very heavy now into organic food, royal polo and the far galactic yonder.

Because that's the way Michael Butler, grand sachem of the tribe, would have it.

"I want one set bag of nine projects and freeze on them," asserts the millionaire entrepreneur of show business. "Of all the inner family I'm the worst when it comes to being easily diverted into doing something else."

He couples his far-bruited affection for astrology with numerological nicety in programming the future of Michael Butler Associates Inc., the loose-firm core organization around which satellite clan groups revolve.

"There are to be three sets of three," runs his explanation. "Three plays, three motion pictures and three miscellaneous."

Mustachioed Butler filed an impromptu over-all report on his activities a few days ago while in town to help celebrate the fourth Broadway anniversary of the rock musical that started the whole enterprise. Celebration of "Hair" included a Central Park frolic open to the public at large. Before turning discussion elsewhere, the impresario breezily summarized that show's achievements. To date, 35 troupes in 22 countries have performed in 14 languages for 26 million spectators.

"The last time I looked," he says when pressed, "the overall gross was $65 million." That doesn't include such collateral benefits as the New York original cast album which has supplanted the previous sales champion, "My Fair Lady."

Butler originally got involved with "Hair.." in mistaken belief it had something to say about American Indians. His franchise included presentation in this country only. When the authors began licensing overseas versions, however foreign sponsors gravitated toward the home company for assistance and advice.

"About a year and a half ago I was quite down about it all," admits Butler, "and I could hardly listen to 'The Age of Aquarius' anymore. I'm comparatively calm again now."

The staff wizard has already set Oct. 17 at 7:30 p.m. as the ultimate date for the Broadway premiere of the tribe's next theatrical opus, "Space." It is being composed by John Phillips, guru of "The Mamas and the Papas" and will star his wife, Genevieve Waite.

"It's quite different from 'Hair,' but is the same genre," Butler defines. "Everybody is into the space thing to a greater or lesser degree today."

Entertainment which centers Butler Associates interest is the sort that seems greatly to intrigue audiences at opposite ends of the age spectrum, he finds.

"From 'Hair' we know the two groups which react the quickest and strongest are kids and the old. The old-freak out because they are beyond hangups, they are getting ready to make the big trip and really dig what the show is about.

"That's why I don't believe in disrespect for elders. I don't want them to tell me how to run my life, but I do want their experience.

"The middle-aged are the squares who are hung up."

He forecasts "Hair" has at least one more year of stage vitality left in this country. Movie rights are being bid for now by two major studios, but the boss may decide to do it himself as one of the three planned films.

Most immediate on the production agenda is one of the miscellaneous items. On Aug. 6 in the great park of England's Windsor Castle and international polo match is to be held.

As a member of the steering committee and polo patron, Butler has obtained rights to transform the event into a spectacular for eventual television showing.

"I call the affair an encampment of elegant barbarians," he says. "Polo is a hideously misunderstood spectator sport, just as hockey was years ago."

By presenting the Coronation Cup event in an atmosphere of posh sleekness, with picnic pavillions, minstrels, jugglers and other acts of bucolic merrymaking, Butler hopes to enchant watching millions with an absorbing video novelty.

Van Dykes Thrive in Desert Retreat

By DICK KLEINER

CAREFREE, Ariz. — (NEA) — Ever since they've been married, Dick Van Dyke has been promising Marge that one day they'd celebrate their anniversary in Acapulco. They haven't made it yet. But this year they did spend their 24th wedding anniversary in Harold's Cave Creek Corral.

The Van Dykes have made their choice. They've turned their collective backs on the swinging Hollywood life and opted for the simple life of the desert. And they've never been happier.

Dick says that when he and Marge first moved to Los Angeles, they crossed the desert and fell in love with the idea of someday living there. Now that they've made the move, they enjoy it thoroughly — so thoroughly that they rarely go anywhere else.

Dick bought a 180-acre ranch in Cave Creek, a few miles down the road from Carefree. And there they live a free and easy kind of life in a free and easy kind of house.

It's a house designed for as little housekeeping as possible. Dick says you can almost clean it with a hose — it's mostly glass with slate floors and practically nothing hanging on the walls.

Dick won't say what the name of his ranch is — he doesn't want a parade of visitors — but he will say that his cattle brand is the "W-Lazy-V."

The W is for his father-in-law, whose name is Willett. He lives with them and takes care of the cattle. And the Lazy-V is for Dick, who doesn't do much of anything around the house.

They don't run many cattle, just a few head, and they are mostly pets. But they recently had to butcher one old steer, who had become cantankerous. It may be a coincidence but the cantankerous steer's name was Spiro.

They have a few horses but Dick doesn't ride. He and Marge prefer to walk, just hiking across the desert looking for interesting things. On one of those walks, Dick came across some rocks which looked too perfectly shaped to be natural.

He began digging and found a stone house. He's still excavating it, slowly and carefully. He sent a piece of the stone to Berkeley, where they carbon-tested it and found it dated from 200 B.C.

Then there's the animal life of the desert which intrigues them. They've asked the highway patrol and the Arizona rangers to bring them any orphaned animal they find. At the moment, they're raising a baby rabbit, a baby coyote and a baby boar.

Every night, Dick goes outside and whistles and a group of coyotes come around for their daily handout. The animals are so plentiful and so bold that Marge can't raise flowers or vegetables — the rabbits and squirrels take care of the garden patch.

When the Van Dykes bought the ranch, it had been empty four years and the place was crawling with snakes. These have been killed off or chased away and Dick says they rarely see a rattler any more.

"But I did kill one last Sunday," he says, very matter-of-factly.

Their children are mostly grown and embarked on their own careers. The two youngest are Stacy, who is 17, and going to California Institute of the Arts in September, and Carrie Ann, 10. Every morning, she goes down to the road and climbs into the school bus like all the other kids in the desert.

Maybe next year, they'll get to Acapulco for their 25th anniversary. But don't bet on it.

Likes The Simple Life

FILMED IN HOUSTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Jack Horger has been assigned film editor of "The Thief Who Came To Dinner." The Warner Bros. release will be filmed on location in Houston from a screenplay by Walter Hill.

COMEDY ON POLICE

NEW YORK (AP) — "Freebie and the Bean," a contemporary action comedy about two police officers, will be brought to the screen later this year. The story is from an original screenplay by Floyd Mutrux.

Swede Outshines Speedboat Chase

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Movies get pigeon-holed in people's minds. When you think of "The French Connection," you immediately think of that chase under the El in New York. And there's another chase that is planting itself indelibly in the public consciousness — the speedboat chase through the Amsterdam canals in "Puppet on a Chain."

That's doing the star of the film a disservice. He's Sven-Bertil Taube, a Swedish actor playing an American agent. Even though most people who've seen it remember "Puppet" as the speedboat-chase picture it may have a greater significance than that — introducing Taube to the American audience.

He thinks the film may bring him some big offers but he's not sure he wants them. As it is he's booked for over a year. He appears on the Swedish stage and in Swedish films. He also has a rousing secondary career as a singer in Scandinavia, recording and singing in concert.

If you wonder how a Swede can get away with playing an American, the story is simple. When Taube was 17 he went on a summer skiing tour through Europe. In Rome he met an American teacher, Jerry Hannan, who suggested that the youth should go to America to study.

Hannan arranged for several U.S. schools to send him applications, which he filled out. And he was awarded a scholarship to the Cherry Hill School in Darien, Conn. — everything but transportation. Luckily, Taube's godfather owns some ships, and he sailed from Sweden to Quebec in one and then took the train to Connecticut.

The Eerie World Of ESP—Are We All Part of It?

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR GOV. RONALD REAGAN of California*

I was shocked recently to read a piece quoting you as saying we should not forget the Chappaquiddick incident involving Sen. Edward Kennedy. Was this a misquote, or are you saying we should judge our public figures by the tragedies that happen in their lives?—C. Braun, Stockton, Calif.

● I have never mentioned the unfortunate incident at Chappaquiddick. I have, however, had a few comments to make about the Democratic hopefuls and their California campaigning. Here is my entire remark: "Senator McGovern has been out here recently testing the political water to see if it's all right for Teddy Kennedy to walk on." Senator Kennedy has displayed a somewhat less gentle approach in remarks he has made about me. And I think my remark hardly ranks with Senator Kennedy's charge that President Nixon deliberately sent young Americans to their deaths in order to further his own political career.

FOR ERIC SEVAREID

I notice that you make references that show your familiarity with Old Testament Biblical history. Where did you acquire this learning?—Mrs. Harry Price, Fort Myers, Fla.

● If you were a small boy raised in a Norwegian Lutheran Church family in a small North Dakota town long ago, you learned your Bible—or else.

FOR PETER USTINOV, actor, writer, director*

You know both Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton. Is it true they're constantly fighting with one another?—K. T., Bakersfield, Calif.

● I've just finished directing them in a new movie, "Hammersmith Is Out." In the course of the day, they bicker, they quarrel, they strike attitudes and pretend they're about to strike one another. But I've come to the conclusion this is merely a part of a recurring courtship. And rare it is to hear the language of courtship so long after marriage!

FOR MRS. BOB CUMMINGS

I understand you were an ardent movie fan of your husband before you met him. True?—F. G., San Luis Obispo, Calif.

● Yes indeed. I grew up in Macao, but I had seen every one of his movies before we met. That happened when Bob was in Hong Kong making a movie. I was hired as a script supervisor because I speak six languages, including Mandarin and Cantonese. We fell in love and were married 2½ years later, after Bob consulted three astrologers about whether and when we should be married.

FOR CHER

How do you keep your long hair so nice?—Mrs. R. G., Patterson, N.Y.

● My hair is shampooed every day. It gives it a nice shine and good body. I also use an organic creme rinse and make sure that the ends of my hair are constantly shaped and trimmed to prevent splitting.

FOR JACK WEBB,
producer of the TV series "Emergency!"

Do you use Los Angeles Fire Department equipment in your program?—William B. Strickland, Eureka, Calif.

● Yes, on occasion we are able to use LAFD equipment. Our Rescue 8 unit is our own property—but it is equipped exactly like the county's unit.

FOR JOHN WAYNE

You made movies back in the so-called "Golden Era," and you're still making movies today. Help settle the argument: Which is better—the old Hollywood or the new?—J. Ross, Akron, Ohio

● I think the old days of the responsible moviemakers were generally better. A lot of producers today don't care whether a script is good or bad, as long as it's pornographic and it sells tickets. But I don't think the trend is going to last. I sure hope it isn't.

FOR SAM LEVENSON, comedian-author*

I always appreciated your stories with a moral—I believe you call them essential stories—as much as your jokes. What is your favorite?—L. Smith, Chicago, Ill.

● My favorite essential story goes like this: To solve all family problems, as soon as a child is born, he should be exchanged for another child born to another mother. You see, everybody knows what's wrong with the way those other people are raising their children. Now, if we could raise their children and they could raise our children, we could all have wonderful children!

FOR BARBARA EDEN, actress*

We were fans of "I Dream of Jeannie" and were disappointed that it was canceled. Will you be back on TV soon? —L. Smith, Salem, Ore.

● Two new formats are now being completed and hopefully they will be on the air during the 1973-74 season.

FOR WALTER CRONKITE

Does today's news—with all its violence, war and the like—tend to upset you personally? Or are you able to "leave it at the office"?—Gloria Blethrow, Torrance, Calif.

● I don't believe any newsman, or for that matter any other concerned citizen, is able to leave the deep concern we all feel about war and violence and man's inhumanity to man "at the office." However, newsmen are like human beings everywhere in that they have an amazing resiliency that God saw fit to build into them. It is that, I suppose, which permits most of us to lead normal, happy lives despite the tragedy we must deal with daily.

QUIZ / By John E. Gibson

That Eerie Process Called ESP:

How Much Do You Really Know About It?

True or False: Some people are so good at sending and receiving messages by ESP that they can almost dispense with the telephone. (See number 5.)

Most of us have had experiences that might be attributed to ESP – such as trying to phone a friend who is trying to call us at the same moment, etc. Sometimes these are pure coincidence, and sometimes they are ESP. Man may not have wings, but his thoughts do–and it's exciting to think of people's thoughts flying through the air with the greatest of ease. And while science doesn't know exactly what makes mental telepathy work, it knows that it does work when conditions are right. In this quiz, we take a look at some of the findings of the experts.

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. People who are nervous and high-strung have the edge over the rest of us when it comes to ESP ability.

2. ESP works best with people who are congenial with each other.

3. How well you do at ESP depends on your state of mind.

4. You can receive telepathic messages from another person without realizing it.

5. Some people are so good at sending and receiving messages by ESP that they can almost dispense with the telephone.

ANSWERS

1. False. Consensus of studies shows that people who have well-balanced personalities, who are calm and easy-going, make far better showings on ESP tests than persons of nervous or anxious temperaments.

2. True. Studies have shown that people who are close friends, who have an emotional tie with each other, tend to make the highest scores on tests of ESP sending and receiving ability. In other words, the more compatible you are with someone, the more receptive you are to his thoughts – whether they're expressed orally or go winging through the air in silence.

3. True. In studies at the University of California, best results for transmitting ESP messages to another person were obtained when the sender was keyed up and emotionally excited. Not so for receiving messages, however. Best results in this department were obtained when subjects were as calm and relaxed as possible. It would appear that mental-telepathic reception involves a somewhat different process than sending does.

4. True. You may experience it only as a sudden and unaccountable change of mood. ("It's the funniest thing! Only a few minutes ago I was feeling down in the dumps, but now I feel just fine. I can't figure it out.") Could be that a friend was sending you a think-o-gram full of good thoughts. And researchers at Maimonides Medical Center, New York, have shown that ESP messages received while we're asleep influence our dreams. So next time you have one of those weird dreams that make you wonder how on earth you could be capable of dreaming anything like that–relax, it could be you were just receiving thought waves from that fellow who lives down the block.

5. False. Studies show that ESP is dependent on the temperament and mood of both the sender and the receiver. ESP ability is sometimes present, sometimes absent. In laboratory tests of telepathic ability, a subject may make astonishingly high scores for a given period, then suddenly lose his capacity completely. People who think ESP will supplant the telephone are kidding themselves (and that's a case of extrasensory deception!)

The Race for First Lady

By Vera Glaser

Meet the Six Leading

ELEANOR McGOVERN – quiet, spunky and brainy, totes protein bars for quick energy on the campaign trail. Her tiny build (5 feet, 94 pounds, size 4) can be a problem, making it almost impossible to spot her in a crowd. She takes it good-naturedly when TV cameramen, focusing on six-foot Sen. George McGovern, hit her with their equipment.

But politically, the candidate's wife stands tall. She managed her husband's winning House race in 1956, helped him capture two Senate terms, and has campaigned at his side for the nation's highest office for a long, grueling year. She is regarded as one of the best platform speakers of the potential First Ladies.

Wide World

"The high point of my life," Mrs. McGovern recalls, "was winning a high school debate against George." Now five outspoken young McGoverns have joined the verbal free-for-alls. "We have all ranges of political and religious views," their mother says. "Our 16-year-old has decided to become a Catholic. The rest of us are Methodists. They are all independent spirits, and I'm glad."

The White House? "I can't imagine," says this pretty onetime farm girl, "being satisfied with cutting ribbons or giving tea parties. Day care would be one of my things. Mothers should have a choice of staying home or working."

HELEN JACKSON terms Women's Lib "ridiculous. Anything I would say would set it back 30 years." In her book, being a mother is a woman's most challenging task. She resents what she sees as a feminist drive to downgrade domesticity.

The wife of Sen. Henry "Scoop" Jackson is 39, two decades younger than her husband. She has a cool, fragile beauty that has been compared to that of Princess Grace Kelly. Mrs. Jackson is soft-voiced and shy, by her own description, and "not one of those wives who make speeches." But she flashes a ready smile for voters. One gets the impression Mrs. Jackson could take the White House or leave it.

Although Jackson is one of the nation's most knowledgeable experts on defense and conservation, he and his wife rarely discuss those things. "Scoop is away from home at least 12 hours a day," Mrs. Jackson explains. "When he gets back, he is tired. He wants only to roughhouse with the children and read the mail and newspapers."

Pictorial Parade

Mrs. Jackson holds a master's degree in English literature from Columbia University. After her first marriage to a physician ended in divorce, she came to Washington in 1961 to take a job in the U.S. Senate. She met Scoop in the elevator on her first day, and 11 months later they were married. Their children, Anna Marie and Peter, are eight and five.

Mrs. Jackson has no plans to overhaul the White House. "It looks fine to me," she says. She regards Lady Bird Johnson as history's ablest First Lady and would use her as a model.

First Lady candidates still depend on their husbands to enter the White House. Some, like Jane Muskie and Joan Kennedy, may even depend on a deadlocked convention. But this time, the "feminine" point of view could be something for the voters to reckon with.

Challengers to Pat Nixon's Title

CORNELIA S. WALLACE drawls, "I was born in Elba on Pea River. My grandfather Folsom was a country politician, just like George's father and grandfather." Alabama Gov. George Wallace, Cornelia's spouse, now shuns the country as he races hell-bent for Washington—in his words, "the hypocrite capital of the world!"

Cornelia coordinates George's wardrobe, brushes dandruff from his coat, straightens his tie and appears to be in charge of sprucing up his image. The new Wallace, leaner and meaner than the pre-Cornelia model, is sometimes called a demagogue, but that doesn't faze his wife. "History will show he is more of a Populist," Cornelia says.

A stunning brunette with flowing hair, Cornelia's ambitious streak is masked by magnolia-blossom charm. She plays piano, saxophone and organ. She has been a beauty-contest runner-up, professional water-skier and Country-music singer. She and George have six children and a grandchild between them from earlier marriages.

While other wives campaign solo to reach the greatest number of voters, Cornelia sticks close to her man. She rarely veers from "feminine" subjects. Should she move into the White House, she'll probably concentrate on social duties, leaving such things as "leadership" to men. But it would be a mistake to sell Cornelia short.

JANE MUSKIE, a free soul, learned the hard way that a candidate's wife may not relax with the press. Her breezy comments on clothes, liquor and her husband appeared in print, turning Jane herself into an overnight issue. Sen. Edmund Muskie, defending her, broke down before the TV cameras, triggering what seemed to be a decline in his political fortunes. Yet Mrs. Muskie insists, "The more open, honest and direct you are, the more people respect it."

At 45, Jane Muskie is remarkably youthful. A former model, salesgirl and bookkeeper, and now mother of five, she has flashing dark eyes, a mouth that turns up at the corners, and a mind of her own. It is Jane, not Ed, who has the temper, she claims, observing, "Every once in a while I blow." At times she publicly differs with her husband. She favors abortions, for example, while he does not. She counts herself a "feminist," but hates the phrase "Women's Lib," preferring "Equal Rights."

Mrs. Muskie would almost certainly be an activist First Lady, should her husband make a late comeback. Needling Pat Nixon and Lady Bird Johnson, she asserts, "The President's wife can no longer afford the luxury of a single project like volunteerism or beautification." Mrs. Muskie's interests: health, drug abuse, day care. Her children have taken note of her drive. Passing the White House one evening, 11-year-old Ned said, "I bet the first thing Mummy does is paint it blue – that's her favorite color."

JOAN KENNEDY, a spectacular blonde, has been called "the Marilyn Monroe of politics." She's a swinger who loves loud colors and mod clothes, whose miniskirt shocked the White House. She is also warm, sweet, uncomplicated, a devoted mother of three and dutiful wife to Massachusetts Sen. Edward "Ted" Kennedy. Three years ago, when a young woman drowned in Ted's car on remote Chappaquiddick Island, in circumstances that remain mysterious, Ted and Joan's marriage underwent strain. It appears to be stabilized now.

If fate zeros in on Ted next month and a deadlocked convention turns to him, Joan wouldn't cheer. She has called the possibility "a nightmare." She is deeply conscious of the tragic deaths of Ted's two brothers, knows

Joan has accompanied Ted to Europe, Israel and India. When she is not off skiing, she prefers their luxurious $750,000 estate in the Washington suburbs. There, she spends much time practicing the piano. Her talent recently earned Joan $7,500 as a guest star on the Andy Williams TV show. Her love of music is not "pasted on." Joan often drops in unannounced at symphony concerts.

MURIEL HUMPHREY arrived in Washington in 1948 as a shy Senate wife. Now 60—silver-haired, blue-eyed, warm, friendly, chic—she is just hitting her stride as a political asset to her husband, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey. It has been a long road from the sod house in South Dakota where Muriel was born and from those Depression days when she typed, sold sandwiches and had a $7 bank balance. When "Humphrey," as she calls him, was Vice President, they traveled the world together on a red carpet, and Muriel acquired a taste for the White House.

Perhaps the greatest blow of her life was learning that her first grandchild, Vicki Solomonson, born election night 1960, was mongoloid. Since then, Mrs. Humphrey has given much of her time to helping the mentally retarded, and could be expected as First Lady to make that her blockbuster effort.

The Humphreys enjoy their fashionable Washington apartment, but care most deeply for their 25-acre place on Lake Waverly, Minn. Keeping the house and grounds in spit-and-polish shape is their favorite year-round fun. There, Muriel water-skis or runs up a dress on her sewing machine. There, Humphrey teases her about her passion for gardening. "She's going steady with the nurseryman!" he cracks. Over the years, Muriel has proved herself the perfect foil for her bouncy, fast-talking spouse. "I always know what he is thinking, how he is feeling, and he is the same way about me," she says.

The Diet Watch

Are You a "Binge Eater"?

"Binge eater" is a term used in psychological and medical circles, and was coined by psychiatrist Dr. Albert Stunkard, who at the University of Pennsylvania noticed that obese patients would gorge themselves with food from time to time. The binge eater is a person whose sudden binge eating is precipitated by a special event—and who hates himself for his excess afterward. Getting to know and recognize the kinds of events that keep cropping up and exasperating or frustrating you—in both your home and your job—can alert you to the danger. One problem, psychologists point out, is that when you're inclined to binge eat, you can find yourself doing it almost before you know it. So a good idea is to have plenty of low-calorie favorite foods on hand. Sweets are popular with binge eaters, so it's smart to have low-calorie cookies, diet drinks and even low-calorie chocolate pudding (one serving, 50 calories) within reach.—By Harriet La Barre

MARLO THOMAS:

"People on Relief Would Prefer Jobs"

"It's time to get rid of the myths we have on the subject of welfare," says Marlo Thomas. "People tend to think of welfare recipients as criminals who are out to beat the system. But I don't think most people on welfare want to be on welfare, or that they have more children just so they can get on relief. They would rather have jobs. I don't think the needy people should be penalized just because a small group of people cheat. Yet that is what is happening in the current effort to crack down. That's why I got out and actively worked against the HRI bill. I'm appalled at some of the ideas that people are trying to put into effect in the country. I'm against making people work at lower than normal wages in return for a welfare check. Either give them a job at proper wages, or just a welfare check. I'm against forcing mothers to leave their children at centers where there is no community control. I'm against efforts to get children to spy on their parents who are on welfare. . . . Cutting down on welfare is anti-woman, because the woman is the one who must bear the burden. We cannot have people living poorly and not do anything about them. We can't sit comfortably in our living rooms next to the fireplace while people are starving nearby. That's one of the things wrong with this country. People have to think in terms of helping each other."

Frank Howard photographed for Family Weekly by Henry Herr Gill

Baseball's leading behemoth. At 6-7, 270 pounds, the Texas Rangers' Frank Howard has long led major leaguers in overall bulk. But that huge strike zone (above) he presents at the plate makes many pitchers happy.

Are the Biggest Athletes Also The Best?

People used to talk about "the years when giants walked the earth." Right now, a tremendous amount of sports history is being written by giants who are not only walking the earth, but are causing large indentations in the nation's baseball and football stadiums, basketball courts and hockey rinks.

Athletes are bigger and stronger than ever before. This year already has seen 1) wrestler Chris Taylor use his more than 400 pounds to capture the collegiate heavyweight title for Iowa State; 2) the selection of the tallest player ever chosen in baseball's free-agent draft; 3) the selection of the heaviest player ever drafted for pro football; and 4) the arrival of a college-basketball center who stands seven feet, four inches high.

In years past, basketball was dominated by athletic giants, but many of today's examples are from outside basketball. In last January's free-agent baseball draft, the Montreal Expos selected a 6-10½ right-handed pitcher from Omaha, Neb., named Wayne Piper. Should he reach the major leagues, Piper, 19, would become the tallest player to do so.

BASEBALL: FRANK HOWARD (6-7, 270)

"It makes a guy feel puny," smiles 6-7 Frank Howard, the slugging outfielder of the Texas Rangers. "The kids are getting bigger and bigger, and there'll come a time when you'll see kids of 6-9 and 6-10 in all the sports, not just basketball. And, as long as they have the skills to go with the size, there'll be a spot for them," says Howard, who was an All America baseball and basketball player at Ohio State.

Howard lost his claim to the title of tallest active major leaguer when Houston promoted from the minors a young 6-8 pitcher named James Rodney Richard. But no one in baseball can match Howard's overall bulk. During the season, his weight fluctuates between 260 and 280 pounds, "depending on what city we're in and how the steaks are there."

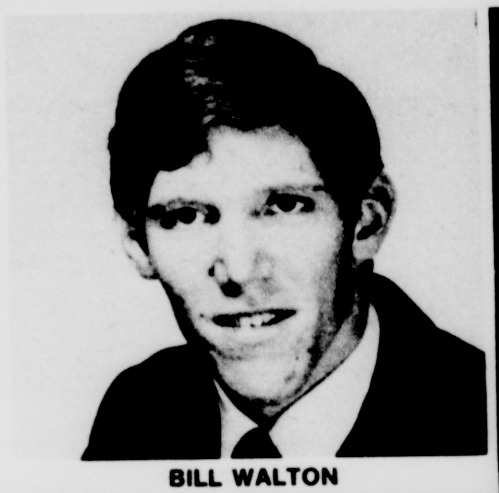
Howard's heft has contributed significantly toward his career as one of the most powerful belters the sport has known. But his massive strike zone and almost nonexistent speed have placed him among the all-time leaders in strikeouts and double plays as well.

Can a man compile the slugging credentials of a Frank Howard without Howard's physical dimensions? The obvious answer is yes, since much smaller men like Henry Aaron, Ernie Banks and Willie Mays have gone far beyond Howard in total home runs – if not in distance achieved on long balls. Howard may propel the ball farther when he connects, but he doesn't connect as often as many men of average size.

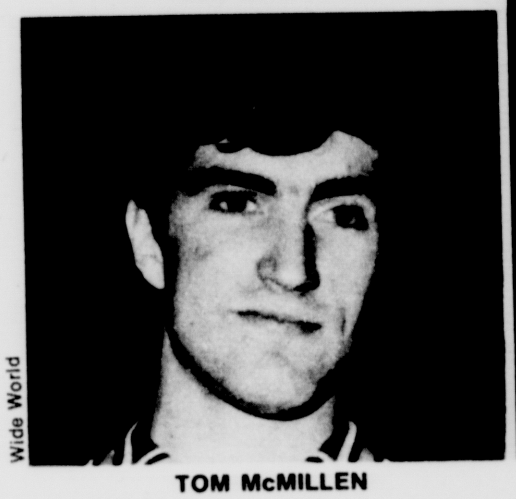
COLLEGE BASKETBALL: BILL WALTON (6-11, 225), TOM McMILLEN (6-11, 225), TOM BURLESON (7-4, 230)

On the college level, UCLA rolled to its sixth consecutive national championship last season on the shoulders of a 6-11 sophomore named Bill Walton. Maryland gained the championship of the National Invitation Tournament with another 6-11 sophomore, Tom McMillen, leading the way.

But the biggest of the big men in college basketball is still another sophomore, whose 7-4 height dwarfs even that of Wilt Chamberlain and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, the pro game's reigning mastodons. He is Tom Burleson of North Carolina State, who enjoyed a fine season in 1971-72 and is expected to advance still farther in the next two seasons of varsity play.

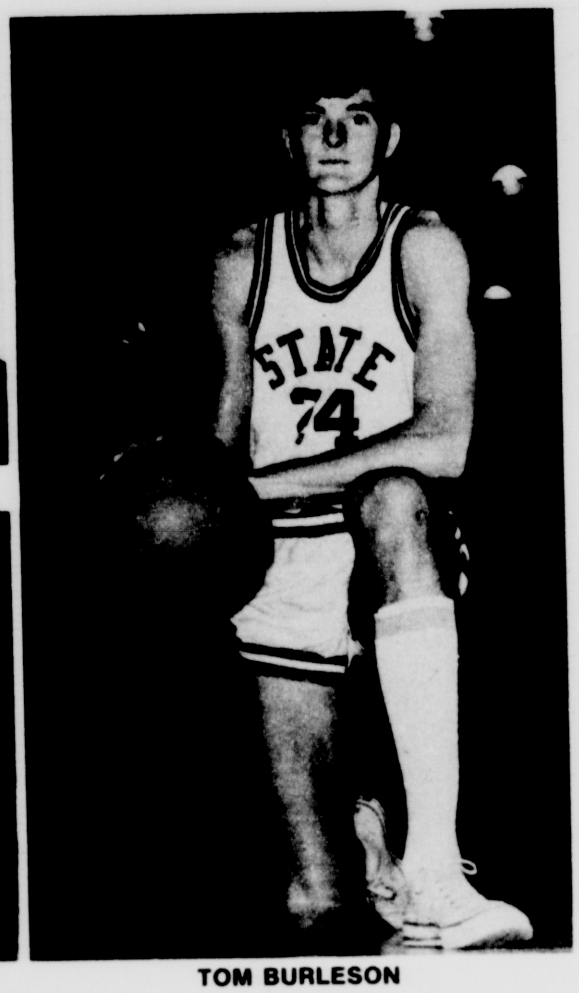


BILL WALTON



Wide World

TOM McMILLEN



TOM BURLESON

Burleson, at 230 pounds, comes from Newland, a hamlet of fewer than 600 people in the mountains of western North Carolina. He began playing basketball as a boy in his father's barn, challenging his older sister Connie to one-on-one matches, which Burleson usually lost.

Burleson feels he has more to offer on the basketball floor than his size. "A lot of people think I'm a big clod," he says. "But I had a lot of very good games and, overall, showed I could play the game." Burleson averaged more than 21 points per game for the season in the tough Atlantic Coast Conference, where Maryland's McMillen also held forth.

Burleson was hailed as a basketball great as far back as the eighth grade, when he already was well over six feet tall. As a high school freshman, he was 6-8 and finally had reached a stage where he could beat his sister, who was a high school star herself.

An easy and gawky target for rough tactics by opponents during his high school years, Burleson learned how to assert himself, and doesn't tolerate the pushing and jabbing that many big men must endure. "I remember once I broke a guy's nose," he recalls. "I caught him with an elbow when nobody was looking. It was a great move."

Football always has sought out bulky athletes, and at various times in its history it has featured players of moderate height but massive girth, such as the late Les Bingaman, the fine but immobile middle guard who played for the Detroit Lions a generation ago. Bingaman weighed 330 pounds, but was little more than six feet tall.

By contrast, today's pro football stars are agile, quick people—as are two of the largest among them, Buck Buchanan of the Kansas City Chiefs and Bubba Smith of the Baltimore Colts. Buchanan, who stands 6-7 and weighs 270, has starred at defensive tackle for the Chiefs since 1963. His speed is so great that he has often out-sprinted Kansas City's running backs. His height also makes Buchanan, a product of Grambling College in Louisiana, extremely effective at knocking down enemy passes.

Bubba Smith, whose real first name is Charles, is a devastating force at defensive end for Baltimore. Yet, like Buchanan, he moves with amazing quickness and often winds up in the enemy backfield bringing down runners much smaller than himself.

For the past couple of seasons, Hank Stram, coach of Kansas City, has been working with a 6-10 player on his roster named Morris Stroud, with the intention of having Stroud use his height and 255 pounds to catch passes and run with them. Stroud learned his lessons well in 1971, catching 22 passes and averaging more than 20 yards in gains with those passes. The idea of a 6-10 giant trampling over enemy defenders as a pass receiver has been keeping most coaches in the National Football League awake nights. Stram feels that Stroud, with such bulk and ability, is "a pioneer, a man who could revolutionize football as the ultimate tight end."

BUBBA SMITH

BUCK BUCHANAN

Revolutionary, too, are the credentials of Gary Kipfmiller, the 16th-round draft choice of the New York Jets for the 1972 season. Known primarily as a college wrestler, Kipfmiller showed New York scouts enough potential as a football player to warrant his selection. Kipfmiller is 6-4 and weighed 370 pounds at the time he was drafted, which would make him the heaviest man ever to appear on a pro football team's roster. Like Wayne Piper, the 6-10½ pitcher drafted by the Expos, Kipfmiller is a native of Omaha, where he did his intercollegiate wrestling. Weeb Ewbank, coach of the Jets, refers to Kipfmiller as an "unusual animal," which may be understating the case.

How does such a giant compare with pro football's average-sized behemoth —for example, a 6-4, 250-pound tackle? Well, to have any real advantage, he would have to combine his devastating size with speed off the mark, and the ability to pursue much smaller men. While he might deliver a telling blow against any opponent he did catch up to, many running backs like Floyd Little and Leroy Kelly would probably have the agility to sidestep or swerve away from him.

If Jack Benny's impressed, shouldn't you be impressed?

$5.40 a month

$5 a month for $25,000 at age 25.

Read how American Republic is challenging over 100 years of insurance tradition as we offer young families an amount of protection they thought only older families could afford.

I'm Watson Powell, Jr., Board Chairman of American Republic Insurance Company.

How can we offer so much coverage at such remarkable rates?

Is this some kind of fly-by-night, limited policy that only pays off under extraordinary circumstances?

No. This is the kind of insurance that I believe people in this country need and want to hear more about. Especially young people.

Pure insurance

Our Americare 39 Plan is pure Term life insurance. (For example, the famous "G.I." insurance available to men and women in the armed services, was Term life insurance.)

Term life insurance has no cash or loan value. It's just plain, pure insurance. It's designed simply to do this: Insure your life and pay your beneficiary.

But isn't that why you want insurance in the first place?

You can see that a 30-year-old man does have $25,000 of protection for only $5.40 a month!

This means if this man dies when he's 30 (it does happen) and has this policy, the beneficiary he has named (probably his wife and children) will get $25,000. During his 30th year, he would have paid $5.40 a month to make sure they had all that protection. $25,000!

Who needs $25,000?

Would a $10,000 policy make more sense?

Would it? How much money would your family need if you die?

How many payments do you owe on your house?

How much would your funeral cost?

Would your wife have to go to work, and how much could she earn?

No salesmen.

Handling everything by mail is another way we keep costs down for you. And if you feel hesitant about buying insurance by mail, let me assure you:

We wouldn't have been in business since 1929 if we didn't perform when people needed us.

More insurance for the money.

Consumer advocates are talking today about the advantages of Term life insurance. People are listening!

Our whole concept is to give you as much straight, pure life insurance protection as we can, for as little money as we can, during each year of your life.

A man has $25,000 coverage until he reaches his 40th birthday. Every year until then his monthly premium goes up slightly. He's getting older so the risk is getting bigger.

From his 40th birthday until he's 65, his monthly premium holds steady at $9 and the amount of coverage goes down some each year. At age 65 the policy converts to a $1,370 Whole Life Plan building future cash and loan values.

Dividends too.

Even though the premium rates for Americare 39 are low, the plan makes provision for the payment of dividends. Of course the dividends can't be guaranteed. No insurance plan can do that.

But because this is individual life insurance, designed to be sold to great numbers of people at low cost, we anticipate that we will be able to pay dividends.

Women.

There are two separate ways a woman can have the protection of Americare 39.

First, she can have the same meaningful coverage as a man, but at a 10% lower rate.

JACK BENNY, "America's Number One Common Sense Buyer," is helping American Republic Insurance Company announce Americare 39. American Republic was founded in 1929 and has surplus to policyholders of more than $22,000,000 and assets of more than $80,000,000. "The operations of the company – American Republic – have been well managed by capable and experienced executives. The results achieved by the company have been very favorable." This is a direct quote from A. M. Best's Life Insurance Reports – the book that has been referred to as "the bible" of the life insurance industry.

$8.60 a month for $25,000 at age 39.

Or, if she's a wife, she can add $2500 of protection for herself to her husband's policy, at a very low cost per month.

Children.

You can have $1000 coverage for each of your children under age 21 for 50c a month added to your basic policy. That's one 50c for all your children no matter how many you have. At age 21 each insured child can have his or her own $25,000 policy with no physical examination.

No physical.

All you do is answer the two questions about health history on the application form.

Of course, if people are in bad health we can't insure them. But most people are in sufficiently good health to qualify.

And if you ever want to convert your Americare 39 policy to a low-cost plan with cash and loan values, you can do it, with no physical examination.

We guarantee your right to renew your policy each year. Your protection can never be cancelled because of your age or a change in your physical condition.

Please don't send money.

I want you to see your policy without risking one cent. Just fill out the application and mail it to us in an envelope.

Affix the special postage-paid label to the front of the envelope. You don't even need a stamp.

When you receive your policy you'll see that it backs up everything we've said in this ad.

Enclosed will be an envelope for your first month's premium. When we receive your premium, your insurance will be in force.

Can you feel safe buying insurance this way?

Some insurance programs do call for the advice and counsel of a trained, professional insurance agent. His services can be invaluable in areas relating to the complex problems of estate planning, annuities, trusts, retirement programs, the establishment of group plans, etc.

However, where the need is for pure and simple Term life insurance, you can feel absolutely confident dealing directly by mail with American Republic.

And remember, American Republic is licensed and regulated by your state Insurance Department.

You may already have some life insurance; however, the added protection of Americare 39 will materially help you build the size of your estate. And for only a few dollars a month.

I urge you to mail your application today.

Think about it: Americare 39 Life Insurance is something you can easily live with, and it may be your family could not live without.

Sincerely,

Watson Powell, Jr.

HOCKEY: PETE MAHOVLICH (6-5, 210)

Pete Mahovlich of the Montreal Canadiens is currently the tallest player in major-league hockey, at 6-5. He has derived no particular physical or mental advantage because of his height, but two men who stand just an inch shorter, one of them a teammate of his, have benefited greatly from their height. The first is Montreal's exceptional goaltender, Ken Dryden, and the other is Chicago goaltender Gary Smith. At 6-4, each can stretch a long way in any direction to stop a flying puck.

PRO BASKETBALL: WILT CHAMBERLAIN (7-1, 285) KAREEM ABDUL-JABBAR (7-3, 245)

"I worked hard to develop the body I have," Wilt Chamberlain has said. "The height has nothing to do with it. I consider myself maybe the best all-round athlete in the world, who happens to play basketball."

CHAMBERLAIN ABDUL-JABBAR

The semifinal series in this spring's National Basketball Association play-offs, won by the Los Angeles Lakers over the Milwaukee Bucks, offered the classic confrontation between the two most able big men in professional basketball history —Los Angeles' 7-1, 285-pound Chamberlain, and Milwaukee's 7-3, 245-pound Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, formerly known as Lew Alcindor.

Chamberlain and Abdul-Jabbar bring far more to basketball than their great size. Chamberlain is one of the strongest men in sports, and is able to harness his strength to produce maximum effectiveness as a rebounder and short-shot specialist. He also has remarkably strong legs.

Abdul-Jabbar is the most mobile bag man basketball has seen. Unlike giants of the past, who have, for the most part, found flowing movement a tough challenge, he moves with grace and agility. Abdul-Jabbar is able to dribble the ball the entire length of the floor against defenders, virtually unheard of for basketball giants.

"Even when I was in high school," says Abdul-Jabbar, "I concentrated on developing all my skills in basketball, not only the ones that pertained to shooting or rebounding. I ran a lot, I dribbled, I passed, I did everything a good basketball player is supposed to do. My height helps me in certain instances, and at other times doesn't mean a thing. I just want to be the best at various skills in basketball."

Can smaller men match up against these two? Chamberlain's awesome strength and Abdul-Jabbar's mobility would make real competition impossible for any centers who possessed neither strength nor agility. But Chamberlain has had difficulty with (relatively) smaller men of greater agility, such as Jerry Lucas of New York and Abdul-Jabbar has found the going rough against some smaller men who are more powerful than himself, such as Nate Thurmond of the Golden State Warriors, and Chamberlain himself.

GOLF: GEORGE ARCHER (6-6)

The team sports aren't the only ones in which big athletes are excelling. George Archer, the biggest competitor on the Professional Golfers Association tour, is 6-6. In the early part of 1972, Archer won the Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open and the Greater Greensboro Open. A native San Franciscan, Archer is considered to be one of the outstanding putters in professional golf, a talent that is obviously unrelated to his size.

TENNIS: STAN SMITH (6-4)

Stan Smith, the number-one-ranked American in tennis, is one of the tallest tennis stars America has produced. His 6-4 height dwarfs everyone else in the U.S. Top Ten, almost as much as his ferocious serve has seemed to dwarf many of his opponents. In 1971, Smith received enough time off from his Army tour of duty to capture the U.S. Open championship, lead the winning U.S. Davis Cup effort and achieve top world ranking.

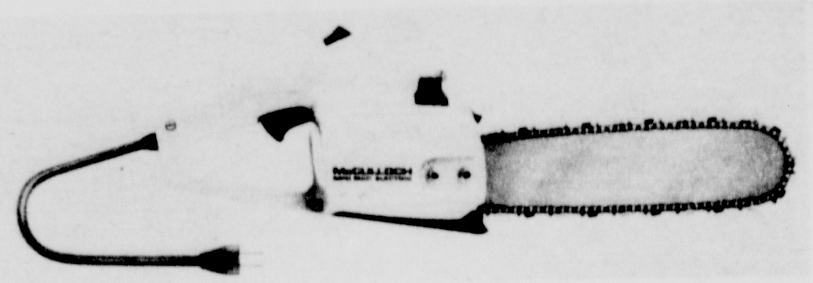
Is Your Family Stuck on What to Give You This Father's Day?

(Maybe You Should Drop Some Hints!)



By Rosalyn Abrevaya

Though it took a long time for Father's Day to be dubbed "official," it's not any less important! How do you think your family will remember you this year? Here are several gift ideas —which boast style, imagination and practicality — to set you (and them) thinking.

The key to the well-dressed man lies in putting the latest looks together — or in reviving clothes you refuse to part with. To wit: A pair of unordinary cuff links from Swank can be worn not only with French cuffs, but clipped on to cover the buttons of any barrel-cuff shirt. In gold, silver or colors, they're packaged four to a box at $5. Or how about a great-looking plaid lounging set in cotton flannel by Pleetway Pajamas at $21, to wear on Sunday morning (it'll make your wife much happier than that old robe!) or when houseguests are underfoot? And a sartorial gift the whole family can give: A knit blazer, sweater vest or knit shirt will give you the newest layered look for fall.

If you're the "up-at-dawn" outdoor type, and ready for a new streamlined fishing rod, talk them into a combination rod and reel with a difference. The exception: Besides being very light and having an all-cork grip to prevent slippage, it features a reel stem that sweeps back behind the hand to give comfortable, complete freedom of movement. The Garcia Mitchell 508 spinning reel, 5½-foot rod, line and spare spool come packaged in a custom-made vinyl case. About $45.

Hi-fi buff? If so, pray that they'll be thoughtful enough to get you your own set of headphones that can plug into most stereo units. About $20. If you're particularly careful about records, you could probably use a stylus force gauge so the phonograph needle can be adjusted for optimum performance with minimum record wear. Under $5.

Photos courtesy of Institute of High Fidelity

A new receiver might be the thing. The Scott model shown here is about $200, a budget price as stereo components go. If members of the family are in an expansive mood (and your budget can stand it), they could pool their resources and give you one of the latest four-channel adapters, another stereo power amplifier and an added pair of speakers. The whole family will enjoy the unbelievable sound!

By Sandy Vargo – as told to Ruth L. McCarthy

At 182 pounds, those horizontal stripes weren't for me. But it took this picture to make me realize it.

ONE thing's for sure. You never see yourself as others do. At least, I didn't – not even after my doctor poked me in the stomach and said: "You're too fat." I just went home and ate a batch of my mother's Kiflis. They're Hungarian pastries, made of rich butter and sour cream dough and filled with nuts and lots of other delicious calories. That's what did it, all right – Mom's baking and my eating between meals. It pushed me beyond 180 pounds before I was even 16 years old.

Actually, my fat kept me off the Honor Roll. Honest. You see, I was an A student in all my classes, except gym. I just couldn't get more than C in that, because of tumbling on the trampoline. I'd always hang back near the end of the line, hoping the bell would save me. It did occasionally. But it didn't save me from getting into that horrible gym suit. One of those Navy blue bloomer jobs. Ugh!

Clothes were really a problem for me. My mother had to order old lady styles out of a catalog, because I needed a size 20½ dress. The only decent things I could get were shorts and shirts, but they showed up my middle something awful. Sometimes, I wanted to cry.

My daddy tried teasing me about my weight, hoping I'd lose. "You'll never get a boyfriend," he'd say. But as long as I could curl up with a good book and a bag of potato chips, I didn't care. Not until the day I saw that fat picture of myself. I decided right then I needed to lose.

Being a bookworm, I'd read those stories in teen magazines about girls who've lost weight with the help of that reducing-plan candy Ayds®. I thought maybe they'd work for me, so I asked my mother about them. When she found that they contain vitamins and minerals, but no drugs, she bought me a box of the plain chocolate fudge-type Ayds at our local drugstore.

I used to read a book a night, but now that I'm 124 pounds, I don't think I'll be staying home that much.

Well, they tasted so delicious, I went on the Ayds plan right away. For breakfast, I took one or two Ayds, like the directions say, with a hot drink—for me, coffee—then I'd have scrambled eggs. Lunch was at school (in Lorain, Ohio) and, believe it or not, at 10:30 a.m. because of my three-hour steno class. Naturally, I wasn't very hungry at that time in the morning, so I'd bring coffee in a thermos and have a couple of Ayds. Then I'd have my dinner at 5:00 p.m. Ayds first, of course, followed by meat, vegetables and salad. I never ate after 6:00 p.m. And you know what? On the Ayds plan, I began to lose weight the very first week. It was terrific. I have to admit, though, it was not until I dropped 30 pounds that others started to notice.

By then, I'd begun to ride my 20 incher bike. I never wanted to before, because it was too hard to pump. But the slimmer I got, the more fun I had. And the more fun I had, the more I pumped. It really helped me firm up.

Pretty soon my clothes were hanging on me, so my mother had to take them in . . . and in. Even my shoe size went from 9B to 8½AA. It's made such a difference in my looks, my doctor's nurse saw me in a store and didn't recognize me. That really made me feel good.

Right now, I'm looking forward to buying a new bathing suit. It might even be a bikini, thanks to the Ayds plan. After all, if I can handle a trampoline now, why not a bikini?

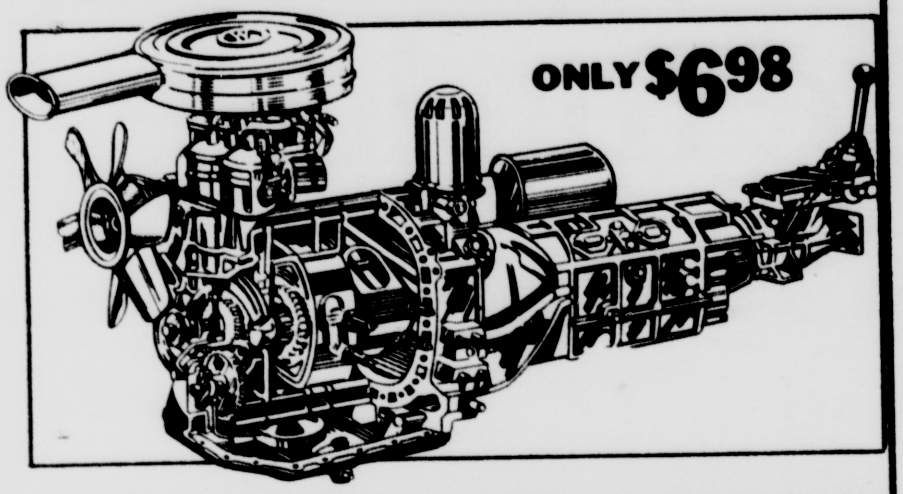
A See-Thru Motorized Scale Model



The NEW WANKEL

The Auto Engine of Tomorrow That Can Be Yours Today!

In the future your cars will probably be powered by a Wankel, the revolutionary pistonless engine that's making headlines now — and will be for years to come in our pollution-conscious era. This is the engine you've read about in newspapers and national magazines . . . the engine that will probably dissipate the smog problem — the same engine General Motors paid 50 million dollars for production rights — and now you can SEE HOW IT WORKS — in this see-thru kit that's a fully operational 1/5 scale model, including every moving and non moving part. Heavy plastic housing lets you see the triangular rotors turning on their shaft, the flash of spark plugs, the rotating fan blades, the moving rubber fan belt. You hear the powerful hum of the motor, too — all controlled by your hand on the stick-shift on-off switch.

This is not a toy, but a finely detailed kit, complete with all pre-painted parts, motor display stand, easy-to-follow instructions. Runs on two AA batt. (not incl.)

COOKBOOK/By Marilyn Hansen

How about an easy barbecue tonight? Fresh fish, corn on the cob and French fries are seasoned with a deft hand, then wrapped in foil and grilled. A light tossed green salad completes the meal.

A Lazy Cook's Barbecue: Fish, French Fries and Corn

GRILLED BLUEFISH IN FOIL

Charcoal briquettes
Butter or margarine
1 3½-4-lb. bluefish or striped bass, dressed and washed
Salt
Pepper
½ teaspoon paprika
3 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ cup chopped onion
½ cup chopped celery
¼ cup chopped parsley or 2 tablespoons parsley flakes
1¾ cups packaged herb-seasoned stuffing mix
¼ cup crumbled blue cheese
½ cup water
Lemon slices

2. Tear off a large sheet of heavy-duty aluminum foil. Heavily butter one side of foil, using 2 tablespoons butter.

3. Place fish on buttered side of foil. Sprinkle fish inside and out with ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon paprika and 1 tablespoon lemon juice.

4. Prepare stuffing: In medium skillet melt 2 tablespoons butter. Add onion and celery, sauté over medium heat for 5 minutes, stirring frequently.

5. Stir in remaining 2 tablespoons lemon juice, parsley, stuffing mix, blue cheese and water; toss lightly to mix. Season with a few twists of pepper from pepper mill.

6. Spoon stuffing into cavity of fish, placing any extra stuffing on the side.

7. Bring up foil lengthwise over fish, fold using double fold. Double-fold ends of foil.

8. Place on grid of grill about 4 inches away from hot coals. Grill 1 hour, turning every 15 minutes.

9. Open foil and test for doneness at thickest point. Fish should be opaque and flake easily. If not done, reseal, grill 10-15 minutes, or until done.

10. Place foil-wrapped fish on serving board, unwrap foil. Place lemon slices on top of fish. Serve right from foil, spooning any juices over each portion. Makes 4-6 servings

FOIL-ROASTED CORN

Salt
Pepper
6 tablespoons water
6 teaspoons butter or margarine

1. Place one ear of corn on small sheet of heavy-duty foil. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and 1 tablespoon water. Dot with 1 teaspoon butter.

2. Wrap foil securely around corn, using double fold. (Use double thickness of foil if fire is very hot.) Continue with remaining ears of corn.

3. Place foil-wrapped corn on grill, about 4 inches away from hot coals. Grill for about 25-30 minutes, turning frequently.

4. Serve hot with additional salt, pepper and butter as desired. Makes 6 servings

FRIES IN FOIL

2 pkgs. (9-oz. size) French fried potatoes, thawed
½ teaspoon seasoning salt

1. On large sheet of heavy-duty aluminum foil arrange 1 package French fries in single layer. Sprinkle with ¼ teaspoon seasoned salt.

2. Bring foil up around French fries, wrap loosely, seal with double fold. Seal ends with double fold. Repeat steps 1 and 2 with second package of French fries.

3. Place on grill about 4 inches away from hot glowing coals. Grill about 30 minutes, turning foil packages every 10 minutes.

4. Open foil, folding back sides. Grill 5-10 minutes to crisp potatoes, stirring frequently with spoon.

5. Serve hot.

Makes 4-6 servings

European Doctor Develops Home Treatment that helps

TIGHTENS SAGGING SKIN ON FACE AND THROAT.....

RELAXES TIRED FACE MUSCLES

IN 15 MINUTES

By Ina Lee

A noted European Doctor, working with a 30 year old Cosmetic Laboratory, has developed a simple 3 step home facial treatment that actually tightens sagging skin on face and throat, relaxes tired face muscles, softens and flattens lines and wrinkles, caused by tiredness, tension and age, as no other cosmetic can.

I saw it demonstrated recently on a group of women over 35. The results were astonishing and almost breath-taking. I saw wrinkles and sagging skin tighten, crepiness on neck and throat visibly disappear and facial lines soften. But that wasn't all! In all cases the skin looked smoother and firmer, and had a more youthful look! It is indeed a wonder-working Cosmetic Treatment.

WHAT HAPPENS WHEN SKIN BEGINS TO AGE

Do you know that when your skin is young the elastic skin fibers are more resilient . . . if stretched they snap back like rubber bands? Do you know that when these fibers are strong, fresh, have plenty of moisture and nourishment, the skin shows no puffiness . . . no sagging muscles . . . fewer lines, wrinkles, crowsfeet . . . shows less dryness and sallowness? And do you know that when the elasticity decreases, this loss shows up in lines, wrinkles, dryness . . . actually promotes and emphasizes the signs of age in your skin?

But, now a face relaxing treatment has been discovered that helps you reduce dryness, increase moisture . . . reduce and flatten lines, wrinkles and crowsfeet . . . firm flabby, loose skin . . . stimulate circulation . . . re-invigorate the fibers and cells of your skin in just a matter of days!

NUTRITIVE SUBSTANCE
Helps Reduce Lines and Wrinkles

The relaxing treatment starts with the application of a relaxing creme. This creme is a revolutionary combination of rich, potent nutritive substances called Biogenic Stimulators, that are actually a part of the secret of creation. These substances feed and moisturize the over-worked cells and tissues of your skin to bring new vigor and tone to aging complexions. The most important of these Biogenic Stimulators is called Placenta, a rare tissue extract that is associated with the source of life itself. Its natural function is to tenderly nourish the unborn with biological elements.

EASY TO APPLY

The first step is to massage the relaxing creme on face, neck and throat, using gentle upward strokes, giving special care to the regions around the eyes, and corners of the mouth. Continue this gentle massage for about 2 minutes.

SUDDENLY . . . Your Skin Takes on a Younger Look

After the relaxing creme is tissued off, you are ready for the second step. Apply the delightful relaxing masque to the face, neck and throat. The secret of this masque is in its scientifically developed formula. It goes to work almost as soon as you put it on. Its medicated ingredients, among them Argilla Colloidal, a tightening and hardening agent, massages and stimulates your skin. It also contains a natural protein that helps activate the skin's own nourishing process.

The relaxing masque delicately penetrates your pores, carefully tightening sagging and flabby skin, tugging at tired facial muscles. When the masque has completely hardened, rinse off with warm water. You will notice a vibrant, satin smooth surface that will completely thrill you! Some of your little wrinkles will appear to have softened and faded. Sagging muscles appear to have tightened. The areas under your eyes, that were so dark, seem lightened. Your skin feels firmer, tighter and looks younger, fresher and smoother.

PROTECTS...TIGHTENS...FIRMS

The third step in the treatment is the application of an exhilarating, unique, relaxing face tonic with Placenta. This unusual relaxing face tonic tightens pores and leaves a protective invisible film that helps guard your skin against dust, dirt and bacteria for hours, at the same time keeps sagging skin on neck and throat taut and firm. The Placenta in the relaxing face tonic gives wonderful results and helps combat the "aging" look.

The medically developed products used in this simple 3 step home relaxing treatment are manufactured and quality-controlled by QUEEN HELENE, and are called Queen Helene Creme Relaxene®, Masque Relaxene®, and Face Tonic Relaxene®.

LIMITED INTRODUCTORY OFFER

These three items, enough for 30 relaxing home treatments, are being introduced for only $5.00! But you must act now! Don't wait another day! This is a limited introductory offer and may not be repeated. The Biogenic ingredients of these sensational formulas are in such limited supply, that we are forced to deal on a first come, first served basis. So right now, while you are still determined to help yourself, take that first big step toward a "younger look" and reap the rewarding benefits you will derive from it. Remember, you have nothing to lose but those tell-tale lines, wrinkles, sagging skin and crowsfeet, that can make your life a misery!

Feel Sagging Skin Tighten
See Lines and Wrinkles Smoothed and Softened

After a single QUEEN HELENE RELAXENE® HOME FACIAL TREATMENT

You too, can look and feel younger tonight, after one "Youth Promoting" RELAXENE Home Facial Treatment!

1 First, apply QUEEN HELENE CREME RELAXENE® over face, neck and throat. Massage gently with upward and outward strokes for about two minutes. Tissue off all but a thin film, which prepares your face for the MASQUE RELAXENE®.

2 Second, smooth on QUEEN HELENE MASQUE RELAXENE® As a tightening agent, Argilla Colloidal, in this plastic-like creme, makes it harden into a masque. Its powerful drawing action helps tighten sagging skin, and soften lines and wrinkles. For best results, use the relaxing masque every other day.

3 After about 15 minutes, rinse off with warm water. It dissolves in seconds. Then apply the QUEEN HELENE FACE TONIC RELAXENE® It leaves a protective invisible film, which helps guard your skin against bacteria, and keeps sagging skin on neck and throat, taut and firm.

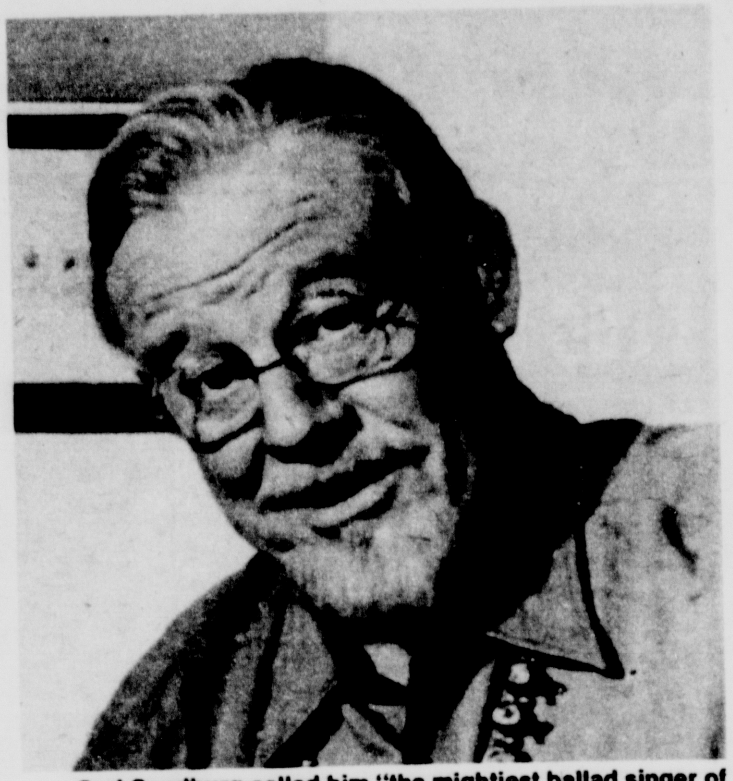
STAR PROFILE
By Gloria Paternostro



Carl Sandburg called him "the mightiest ballad singer of any century"—but Burl is embarrassed if you mention it.

Cheerful Philosopher Burl Ives:

Success Is a Two-Edged Thing

"I got up late," said Burl Ives. "I'm stupid in the mornings—more stupid than usual, that is!" But the merriment in his blue eyes tells you he doesn't believe this any more than you do.

Burl is losing weight faster than fast. In the last two years, he has succeeded in bringing a 57-inch waistline down to 42 inches, losing approximately 150 pounds in the process.

"By the time I'm 65, I will have lost another 40 or 50 pounds," he says firmly. "It's all a matter of attitude. A friend of mine who was somewhat corpulent himself, once told me, 'Show me a fat man, and I'll show you a pig!' And it's true. I had to change my mental attitude toward food. Something inside is fooling you, saying you need food you don't really need. I didn't go on any special diet—I just ate less. And you know, I was hungrier when I was fat than I am now. Mind you, there's still a lot of me left! No, I don't feel any better—I always felt good!

"Change is the essence of everything," says Burl, who, at 63, is at an age when most men resist change. But he loves young people. "I think they're so alive at I involved. I think it's good for us old people to have someone with gall, in sandals and a robe, to challenge us.

Burl Ives loves his successful NBC television series, "The Bold Ones"—as well he might. "'The Bold Ones' has good ratings and good-quality people watching. I enjoy it. But if it were canceled, I wouldn't be upset. I learned a long time ago in this business not to have a glass heart. I never get excited about what I might do—not until it's definite, and the money's in the bank! By the same token, I don't worry about what I can't do—something better may result and I may wind up being quite delighted."

"When I was a young man, I pictured success as I saw it in magazines. I saw a red-brick house, a car, a dog and a lady. Well, I got the house, the car and the dog. And I got the lady. But it wasn't like the picture. Life is never like the picture."

Was success all he thought it would be?

"It depends where you're standing. Looking back, now that everything is good – yes. But things are never what they seem. When I was a young man, I pictured success as I saw it in magazines. I saw a red-brick house, a car, a dog and a lady. Well, I got the house, the car and the dog. And I got the lady. But it wasn't like the picture. Life is never like the picture. Man has a vivid imagination – his achievements can never match his dreams. And like everything else, the dream changes.

"But I'm a happy man. When I get up in the morning and find another day to live, that makes me happy.

"I get sad occasionally. But 'sad' is a hard word to define. Sometimes we think we should be sad, and what we're really feeling is self-pity.

"I used to have a bad temper. As the Irish say, 'There's a divil in all of us.' We're all two people, and we have to control that other person.

Burl had just been to Washington to discuss the Johnny Horizon anti-pollution program sponsored by the Interior Department. "This is something I have a gut feeling about, something I have to do. When I go to a town to help clean it up, the people are delighted. They like to see someone they know, someone from TV or movies, concerned about their town. That's the magic. It gets people together and that's what's necessary. The government can't do it alone, neither can industry, the scientists or the individual. Everyone has to be concerned.

Carl Sandburg called Burl Ives "the mightiest ballad singer of any century," but Burl is embarrassed if you mention it. He even denies that he would rather sing than act.

"I do them both standing in the same place. I deal in words, music, poetry. Creativity is the important thing—it doesn't matter which form you use to express it. My favorite is always whatever I'm involved in now."

What in the World!

CHRISTINE, EX-BEAUTY QUEEN
Now she'll be a nun

"I feel that the time has now come," says 23-year-old Christine Francis, referring to her decision to become a Roman Catholic nun in the strict order of the Cistercians in England. She decided she wanted to be sure. Once winner of Queensland's "Girl in a Million" beauty-queen title, she has said good-bye to her beloved Australia, male company, stylish clothes, sports and freedom. She'll be restricted to the convent grounds for life. "I love champagne, but I don't anticipate hearing the cork pop any more," Christine mused on the champagne flight from Down Under. "Now I'm content to devote the rest of my life to God."

Novelist Irving Wallace, who doesn't fly, has taken up the cudgels for America's trains. Meanwhile, all of the author's schedules are built around his distaste for the airplane. For instance, he has yet to visit a house he owns in the Balearic Islands because it means a one-hour flight from Spain "on a very rickety plane." He raves about America's Super Chief train: "Amtrak has kept it up, and it matches the best in Europe. You can really live aboard that train during the 39 hours from Chicago to Los Angeles. I'm on the board of directors of a lobby to make trains better—The Railroad Passengers Association. We've enlisted a lot of influential people who want to save the train. When I'm finished with this promotion tour [for his new book, "The Word," Simon & Schuster, $7.95], I'll take the train to cover both political conventions from a novelist's-eye view." Is Wallace afraid of a plane crash? "No, I think I'm afraid of heights. Actually, I would fly in an emergency; it's just that there haven't been any real emergencies."

SHE BUILT IT HERSELF
Just a weekend job

Eleanor I. Byer, a spry, husky girl of 67, is ensconced in her new home at long last. What is so different about the house is that this grandmother built it all by herself. She did it by dint of more than four years of blood, sweat, a few tears, and a queen-size share of true grit. How did she do it? She bought a lot and an encyclopedia on carpentry—in that order. "I read the book clear through," she says. Then she drove around to construction sites and watched carpenters and masons at work and asked a lot of questions. Except for the wiring and plumbing, she built the house by herself on weekends, from the concrete-slab base to the roof. What was the hardest part of the job? The concrete mixing, which she was doing in a wheelbarrow until a neighbor took pity and loaned her a cement mixer. The 24-foot beams also gave her a little trouble. "They're pretty heavy, you know," she says, demurely.

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY

Pray Tell
By Richard Armour

Each night, as I have done for years,
I pray for all I know
Whose health or plight brings me to tears,
I feel their worries so.
Each night I pray for peace on earth,
For all who starve or suffer.
I pray, I say, for all I'm worth
And it grows ever rougher.
My list has grown so long, I yawn
And sometimes don't get through till dawn.

The Internal Revenue Service deserves a lot of credit. It's brought poverty within the reach of us all!
—Robert O'Brien

One suburbanite picked up so much status last summer by putting artificial grass on his lawn that he's looking into the possibility of covering it with artificial leaves next fall. —C. F. Brooks

THROUGH A CHILD'S EYES
Kids see life differently. Send contributions to "Child," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., N.Y., N.Y. 10022. $10 if used—none returned.

"Why do you always reach for the largest piece?" I asked him. "Don't you think your older brother ought to have that one?"

"Nope," my little one replied, and with logic: "He was eatin' pie five years before I was born."

—Mrs. Mildred Sherrer
Bay City, Texas

The tightwad got married. When the minister concluded the ceremony, the groom said, "I suppose there's a charge for this. What will it be?"

"Let your conscience be your guide," said the minister. "I'm usually paid in accordance with the beauty of the bride."

"Well," grumbled the tightwad, "here's a dollar."

"Thanks," said the minister. Then, glancing at the man's bride, he added, "And here's 75 cents change."

—Gene Yasenak

MR. AND MRS. CLEAN

Each time we go visiting
We always leave the scene,
With my husband saying,
"Gee, their house was clean."
He doesn't seem to realize
The cleanliness detected
Would never be if ever we Walked in unexpected.

LITTLE EMILY

"Well, I turned the other cheek like you said I should, Mom—and lost two teeth!"

Reynolds Wrap® is strong all over. Count on it.

For barbecues everywhere . . . count on strong, versatile Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap. Count on it for extra tear-resistance. Count on it to replace pots and pans, with no messy clean-ups. Count on it to make all your outdoor cooking easier.

2 Texas Pepper Steak.
Cut 1 lb. lean chuck or round beef into thin slices, 2" long. Place beef strips on a large doubled square of Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap. Add 1 clove garlic, chopped; 2 onions, chopped; 2 green peppers and 2 red peppers, cut into ½" strips; 1 tsp. A-1 Sauce; 2 tbsp. salad oil; 1 can (10¾ oz.) beef gravy; 1 can (6 oz.) mushrooms. Mix all ingredients. Seal foil tightly with double fold. Place packet on grill 4" above grey coals, cook 1 hour, turning frequently. Serves 4.

3 Foiled Hotbread.
Wrap your Italian garlic bread in Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap, and warm it on the grill. The flavors blend deliciously.

4 Connecticut Shrimp.
Shell and devein 2 lbs. large fresh shrimp. (Or two 1 lb. packages of frozen shrimp, thawed and drained.) Place shrimp on large doubled square of Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap. Cream ½ cup butter or margarine; add 1 large garlic clove, minced; 1 tsp. A-1 Sauce; ½ tsp. freshly ground black pepper; ½ cup minced parsley. Mix well. Top shrimp with this mixture. Bring foil up and twist tightly to seal. Place on grill 4" over grey coals. Cook 15 minutes. Serves 6.

5 Need an Outdoor Bar?

Just cover them with Reynolds Wrap. The foil reflects the heat.

7 Patio Potatoes.
Peel 3 large baking potatoes. Cut lengthwise into 4-5 slices. Place on square of Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap. Add 3 tbsp. cream, butter, salt, pepper, paprika. Bring up foil, twist tightly at top. Bake on grill over grey coals 1 hour. Serves 4.

We hope you'll count on Reynolds Wrap to make your summer easier. And more fun.

POLLY'S

DEAR POLLY—I do a lot of sewing and have found that ironing a pattern with the iron turned to "Low Heat" makes the pattern pieces flat. They are much easier to pin to the fabric.—CONNIE

DEAR POLLY—One stroke with a cotton ball dampened with alcohol will clean soap and water spots or film of any kind from the bathroom chrome fixtures. This even cuts sediment from around chrome rims and soap depressions. It is quick, inexpensive, antiseptic and does not require rinsing and then drying.—A. C. S.

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, c/o this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY—My old whisk broom had seen its best days, so I cut the worn bristles off at a 45-degree angle, and now I can get to all sorts of places the vacuum cannot reach.—LINDA

DEAR POLLY—All those free games and toys we get from cereal boxes (plus instructions) are put in what we call our "goody bag" which is saved to take along on vacation trips. This helps keep the children amused during a long ride. We shake up the bag and each child, with eyes closed, gets to pick a surprise. They love it.—MRS. J. T. G.

DEAR POLLY—Teen-agers should not throw away those pants that have become too short, but should sew elastic around the bottoms and pull them up below the knees, and have a pair of knickers!—L. K.

DEAR POLLY—When making homemade bread, I bake the loaves in one- or two-pound round coffee cans and find the bread is an excellent substitute for buns when having hamburgers or party sandwiches. The children really go for the size and roundness for toast. —CLEO

DEAR POLLY—It's a real problem to keep head scarves from slipping off. The best way I have found to keep one neat and from slipping is to fit a headband between the folded triangles of the scarf, slide it on and tie under the chin or in the back at the nape of the neck. No pins are necessary and my hair stays neater.—EVELYN

DEAR POLLY—I keep a list taped to the attic door that lists all the items I have stored there. This saves me a lot of time and looking.—MRS. J. B.

DEAR POLLY—Metal eyelets are very popular now, but when put in material without belting they pull out from the slightest strain. A thin cardboard "washer" between the thicknesses of material will keep them from pulling out. Some eyelets are on a cardboard strip, and this can be cut into washers —NORA

(Polly's note: This is basically a good idea, but I feel it is far more practical to use a small square or circle of a sturdy material which would hold up longer than cardboard—particularly if the garment is washable.)
